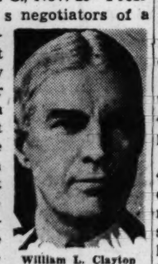
U. S. CONCESSION 'SAVES' DEAL FOR BRITISH LOAN

London Answer on Compromise Plan Is Due Today

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25—President Truman's negotiators of a multibillion dollar loan to Great Britain are now breathing easier but they had a dreadful fright lest the whole deal should go on the rocks. But for the rare presence of mind displayed by the Americans the United States might easily have lost the opportunity offered by the British to help a deserving customer.



William L. Clayton

The negotiations had begun with John Maynard Keynes, ace British economist, and British Ambassador Halifax asking an outright gift of 5 or 6 billion dollars, which they represented as an investment in foreign trade the United States ought to be eager to make. Assistant State Secretary Clayton broke it to the British as gently as possible that congress never would agree to a gift. Then the British were willing to settle for a loan without interest only to learn that the old gentleman known in Britain as Uncle Shylock would insist that he receive as much, or almost as much, interest as he would be compelled to pay to borrow the billions to loan our British cousins.

British Balk

The Americans then submitted a draft of their first proposal of a loan at 2 per cent interest with certain conditions. The British balked at the conditions, so the Americans got up a second draft designed to be more acceptable to the solicitors of financial aid.

But it was not acceptable at all. The British negotiators were mighty wroth. Their lordships—Halifax is an earl and Keynes also a noble lord—chilled the assemblage in the best tradition of the upper classes. Halifax threatened to halt the negotiations and send the British mission back to London.

The earl was quoted as saying that if this were the best the Americans could offer the British might as well "go it alone" for another year or two and then come back and try it again.

United States Makes Concessions

Clayton, the millionaire cotton factor whose business will suffer unless Britain gets dollars to buy cotton, is credited with the salvage of the conference. He leaped into the breach with a new proposal—No. 3. A draft embodying new concessions to the British was produced forthwith and after some haggling was dispatched to London. The British government's reply to this latest proposition is expected tomorrow.

The American proposal is a loan of 3½ billions, plus credit for lend-lease goods on order when peace came, plus credit for American sur-

BARE BILLIONS SPENT BUILDING BASES ABROAD

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25 (AP)—The United States built 3,013 military and other installations in foreign countries at a cost of 2 billion 413 million dollars during the last five years, the commerce department disclosed today.

This was one item in expenditures abroad which totaled 13 billion 45 million dollars during the same period.

This country also shipped abroad 42 billion 21 million dollars' worth of lend-lease aid and more than 800 million dollars' worth of civil relief supplies, Commerce Secretary Wallace said in a report covering federal supply and financial transactions involving foreign countries between July 1, 1940, and June 30, 1945.

Bases Lead List

Ninety-five per cent of the construction abroad consisted of military installations and more than half the total amount spent in construction—one billion 327 million dollars—financed the building of bases in the British commonwealth, the report said.

American expenditures in the British commonwealth included United Kingdom, 23 million; Australia and New Zealand, 238 million; Canada, 370 million; India, 126 million; Bermuda, 77 million; British Caribbean possessions, 186 million; British Pacific islands, 146 millions; Newfoundland and Labrador, 123 million, and other areas, 38 million.

Of the grand total spent on construction abroad, including the British commonwealth, 192 million was spent on Japanese islands taken in the Pacific, 173 million in the Philippines, 252 million in the American republics, 73 million in China, 54 million in Greenland, 122 million in France and her possessions, 67 million in Iran, 64 million in Italy, and 89 million in various other sectors.

The construction figures do not include installations received abroad in reverse lend-lease.

Four Billion for Troops

A summary of the foreign financial and supply transactions prepared by the commerce department office of international trade operations showed:

Of the amount spent abroad, from 4 billion to 5 billion dollars was to purchase food and materials and a similar amount to pay United States troops overseas. Receipts abroad totaled 4 billion 60 million dollars, comprising mainly remittances home by United States troops and payments for goods sold to other countries.

More than two-thirds of 4 billion 400 million dollars' worth of food and materials procured abroad since July 1, 1940, by government agencies other than the military came from Canada and the American republics [especially Cuba and Chile]. Metals and minerals made up nearly half of all reported procurements abroad and sugar, rubber, and fibers another quarter of the total. On June 30, government agencies reported 706 million dollars in commitments to buy additional commodities abroad.

433 Million Special Aid

Government agencies had loans and advances outstanding to foreign governments and concerns totaling 639 million dollars as of June 30, 1945. Another 433 million had been extended to foreign nations, primarily China, as special financial assistance, on which settlement terms remained to be established.

Outstanding commitments for further credits totaled 494 millions on June 30.

On June 30, 1945, inventories of supplies and materials held abroad by agencies other than the military totaled 167 million dollars.

TRAVELS 2,000 MILES FOR HER 93D BIRTHDAY

Returns to Capital After Flight

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25 [Special]—President Truman was back in the White House tonight after an unannounced round trip flight to Grandview, Mo., to spend two hours with his mother on her 93d birthday.

The flight, in which the Presidential plane, the Sacred Cow, covered more than 2,000 miles, was an admittedly spur of the moment affair which the President decided upon after he woke up this morning and found the weather was fine.

Apparently unaware that he was breaking a long time White House precedent in making such a long trip without advance press preparations or notice to his press corps, the President stepped from his plane at the national airport here at 7:14 p. m. [Chicago time] and told newsmen smilingly:

"I took a notion to visit my mother, and I did so."

"Made Her Happier"

He said he found his mother happy and that "I made her happier."

Mr. Truman's family—his wife and daughter, Margaret—was in New York when the President got his early morning inspiration to visit his mother. In Grandview, it had been reported that Mrs. Martha Truman in discussing plans for observance of her birthday, had expressed the hope her son might be able to spare enough time from his official duties to telephone her.

Indications were that the President acted swiftly to put his whim into execution. The crew of the Sacred Cow got orders to ready the giant plane for an immediate journey. Accompanied only by Leslie Biffle, secretary of the senate, and Brig. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, military aide, the President climbed aboard at 7:28 a. m. Others on the plane were secret service men and crew members.

The plane was half way across the nation before the White House press corps knew the President had left the capital. There was no official announcement until Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said shortly before 4 p. m. that the plane was already on its way back to Washington.

Secret Service Alerted

The Kansas City office of the secret service was alerted in time to dispatch men to the airport at Grandview before the plane arrived shortly after noon. Word of the President's trip had been flashed to the Truman home in Grandview, however, and he was met at the airport by his mother, his sister, Mary Truman, and his brother, J. Vivian Truman.

The party motored to Mrs. Truman's home, where the President chatted with his mother while his sister prepared lunch. The mother then presided at the luncheon with her three children around her.

The President personally broke the news of his cross-country flight by telephoning a Kansas City, Mo., newspaper before he boarded his plane for the return trip.

Trip "Not a Precedent"

The Presidential plane left Grandview on the return trip at 3:18 p. m.

Asked after his return if the trip was to be a precedent indicating the press was hereafter to be uninformed in advance of the President's movements, Mr. Truman said, "No, no, it was just a case of a man spending a couple of hours with his mother."

GI Wife, Baby Arrive in U. S. as Stowaways

Boston, Mass., Nov. 25 [Special]—The first GI baby stowaway of World War II. arrived here today aboard the troopship New Zealand Victory. He is Joseph Ralph Maresco, 8 months old.

Joseph's mother, the former Winifred Mary Donnelly, 25, of Birkenhead, Cheshire, England, and formerly a member of Britain's women's land army, was with him. She was proud, triumphant and scared.

"I hope they let us stay," she exclaimed as an immigration cutter brought her and the baby ashore while their ship waited in Boston harbor for the berth at the docks.

Husband Unaware of Plan

Her first act ashore was to dispatch a wire to her husband, Ralph Joseph Maresco of Corona, New York, who came home from Europe several weeks ago and has been discharged from the army. She said she had not written him of her plans to become a stowaway with the baby on an American troopship and that their arrival would be a complete surprise to him.

Immigration authorities announced a few hours later that former Pvt. Maresco had answered his wife's wire and informed her he was starting for Boston at once. His arrival was expected early tomorrow.

"I was desperate," Mrs. Maresco told newsmen. "I had tried everything I could think of to get here and rejoin my husband and have Joe brought up as an American citizen. I am one of 50,000 English girls who married American soldiers and who want to join their husbands here."

Married 18 Months Ago

She and Pvt. Maresco were married 18 months ago in England, she said, after they had met at a party of the women's land army.

She had the help of her brother, Joe Donnelly, a British soldier, in getting aboard the New Zealand Victory, she said. They went to Liverpool, where the boat was being loaded with American troops, and her brother walked up the gangplank with her suitcase and picked out a hiding place for her in the ship's emergency generator room.

"I came aboard about midnight, carrying my baby," she said. "No one said anything to me. I went into the generator room, and the baby and I stayed there from Saturday midnight until the following Tuesday."

Provide Her With Cabin

She had no food during this time, she said, but fed the baby from cans of condensed milk she brought with her in a paper bag. She was driven from her hiding place by hunger on Tuesday, but found the ship at sea, and the ship's officers at once provided a cabin for her and the baby. She had the best of food for the remainder of the voyage.

She had no hat or gloves and was wearing a tan camel's hair coat over a tan dress. Her suitcase was a battered traveling bag held together with rope.

Immigration authorities said they will keep her and the baby in detention at their headquarters here pending a hearing tomorrow before immigration officers in the federal building.

REGENT OF GREECE CHANGES HIS MIND ABOUT RESIGNING

ATHENS, Greece, Nov. 25 [Reuters]—Archbishop Damaskinos, regent of Greece, withdrew his resignation after personal appeals by Lincoln McVeagh, United States ambassador to Greece, and Ernest Bevin, British foreign secretary, it was disclosed by the regent's office tonight.

McVeagh was quoted as saying that the regent's resignation would have "a most unhappy effect on public opinion in the United States."

Bevin is stated to have told the regent that insistence on resigning would cause "a terrible disappointment to the British people and the British parliament."

WOMAN FACING TRIAL TODAY IN NURSE SLAYING

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 25 [Special]—Auburn haired Annie Irene Mansfeldt, 45, goes on trial tomorrow charged with the murder of Nurse Vada Martin, 36, whom she suspected of having an affair with her husband, Dr. John H. Mansfeldt. The slaying occurred Oct. 4 as the two women sat in an automobile. Dr. Mansfeldt committed suicide Oct. 6.

Mrs. Mansfeldt has pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity. Defense attorneys said they will attempt to prove that Mrs. Mansfeldt fired the gun while under the influence of sedatives allegedly administered by her husband.

Mrs. Martin was employed at a local hospital. She was the wife of a navy warrant officer.

Tree Straightens Up, Crushes Boy to Death

New York, Nov. 25 (AP)—Walter Leonard Jr., 4, was killed today when a 20 foot trunk of an oak tree which had been partly uprooted during a recent storm suddenly righted itself and crushed the youngster who was playing in the hole left by the uprooting, police said.

Vienna Gives Heavy Vote to Socialists

VIENNA, Austria, Nov. 25 (AP)—The Socialist party on the basis of early unofficial returns received a heavy vote in the capital city of Vienna today in Austria's first free elections in 15 years.

No incidents were reported as the country voted for 165 members of the national assembly and 408 members of provincial assemblies.

Observers had said the main contest for control of the assemblies would be between the Socialist party and the Volkspartei, which is regarded as very strong in the provinces. The Socialists, led by Premier Karl Renner, are regarded as middle-of-the-roaders; the Volkspartei, the right wing, and the Communists the left.

[The Graz radio said tonight that 80 per cent of eligible voters in the country cast ballots, with more than 90 per cent turning out in Vienna. In rural areas allied occupation force trucks carried voters to polling centers.]

Quiet Day in Vienna

Vienna voted quietly and there were longer lines before movie houses than polling places. The streets were littered with handbills given out by the contending parties in last minute exhortations.

The last opportunity Austrians had to participate in an election was foiled by the nazi occupation of the country. Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg on March 9, 1938, called for a plebiscite to determine whether the country wished to remain independent of Germany, but Hitler moved in two days later.

Under the Austrian proportional system, the majority party does not win all the seats, but all parties are given representation according to the percentage of the vote polled.

People's Party Leads

BREGENZ, Austria, Nov. 25 [Reuters]—The Austrian People's party [Catholic] today won a clearcut victory in the province of Vorarlberg, in the French occupied zone adjoining Switzerland.

A final check is still to be made but according to preliminary reports the Catholic People's party polled 70 percent of the votes, the Social Democrats [Socialists] 28 per cent and the Communists two per cent.

More than 90 per cent of those qualified to vote went to the polling booths.

BRITISH PLANES BOMB 2 JAVA RADIO STATIONS

Fights Raging in 5 Indonese Cities

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 25 (AP)—British authorities sent rocket firing Mosquito bombers into action for the first time today as fighting raged in Soerabaja, Semarang, Batavia, and Ambarawa, and spread to Bandoeng, Java's summer capital.

The Mosquitos struck their first blow at Indonesian radio stations at Soerakarta and Jogjakarta, which a British spokesman said had been pouring out propaganda inciting the people to war against the British.

The pilots, ordered to wipe out the stations, attacked an hour after allied planes had dropped warning leaflets. Thirteen direct rocket hits were made on the Jogjakarta station and nine on the Soerakarta station.

100 Indonesians Killed

The heaviest fighting was at Soerabaja and Semarang, where the Indonesians hurled counter-attacks against the British without regard to loss of lives. Correspondent Vern Haugland reported 100 Indonesians were killed in Soerabaja in the last 24 hours.

Despite two strong Indonesian attacks the British extended their forces east and west of the big naval base and occupied the entire Soerabaja peninsula, about four miles square.

Aided by American made Sherman tanks, British Indian units occupied the thinly settled area east from the Goebeng railway yards to the Tambangoji canal in a sector about 1,500 yards square.

Shell British Positions

A British statement said Indonesian forces shelled British positions in Soerabaja during the night in the heaviest artillery attack yet experienced. About 30 shells were dropped in the British headquarters area.

At Semarang, a British report said, 1,000 Indonesians, including 400 well armed units of the TKR [peace preservation corps], attacked British positions, but were driven off. Some native settlements in Semarang were cleared.

The British cruiser Sussex arrived at Semarang and landed a small force of royal marines as reenforcements.

The British expressed concern over what they described as a carefully planned uprising at Bandoeng.

Aneta news agency said, however, that armed bands were roaming the streets of Bandoeng tonight and that shooting had broken out again around the hotel. The Indonesians were said to have set up roadblocks on the outskirts.

At Ambarawa, Indonesians attacked internment camp No. 8, east of the town. Aneta also reported a new flare-up of fighting in Batavia, where tank led British Seaforth Highlanders were said to have smashed an Indonesian roadblock.

The national committee of the Indonesian government met in Batavia and heard Premier Sjahrir counsel patience among the people.

"I can see from your attitude that you are often close to despair," he told the 140 delegates gathered from all parts of Java. "Whatever the difficulties, our cause stands strong amid the typhoons and storms which endanger our countrymen. We cannot be forced to follow a road we do not wish to take."

British Deny Using Japs

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25 (AP)—A British official report said today Japanese prisoner of war troops had never been used in any offensive action against Indonesians.

The statement came from the foreign office in London quoting Adm. Mountbatten, supreme allied commander in Java.

"They had been used for guard duty and defended themselves when attacked," the announcement said. "Many Japanese whom it has so far proved impossible to disarm are siding with the Indonesian insurgents."

Tells Police He Killed to Save Mother

Victor Gervais, 21, discharged European theater veteran, shot and killed his stepfather, Frank L. Foote, 47, a World War I. veteran, last night in a quarrel which he told police resulted when he attempted to defend his mother from the older man.

Frank L. Foote

The slaying took place about 9 p. m. in front of their home at 4639 Wentworth av., where Detectives George Gore and Thomas Cassidy, attracted by the shot, found the three principals of the tragedy.

Foote, a gasoline station attendant, was lying on the sidewalk with a bullet wound near the heart. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Evangelical hospital.

Mother Witnesses Slaying

Standing near the body with a pistol in his hand, was Gervais and near him was his mother, Mrs. Clara Foote, 45, who witnessed the slaying.

Mrs. Foote called a police squad to her home at 7 p. m. to arrest Foote on a charge of beating her. He ran out before the squad arrived, however, and drove off in her automobile, parked in front of the restaurant she operates at the Wentworth avenue address.

Before the police squad called, Mrs. Foote slipped into her coat pocket a German automatic pistol which her son said he brought home when he received his discharge a month ago.

Pleads for Protection

Mrs. Foote implored her son to remain with her because she feared Foote intended to kill her and she accompanied him to 45th st. and Wentworth av., so that he could cancel an engagement he had made. On their return to the restaurant, Foote drove up in his wife's car and alighted.

Mrs. Foote passed the pistol to her son as Foote advanced toward them. After an exchange of words between the two men, Mrs. Foote said she heard the shot and saw her husband fall.

The Footes were married seven years. They were the parents of three children, Bonnie, 2; Melvin, 4, and Glenn, 5. In addition to Victor, former army technician 5th grade, Mrs. Foote has another son, William, 10, and two daughters, Viola and Gloria. All the children live in the Foote home.

ARCHAIC CODES BLOCK BUILDING, WIRTH ASSERTS

Archaic building codes and monopolies in labor and materials are blocking home building in the greatest housing crisis in the country's history, Louis Wirth, professor of sociology at the University of Chicago, said yesterday on the university's round table broadcast.

"American business men have the greatest opportunity of their lives to do a real job of creating a construction industry in which present restrictive practices will be eliminated and housing will be produced in factories," he said.

An annual wage for building craftsmen was suggested by Wayne McMillen, a member of the Chicago housing authority and professor of social service on the midway, as a means of reducing building costs. He said there is enough building in prospect to keep the workers employed the year around.

NEHRU'S SISTER, IN U. S., DEFENDS BOSE AS PATRIOT

Demands Britain Cease Imperialistic War

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 25 [Special]—Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, sister of Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, Indian congress leader, asserted here today that Subhas Chandra Bose, who attempted with Japanese aid, to organize an Indian army to fight the British, is a patriot in the eyes of the Indian people.

Vijaya Pandit, a former minister of education and local self-government in the Indian government and only woman ever to hold a cabinet post in India, spoke at a civic reception sponsored by the Michigan chapter of the All-India Brotherhood Association of America.

She coupled her defense of Bose, who has been termed a "Quisling" in large sections of the British and American press, with an appeal to Americans to demand that Britain cease using American war materials to reinstate imperialism in southeast Asia and the Dutch colonies.

[The death of Bose in a Tokyo hospital after an airplane crash in Formosa was reported by the Tokyo radio a few days after Japan's surrender.]

Explains Outbreak

Recent outbreaks in Calcutta are a spontaneous protest led by students against the war trials in Delhi of the leaders of the nationalist army organized by Bose, she said.

"Altho I do not personally approve of Bose's policies in seeking the aid of the Japs, I am absolutely convinced that Bose is a patriot in the eyes of the Indian people," she said.

"These people cannot be compared with the war criminals in Europe by any stretch of imagination because, unlike European criminals, Indians have been and are subjects dominated by the British. It is preposterous to refer to Bose as a Quisling, for he was only trying to use the Japanese to liberate his country from Britain. The strategy failed, but he is no Quisling."

Resentment Against U. S.

She asserted that America's moral prestige in Asia is wrapped up with the problem of freedom for all colonial peoples.

"Colonial peoples deeply resent the use of American war materials to crush the Indonesians," she said. "Without the aid of American capital and materials, none of the imperialistic powers are in a position to restore the status quo. Therefore America is morally responsible for what is happening today in southeast Asia."

Use of Indian troops by the British against the Indonesians was strongly condemned by the speaker, who said the British should "do the dirty work themselves" instead of calling on Indian troops in Java.

Criticizes Attlee

She charged the Labor party with blindly following in the footsteps of the Tories, and said Prime Minister Attlee has done nothing to inspire confidence among the peoples of India.

She was accompanied to Detroit by Dr. Anup Singh, secretary of the National Committee for India's Freedom, and Dr. Syud Hossain, chairman of the committee and former editor of the Bombay Chronicle. She will speak Monday at Columbia university in New York and later will address Indians of Canada at a rally in Vancouver, B. C.

POOR BUTTERFLY TAUGHT BY GIs SHE IS HUMAN

Yanks' Manners Make Hit with Girls

BY DONALD STARR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

TOKYO, Nov. 25—The uninhibited GIs, strolling thru the streets and parks of Tokyo, have started a revolution that is shaking the foundation of the Japanese social structure. Their gentlemanly manners and love making proclivities are having their effect on the women to a point that may affect the nation's political future.

Before the war the women of Japan were taught three obediences—to one's father before marriage, to one's husband after marriage, and to one's son in later years. They knew nothing about love and romance. Marriages were arranged by their parents.

When the war ended and word spread that the Americans would occupy Japan, panic gripped the fair sex of all ages. Yokohama officials warned all girls and women to evacuate. For days the troops camped out in the port area there without seeing a single girl. Thousands of them had fled to the hills and remote rural areas. It was almost two weeks before there was a noticeable change.

They Learn Different

Word eventually went around that all this talk of brutal American behavior to women was nothing but propaganda. As the third month of occupation draws to a close, the girls are beginning to flirt openly with the GIs. The older women smile when the Americans rise to offer them seats in street cars and trains. They even seem to take secret delight in watching the troops order Japanese men around on building projects, and force men to do cleaning jobs that women have performed for hundreds of years.

The girls are now flocking to places where they can find GIs—in parks, around barracks, in shopping centers. They taught the Americans a few words of Japanese, and learned a few words of English in return.

Girls Discover Love

From such a beginning, love flowered in many a girl's heart, altho few GIs realized it. Girls who had even slight contacts with Americans learned that they are more than door mats. Their social and political status has been raised to that of men for the first time, and they are discovering love.

All is not hearts and flowers. Young Americans are going to leave countless "Poor Butterflies" behind them when they return home.

MACARTHUR IS GLAD BOARD TO STUDY HIS WOES AT THE SOURCE

TOKYO, Nov. 25 (AP)—Gen. MacArthur today expressed the "greatest satisfaction" at the decision of the far eastern advisory commission to visit Japan. The commission, composed of representatives of 10 allied governments, said Friday, in Washington, D. C., it would be a mistake to consider in a purely academic atmosphere the problems connected with control of Japan, and therefore it would visit that country.

MacArthur said the commission would see "at first hand actual conditions as they exist" and its advice and guidance "in the complicated problems that confront me cannot fail to be of the greatest possible assistance and support." He added: "Unfortunately there has been much of misinformation, at times resembling false propaganda, circulated thruout the world even from high sources, which has tended to becloud not only the truth about problems here but apparently has been designed to influence international opinions and international policies.

"Nothing would please me more than to have this distinguished commission ascertain by actual observation the facts as they exist."

DEMAND PROBE OF POLICE ROLE IN INDIA RIOTS

CALCUTTA, India, Nov. 25 (AP)—Indian newspapers demanded today a searching inquiry into the part played by police in riots which broke out Wednesday and resulted in scores of casualties in various parts of India.

The newspapers also called for a thoro probe of the trial of members of the Indian national army as war criminals. The national army was organized in Burma to fight against the allies.

At least 37 persons, including one American soldier, were killed in the disorders which followed demonstra-

LEYTE DECISIVE, YAMASHITA AND M'ARTHUR AGREE

BY LOWELL LIMPUS

[New York News Staff Correspondent]

MANILA, Nov. 25—Within the last six weeks I have had the extraordinary experience of discussing the pros and cons of one of the greatest duels of all military history with the opposing first commanders. At Tokyo I talked at length with Gen. MacArthur; and here in his prison cell I have just talked with Gen. Yamashita.

Present at this second interview with the man now on trial for his life as a war criminal were two other Japanese generals, Lt. Gen. Akira Muto and Maj. Gen. Naokata Utsunomiya.

The prisoners sat around a battered table in their undershirts drinking lukewarm water out of canteen cups and chain-smoking. Yamashita used match boxes, ashtrays, a fan, and a cigaret holder to illustrate strategic moves.

Leyte Battle Decisive

Leyte, he told us, was undoubtedly the decisive battle of the Philippines campaign and consequently of the war—in which MacArthur agrees. But while MacArthur thinks the Japs had a chance until he sent Maj. Gen. A. B. Bruce with the 77th division to rake the enemy's rear at Ormoc, Yamashita said the battle was lost before that.

"We never had a chance to get in our reinforcements—we simply had no shipping," he said.

MacArthur thinks his original defense of Luzon at the beginning of the war, leading to Bataan, was his best performance. But, as Yamashita viewed it:

"The best tactical stroke delivered by either side during the war was by the Americans, and it is hard to limit it to a single operation because it really consisted of the continuous perfect coördination of your air, naval and ground forces.

Outguessed Each Other

"That's what crushed us. But if you want to nail it down to a single battle, I felt your efforts were most successful at Balete pass."

These comparative interviews indicated that MacArthur and Yamashita outguessed each other at critical moments, but the instance when MacArthur snatched the advantage proved fatal for the Japs, while Yamashita's temporary gain achieved nothing.

MacArthur delivered his smashing stroke at Lingayen gulf by driving in where the Japanese commander wasn't expecting him. But Yamashita still believes he would have parried the blow if the Americans had only walked into the trap he had prepared a few miles away. For he said:

"If the Americans had attempted to storm my prepared positions I believe a complete break-thru would have been very difficult—probably impossible. There I had the advantage of terrain."

Knew Mindoro Was Feint

However, MacArthur outgeneraled him and got a foothold in Luzon, while Yamashita's seven divisions were drawn up in defense positions stretching from Parri to southern Luzon.

Yamashita still claims credit for outguessing MacArthur when the latter invaded Mindoro.

"I knew from the first," he explained, "that it was a feint. I wasn't fooled for a minute in expecting an attack on nearby Manila. So I didn't draw my troops southward, as most military analysts seem to think."

When I asked Yamashita how many troops he got safely back from Leyte to Luzon the stocky Jap shrugged his shoulders and expressively held up his thumb and forefinger, snapping out in English:

"Zero!"

Yamashita classified his retreat to the Tarlac valley after the Lingayen landing as a delaying action. From the hills of northern Luzon he attempted raids after the American breakthru, he explained.

He recognized that MacArthur was using "multiple envelopment," which paid off in victory. He got very busy moving everything on the table to show how MacArthur's forces surrounded and crushed him.

Yamashita never mentioned MacArthur's name. Instead he kept saying: "You Americans did this," or "the Americans did that."

Changed by Atom Bomb

Yamashita flatly declared:

"My experience in this war and my observation of the use of such weapons as the atom bomb and long-range bombers make me believe that they amount to a revolutionary change in military principles, and this will require a complete upset of the strategy and tactics heretofore taught to all the armies of the world. You'll have to change your textbooks at West Point and Annapolis."

BRITAIN IMPOSES EMBARGO, SAYS CANADIAN PAPER

Charges Prosperity of Dominion Is Involved

BY FRANK HUGHES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 25—The Financial Post of Toronto, Canadian equivalent of the Wall Street Journal, charged today that England is enforcing an embargo against Canadian manufactured goods which seriously threatens Canadian jobs and prosperity.

The Post also charged that Prime Minister Attlee's statement on English trade policy at a recent press conference here, "has shocked the community," and that United Kingdom policies "are obviously in direct variance" with what the prime minister said.

"Mr. Attlee is either grossly ignorant of the present policy of his ministers or he is guilty of using the English language in an extraordinary and misleading manner," the weekly financial paper said in a front page editorial.

Denies Edict on Factories

Attlee told reporters that "it is not true that his majesty's government in the United Kingdom have told Canadian firms that they can only do business in the United Kingdom and the sterling area if they erect plants there."

"Here is what is happening," the Post editorial said.

"The Canadian manufacturer with substantial sales in the United Kingdom market is invited to talk with a representative of the [British] board of trade. . . . Board of trade officialdom tells the Canadian of Britain's serious economic plight, and that to conserve dollar exchange Britain is henceforth refusing to let that Canadian's goods into Britain.

"That is the official end of the business. The Canadian finds Britain's doors are closed tight against him. Naturally and almost inevitably the enterprising Canadian then says something like this: Does that mean that the only way I can continue to sell in the British market is to build a plant in Britain?

"To that query, it seems, British officialdom leaps like a trout and the Canadian finds he is warmly encouraged to do so and he may even get semi-official help."

Fear Extended Embargo

The Post warns that "it is quite within logic," that the British embargo may even be carried to such immensely important export items as flour and bacon. "Because Britain 'banks' for the sterling bloc, another possibility Canadians should reckon with is that our sales to sterling area countries, such as other parts of the empire, Scandinavia, Holland, Belgium, etc., might also be blocked," the editorial said.

"It must be recognized that a good many branch plants of United States' concerns are in Canada chiefly because of the access that location gave them to United Kingdom markets. British policy threatens to destroy the reason for existence of these plants here, and virtually to force their transfer to the United Kingdom," the paper pointed out.

In an accompanying news story, the Post named several Canadian firms whose exports to Britain have been banned and who are being forced to open factories in England.

Typical of the firms in this class are the Quaker Oats company of Peterborough, which before the war did a 3 to 5 million dollar export to Britain, and Beatty Bros of Fergus, Ont., with a million a year prewar export.

HULL TO CONTINUE TESTIMONY TODAY AT HAWAII INQUIRY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24 (AP)—Cordell Hull will return to the capitol tomorrow to give congressional investigators another chapter of his story of the diplomatic negotiations prior to the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

The former state secretary presented the senate-house inquiry group with a 20,000 word written statement and a stack of documents Friday, then answered questions for 45 minutes, but there are still a lot of queries the committee members want to put to him.

Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.] said he intends to ask "some of the questions Mr. Welles was unable to answer."

Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state during the period under review, frequently replied "I have no knowledge of that" when Ferguson cross-examined him at length yesterday.

U. S. NAVY FLYING SAILOR'S FAMILY FROM N. ZEALAND

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, Nov. 25 (AP)—Mrs. William T. Bingham and her two baby daughters took off today on the first lap of a special flight arranged by the United States navy in order that her husband, a United States sailor reported going blind in Charleston, S. C., naval hospital, could see his children.

Accompanied by a naval nurse, E. C. Bowman, Mrs. Bingham and her daughters, Dianne, 2, and Jenny, 9 months, left Auckland this morning in a Catalina flying boat provided by Adm. Paul Hendren.

The Binghams were married in New Zealand where the sailor was stationed. He contracted an eye infection while on Pacific service. He has never seen his younger daughter.

Gen. Eisenhower 'Resting Comfortably,' Says Army

GRILL JAP CAMP BOSS ON FOOD FOR PRISONERS

Court Told Yanks Got 'Sufficient'

BY ROBERT CROMIE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 26 [Monday]—The trial commission sitting in judgment of Gen. Yamashita today called its own witness, Lt. Gen. Shiyoki Kou, a Korean who until early January was in charge of all prisoner camps in the Philippines.

Kou, an unimpressive little figure in a shabby uniform adorned with three rows of faded ribbons, made a formal bow to the commission, then sat erect on the edge of the witness chair, both hands gripping the chair arms firmly.

Under questioning by Capt. D. C. Hill of the prosecution staff, Kou said he had visited both war prisoner and civilian internee camps several times and that he had always found sufficient food, clothing, and sanitary facilities.

How Large Is Meat?

When he told of seeing rice with four or five pieces of meat served at Santo Tomas internee camp, the commission president, Maj. Gen. R. B. Reynolds, asked how large were these pieces.

At this point Lt. Gen. Akira Muto, Yamashita's chief of staff, grinned at the witness and Muto—almost to himself—made motions with his fingers indicating pieces of infinitesimal size. Kou, however, said they were about three centimeters long by two centimeters [less than a cubic inch].

The defense complained that the interpretation was bad—that Kou, according to their Japanese expert, had never said how many pieces of meat each person got. The prosecution's Japanese expert agreed the interpretation was bad, but said what Kou actually said was not meat at all, but meat sauce.

Kou also stated that no Red Cross parcels arrived for the prisoners while he was in command and denied he had any parcels stored in his headquarters.

Tells of Ship Crowding

He said camp commanders did not have the power to order execution of prisoners—that this was done only thru military courts martial.

Kou said terms of the Geneva convention were carried out, but that there were "some variations." The most important of these, he said, was that when prisoners were requisitioned for labor no prison camp was set up near-by. On the contrary, he said, the commander of the unit desiring such work was put in complete charge of the prisoners.

At the request of Gen. Reynolds, Kou was asked about the shipment of 1,600 American prisoners of war aboard the Jap steamship Oroku Maru last December. He admitted he had inspected the ship and found its holds jammed so tightly with prisoners that they had difficulty lying down, but passed the buck by saying that the responsibility of loading belonged to the maritime command. He had asked for space for 1,600 prisoners and this single ship was all that was provided, he said.

He said the prisoners had a latrine on deck and that unless it rained there was no ventilation thru open hatchways.

MOSCOW RADIO BLASTS 'CERTAIN' PAPERS IN U. S.

LONDON, Nov. 25 (AP)—Moscow radio's "Analyser" tonight attacked several American newspapers and declared that a "certain part of the press abroad is actually engaged in fostering another world war." Speaking in English, the "Analyser" asserted that "some American and British journalists are saying things that should make Goebbels smile in his grave."

The speaker took a dim view of foreigners who "are even anxious to export their particular brand of freedom of the press to other countries." "As a matter of fact," he said, "proposals have been made time and again to use the economic power of the United States for the purpose of forcing the American conception of freedom of the press on some European nations."

The Russian singled out "things published by the New York Daily News"; what he described as Hearst newspapers' "fantastic inventions," and several articles in the New York Times which he said "misrepresented in a most vicious manner the situation in Poland and Korea."

Russians Claim Experts Get New Cosmic Ray Data

MOSCOW, Nov. 25 (AP)—The government newspaper Izvestia said today that new information about the action of cosmic rays at high altitudes was obtained by observers in a soviet substratosphere balloon which ascended from Moscow Thursday. The balloon landed near Kiev after a flight of 17 hours and 40 minutes, during which it drifted almost 500 miles.

HIROHITO READS RESCRIPT TO JAP DIET TOMORROW

TOKYO, Nov. 26 [Monday] (AP)—The second extraordinary session of the diet since the occupation was convoked today amid indications that Premier Shidehara in a one-hour speech Wednesday will emphasize "close relationship between the emperor and the people" as a plea for unity on domestic issues.

Emperor Hirohito personally will read an imperial rescript before a plenary session tomorrow to outline the scope of the business session. It will order the diet to abolish repressive laws.

Japanese said Shidehara, in a speech covering the entire range of government problems, would devote considerable attention to new directives from Gen. MacArthur. These directives abolished war pensions and ordered a heavy war time profits tax.

Cabinet May Fall

The premier also will discuss at length plans for improving the people's livelihood, including contemplated measures for relief of war sufferers and war wounded. The cabinet, which had been working with American authorities on the new directives, approved the speech shortly before the directives were issued.

The life of the Shidehara cabinet appeared to have been shortened by the new economic directive—which delivered a solar plexus blow with the elimination of military pensions—and the cabinet downfall is expected after the diet session.

The pension issue crowns a series of unsolved domestic problems certain to bring sharp criticism to the government from the diet. In addition to the headaches of food and housing, the newspapers reported a new crisis approaching as a coal shortage threatens to force suspension of key industries manufacturing reconversion products. Some steel plants, the press said, already have been shut down.

Will Win Support

The new supreme headquarters order for the heavy war time profits tax probably will give Premier Shidehara little trouble. It is certain to win overwhelming public support.

The suspended payment of war indemnities likewise can be sold to the country, particularly since the directive includes a clause mollifying industry.

The elimination of the pensions, however, hit the people, already restless over problems of personal livelihood.

Hot Debate Expected

Kyodo news agency, terming the military pensions a cancer to state finances, said that originally the contemplated pension payments for the 1945-'46 budget totaled nearly 2,000,000,000 yen. Pensions were paid last year to 1,630,000 persons of whom 87 per cent were service men, and more were expected to benefit next year.

Altho the directive gives the government until Feb. 1 to comply with the pension elimination, the proper machinery for the change must be approved at this diet session. The measure is expected to precipitate hot debate on the method, with the politicians attempting to make a show of putting up a fight.

The Shidehara government will be forced to take the responsibility for the directive, just as the Higashi Kuni cabinet was forced into responsibility for Gen. MacArthur's order for the elimination of the repressive Japanese war time laws.

SWEDEN READY TO GIVE RUSSIA REFUGEE TROOPS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 25—Despite protests from church leaders and other important sections of Swedish opinion, the Swedish government today continued preparations to surrender to Russia 2,000 German troops and 157 Baltic states soldiers, from the former eastern front, who fled to Sweden.

A Russian steamer is expected at Trelleborg tomorrow, to embark the refugees. The Swedish authorities have drafted extra armed military police to the camp area. The police will escort the refugees from the camp to the ship's side. Railway coaches are standing ready to take the refugees during the night of Nov. 26-27.

The Swedish authorities met the refugees' threat of mass suicide by removing all glassware from the train, and during the journey to Trelleborg Swedish guards will travel with the refugees to frustrate the latter's threats to throw themselves from he train. One suicide attempt among the Balts occurred in camp last night, it is reported.

GIBRALTAR ASKS TO HAVE VOTE IN PARLIAMENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 25—Gibraltar wants to become a British town, or part of one, so it can have a member of parliament, and to advance such a request, the strategic fortress' Association for the Advancement of Civil Rights has sent a delegation to London. Colonial Secretary George Hall is said to have given it a full and sympathetic hearing.

The Gibraltar delegates want the territory transferred from the colonial office to the home office, like any other English town, which would allow it the parliamentary representation it lacks now. A spokesman for the group said "our immediate demands are for a more democratic form of government, and a change in the present unsympathetic administration."

He said the base's 17,000 population have not been compensated for the material damage suffered during the war, when thousands of civilians evacuated; there is no government compensation for unemployment or illness; there is an acute housing shortage, and no fair level of taxation.

IRAN PROVINCE ASKS SELF-RULE, NOT SECESSION

Disclaims Intention of Splitting Country

TEHRAN, Iran, Nov. 25 (AP)—The self-styled "national congress" of soviet-occupied Azerbaijan province demanded autonomy today from the central Iranian government, but disclaimed any intention of splitting Iran or altering present boundaries.

Iranian government officials have charged that the separatist movement in the province, whose northern frontiers adjoin Russia, has been given encouragement from the outside.

The congress said it intended to attain its goals peacefully, but would fight for them if necessary.

Plan Appeal to Allies

Asserting that Azerbaijanians had "the right to plan our own destiny and acquire autonomy," the congress said its "just and legal demands" would be made known to the central government in Tehran, and also to the United States, Russia, Great Britain, and China.

Willingness to participate in a democratic Iranian government was expressed by the congress, but it announced that a regional parliament would be created to govern Azerbaijan affairs.

The congress, organized last week in the provincial capital of Tabriz, said it based its claims on the principle of self-determination as contained in the Atlantic Charter.

Russia Gives Assurances

MOSCOW, Nov. 25 (AP)—Diplomatic quarters said today that soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov and Iranian Ambassador Madjid Ahy had engaged in full and frank discussions on the situation in Azerbaijan province, and that Molotov had given assurances that Russia would respect Iranian sovereignty.

Molotov was said to have expressed surprise at reports that the Red army troops had refused free passage to Iranian forces in Azerbaijan province, and to have told Ahy that Russia has no intention or desire to interfere with legitimate Iranian troops' movements.

[Iranian government officials said last week that the Russians had refused Persian troops permission to enter the province to quell disturbances.]

Stories of Red army interference have been described here officially as exaggerations. When the Iranian representative brought up a report that weapons were being supplied to Azerbaijan residents from Russian trucks, an official denial was given.

U. S. Asks Information

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25 (AP)—The United States has appealed directly to Moscow, it was learned today, for information on the operations of Red army forces in northern Iran.

The state department declined to say anything about the inquiry. The persons who disclosed that it had been sent could not be quoted by name.

The Iranian affair is rapidly approaching a critical point, in the view of some allied diplomats here, and the soviet union's response to the note dispatched from Washington late last week may determine whether and how quickly the point is reached.

The United States got a legal interest in Iranian affairs two years ago when Roosevelt, Churchill, and Stalin, meeting at Tehran, signed a declaration assuring Iran full independence.

Back to Japan

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 25 (AP)—A party of Japanese, among them several top diplomats, sailed from here today aboard the transport Gen. G. M. Randall, bound for Yokohama and repatriation. There were 184 in the diplomatic party, headed by Lt. Gen. Hiroshi Oshima, Japan's ambassador to Germany at the war's end. More than 1,300 others were from various relocation centers thruout the west.

CROWN PRINCE CALLS ORLANDO IN ITALY CRISIS

ROME, Nov. 25 (AP)—Amid threats of violence and speculation on a monarchist resurgence, elder statesman Vittorio Emanuele Orlando arrived in Rome for a conference tonight with Crown Prince Umberto, lieutenant general of the realm, on the political crisis in which Premier Ferrucio Parri resigned last night.

Vittorio Orlando

Orlando, a colleague of Woodrow Wilson, David Lloyd George, and Georges Clemenceau in the making of the peace after the first World war, is mentioned as a possible successor to Parri. He arrived in a special plane sent by Umberto to the 85 year old former premier's home in Palermo.

A highly placed monarchist said Umberto hoped to resolve the crisis quickly "for the good of the country." There has been speculation that Umberto might attempt to strengthen the role of the monarchists in the Italian government, but there was no official indication whether the crown prince would attempt to form a government outside the committee of national liberation.

COURT TOLD HOW 5 YANK FLYERS WERE BEHEADED

KWAJALEIN, Nov. 25 (AP)—A Korean slave laborer of the Japanese in the Marshall Islands told a United States military court yesterday he saw Japanese soldiers force a mixture of pepper and water into the nostrils of an American airman in an effort to obtain military information from him.

The tortured airman and four companions, crewmen of a downed B-25 bomber, eventually were beheaded on Foxx Island of Mili atoll in the Marshalls.

Ten accused Japanese officers sat impassively during the testimony of the Korean, Anyoky Kanagawa, who asserted he witnessed the beheading of one of the flyers in February, 1944.

Blindfolded at Grave

This is the story pieced together from the testimony of several witnesses on the third day of the trial:

A few Japanese officers and men led one of the B-25 crewmen to the side of a freshly dug grave.

There the youth was forced to sit on the side of the grave, blindfolded and his hands tied behind him.

As an officer counted three, a samurai sword fell across his neck, but did not sever it, and the swordsman had to make a second stroke to complete his job.

Jap Names Defendants

After the beheading, Japanese soldiers bayoneted the body and it was tossed into the grave.

Lt. Comdr. E. F. O'Brien read into the record a statement by Japanese Lt. Comdr. Tokuna, executive officer of Mili atoll, naming several of the defendants as having either swung execution swords or having knowledge of the executions.

CALL WRECKING OF CYCLOTRONS ACT OF PILLAGE

Oak Ridge, Tenn., Nov. 25 (AP)—The wrecking of Japanese cyclotrons is "wanton and stupid to the point of constituting a crime against mankind," the Association of Oak Ridge Scientists asserted in a statement today.

The scientists, who are employed at Clinton laboratories, one of the atomic bomb plants, said the destruction of the equipment reported by Gen. MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters "is entirely analogous to the burning of the Louvain [Belgium] library by the Germans in 1914 and 1940."

The statement, released by the executive committee of the association, said: "The cyclotron is a scientific instrument which is used to discover the fundamental facts of nature. Months of continuous operation by a cyclotron will, at most, produce barely enough bomb material to see; it takes pounds of such material to make one bomb.

"This action will be condemned by all intelligent people thruout the world. The officials responsible for it must be called to account for this act of pillage. Men who cannot distinguish between the usefulness of a research machine and the military importance of a 16 inch gun have no place in positions of authority."

Regional vice commanders included Mike Bartenes of Chicago and S. Bernard Wager of Los Angeles, Cal.

ONE TOUGH YANK MAKES SHANGHAI QUIT ITS GOUGING

Forces Hotels to Cut Prices in Half

BY JOSEPH HEARST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

SHANGHAI, China, Nov. 25—Every one, including Chiang Kai-shek and Lt. Gen. Wedemeyer, talked about Shanghai's ballooning prices, but it remained for Navy Lt. Phil Bucklew of Columbus, O., to do something about it.

Ensign Joe Keenan

When Bucklew was made senior shore patrol officer two weeks ago he knew about the outrageous prices, for he had picked up one check for $125 for a modest dinner for four and a few drinks. But he decided to investigate before going into action. One of his investigators is Ensign Joe Keenan of Chicago, former Wisconsin football star. Another is Frank Ruggieri of South Bend, Ind., former Purdue wrestling star and national collegiate champion.

With men of this caliber checking the hotels, restaurants, and night clubs, Bucklew soon had concrete evidence to back his assertions that American soldiers and sailors were being gouged. When he acted, without official orders, he hit the luxurious Park hotel, one of the city's finest. He put the hotel's dining rooms out of bounds and for two days successfully resisted pressure to lift the ban.

Cut Prices in Half

Yesterday the hotel capitulated and reduced prices 50 per cent on many items.

"I'm not concerned about trying to control liquor prices, but I certainly intend to keep food prices within reason," Bucklew said today. "The situation has gotten to a place where sailors had to spend a month's pay for a few hours liberty, and as I understand shore patrol duty, we're to protect them from these gougers who are getting rich off them."

Bucklew said several places already have voluntarily reduced prices since he cracked down on the Park hotel, and he has been thanked by soldiers for doing a job the army military police hadn't touched.

However, the army may soon come in on Bucklew's campaign, for yesterday Gen. Wedemeyer told correspondents the exploitation of the American military is "resented very much." He said he will put out of bounds all places that do not comply with his recommendations on prices.

Wedemeyer Determined

"This is not a veiled threat, not intimidation," Wedemeyer said. "I'm determined to smash this exploitation of Americans."

The navy allows shore based enlisted men $6.75 and officers $8 a day because of high prices, but, Bucklew says, the men can't eat decently and break even.

"We have data on 50 principal hotels and restaurants and we'll place them out of bounds unless they charge reasonable prices," Bucklew said. "I'm closing two tonight, one of which last night was charging $5 plus a 30 per cent tax and service charges for a whiskey highball. I think that when they realize all American business will be shut off unless they comply, they will get in line. Military police have promised to see that out of bounds signs aren't taken off surreptitiously."

Paper Applauds Him

Bucklew explained he had called on MPs for help because they have about a thousand men on patrol, while he has only about a hundred shore police.

The biggest applause for Bucklew's campaign came from the army's Stars and Stripes, which said editorially: "Bucklew stuck his neck out when he put the Park hotel out of bounds for adding an extra 50 per cent to the already ridiculously high prices. He kept it out thruout the evening when pressure was brought to force him to rescind the order. He stuck to his guns the next day until the management finally saw the light and revoked the price increase.

"And he made it clear the Park hotel case was not an isolated incident but one which could be repeated any time if any other establishment started adding a quart of blood to the pound of flesh it already costs to spend an evening out.

"The Chinese probably wouldn't have tried to bluff Bucklew if they had known a little more about this 30 year old former football star. He holds two navy crosses, the silver star, and the croix de guerre. He was behind German lines in France for six months before the Normandy invasion and behind German lines in Italy two or three months before the invasion, and it was from navy combat teams such as he led that the highly dangerous underwater demolition teams stemmed."

Nationalist Drive

(Story in adjoining column)

HEAR RUSSIANS ASK CHINA FOR NEW PRIVILEGES

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 25 (AP)—The Chinese Communists said today that soviet forces were holding key cities in Manchuria until Chinese Nationalists could arrive to take control, but the Chungking press asserted that the Russians were making new demands as the price of such aid.

The extent of concessions which Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek might have to make to Russia in order to win part control over Manchuria for his central government rather than for the Communists was occasioning conjecture here.

Some observers expressed belief that the demands might entail virtual joint Chinese-Russian dominion over Manchuria.

Alleged Demands Listed

Demands which the China Times alleged were presented to China by Russia beyond the scope of the Chinese-Russian treaty included:

1. Chinese-Russian development of the important Anshan iron and coal mines of Manchuria.
2. Russian navigation rights on the Sungari river of northern Manchuria.
3. Joint Chinese-Russian ownership and operation of all former Japanese and puppet electric enterprises, the Kirin-Heilungkiang gold mine, and the main arsenals of Manchuria.

Communist sources, however, asserted that the Russians were guarding key Manchurian railway points until Nationalist troops could be flown in, and that the Russian attitude toward Chiang's government was "very friendly."

Nationalists Drive Ahead

Regardless of these reports, Nationalist papers indicated that government forces were progressing steadily with their thrusts into Manchuria, announcing the capture intact of Hulutao on Thursday night, thus opening a sealane into the rich territory.

News reports said Nationalist forces yesterday marched into Chinhsien, Pieping-Mukden railroad town 100 miles northeast of the Great Wall. The Communists earlier had predicted that the first real battle for Manchuria would be fought in the vicinity of this vital town.

The seating of Chang Su-aye, a Chahar native, as provincial governor was announced by the Communists, aggravating the break between Chungking and Yenan. Unless the Communists change their minds, however, they are scheduled to send representatives to Chungking within the next two weeks to participate in new peace discussions.

Charge Reds Add Troops

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 26 [Monday] (AP)—The Catholic newspaper Social Welfare said today that the Russians had poured an additional 20,000 troops into Changchun to "maintain peace and order."

At the same time, however, Chinese Communists were permitted to operate broadcasting stations at Changchun and to take over six of seven Chinese newspapers published there, the paper added.

Changchun is the capital of Manchuria toward which nationalist troops are racing in an effort to arrive in time to take over before the Russians evacuate.

8 AMERICAN-JAPS AMONG GI'S AT U. OF BIARRITZ

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BIARRITZ, France, Nov. 25.—Eight Japanese-American GIs are among the 4,000 students at the army's Biarritz American university. Three are painters enrolled in an arts course. They served mostly in Italy.

Pvt. Hiroki Mizushima, 6543 S. University av., Chicago, is an impressionist. Sgt. Takaaki Hirai of Hunt, Ida., plans a career as a commercial artist. Pvt. Saburo Tomita, 1515 W. Monroe st., Chicago, whose studies were interrupted by the war, is taking refresher courses in engineering and studying commerce. The others are taking varied courses.

Altho most of them are short on points all are eyeing the chance to return home and continue their education under the GI bill of rights.

FEUD BLAMED IN SLAYING OF WOMAN, 2 MEN

St. Joseph, Mo., Nov. 25 (AP)—A long standing family feud was blamed by Joseph Sherman, Buchanan county prosecutor, for the shotgun slaying today of two brothers and a wife of one of the men. Sherman said Charles Tiedt, a 51 year old machinist was being held without bond for investigation.

The three killed were Delbert Matchett, 44, his wife, Edna, 37, and his brother, Fred, 29, a chief petty officer in the navy home on leave.

Sherman said Tiedt, in a written statement, asserted that "my children had been having some trouble with the Matchett children." Tiedt has seven children and the Matchetts two. The shooting took place on the Matchett's front porch.

Young Men's Zionist Organization Meets

Massada, the newly formed young men's Zionist organization, held its first public meeting yesterday afternoon at the Stevens hotel. Seymour Weintraub, chairman of the group, explained that its function is threefold, cultural, athletic and social, and membership is limited to men between the ages of 18 and 35. Albert Elazar, a national founder of Massada, and Judge Harry M. Fisher, of the Circuit court, were principal speakers yesterday.

BRITISH CIRCLE 3 JEWISH TOWNS AFTER ATTACKS

Curfew Ordered Along Palestine Coast

JERUSALEM, Nov. 25 (AP)—British air borne troops surrounded three Jewish settlements and ordered a curfew along a large section of the Palestinian coast tonight after a "party of armed Jews" had attacked two coast guard stations and wounded 14 police.

The disorders were believed to be connected with the capture yesterday of the Greek motor schooner Demetrios which brought 200 illegal Jewish immigrants to the Palestine coast. Police arrested 20 of the immigrants, including two girls, but the rest escaped.

Troops of the 6th air borne division were thrown around the Jewish settlements of Givath Haim, Rishbon, and Shefayin. A representative of the local council at Givath Haim threatened to resist any attempt to search the settlement.

Jewish sources at Shefayin reported their leaders were in conference with the British seeking to prevent a search of that colony.

Defies British Commander

"We have nothing to do with last night's attacks and we will resist any military or police searches in our settlement," the Jewish spokesman at Givath Haim told the British commander.

[A Reuter's dispatch stated that thousands of inhabitants of the Jewish town of Hadera, near Tel Aviv, packed into Givath Haim in a maneuver intended to make it impossible for British troops to carry out a search for illegal immigrants. Elderly people and young children took part in the mass movement. Parked and stalled trucks and cars were obstructing the roads, making it difficult for military traffic to move.]

The coast guard stations at Givat Olga and Sidna were wrecked in the attacks, a British bulletin said. An unexploded bomb was found in the Sidna building after the raid.

There were indications that the attackers suffered heavy casualties. They left behind widespread traces of blood and a number of blood-stained bandages. The wounded police included six British members of the Palestinian police force and eight Palestinians.

Curfew Aids Coast Guard

The curfew was ordered by Maj. Gen. A. L. Bols, British military commander of the civil district of Lydda. The measure, effective from 5:30 p. m. to 5:30 a. m., was taken presumably to increase coast guard precautions against ships carrying illegal immigrants.

The restrictions were extended along the entire Palestinian coast to a point about 12 miles south of Jaffa and Tel Aviv. The curfew, however, does not apply to the immediate area of towns and villages.

The clandestine Jewish radio station "Voice of Israel," which broadcasts for the Jewish resistance movement, declared anonymous warnings had been given the police at both coast guard stations "to avoid loss of life," but police disregarded the warnings, opening fire and "compelling the Jewish volunteers to defend themselves with their weapons."

Military patrols, including several airplanes and armored cars, began a search of the area for members of the raiding party.

Inhabitants of several towns were warned that any of the attackers or illegal arms must be turned over to authorities by 5 p. m.

Golden Wedding

[Associated Press Wirephoto]

Uvalde, Tex., Nov. 25 (AP)—The Garner home today overflowed with townspeople, telegrams, yellow flowers and eggnogs.

Mr. and Mrs. John Nance Garner were celebrating their golden wedding anniversary.

Four generations of the Garner family were on hand to greet their multitude of friends; the bushy eyebrowed former Vice President who reached 77 this week; his wife; their only son, Tully; his wife, and their only daughter, Genevieve, with her 1 year old son, John Curry.

The Garners live as private citizens. When Garner retired in 1941 he shut the door on political pronouncements and has devoted himself to overseeing his ranching interests which stretch over 48,000 acres.

Captain Will Finish Novel After Slight Pause for War

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 25 (AP)—An army captain walked into a library here and asked for a copy of a novel, Kate Coplan, library official, said the captain explained he had read as far as page 735 when he went overseas in 1941 and now wanted to finish the book. He has 441 pages to go.

BRITAIN'S REDS DEMAND BEVIN'S SCALP AS 'TORY'

LONDON, Nov. 25 (AP)—The British Communist party today unanimously demanded removal of Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin on the ground that he had continued the foreign policy of the "Tory" government and "endangered peace and economic coöperation."

Bevin's removal was asked in a resolution adopted by the party's 18th convention. It criticized the Labor government's policy on Greece, Spain, the Soviet Union, the "new peoples' governments of Europe" and its attitude toward colonial peoples.

"We must be more critical and more challenging," declared W. Rust, a member of the party's executive committee, who presented the resolution.

Want New People

"Our purpose must be a clear one—to strengthen the labor movement and not to discredit it," Rust said. "The question we have to raise is a change in its composition—the bringing forward of new people and the removal of some people who have proved their worthlessness.

"Number one is the removal of Ernest Bevin from the foreign office."

Communist party General Secretary Harry Pollitt added, "there are bigger things in the world than Ernest Bevin."

Pollitt said the political situation in Greece was "changing for the better because of the amazing strength of the Communist party" and added that Bevin "was now beginning to squeal that he was being let down."

Cautions Against Strikes

Bevin made his "let down" statement in a commons debate on foreign policy Friday, defending the government's stand against an immediate plebiscite on the question of whether the monarchy should be retained. He blamed Greeks in England for difficulties in forming a solid coalition government in Greece.

"He will be let down a good deal more before he has finished," Pollitt declared.

Turning to domestic qustions, Pollitt cautioned the delegates against encouraging the idea of mass strikes.

"You can get a strike in the coal fields tomorrow," he said, "but will it advance the working class movement?"

ARMY'S BIARRITZ STUDY CENTER EXTENDS TERM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BIARRITZ, France, Nov. 25—The United States army's university, established here as a study center for service men and women awaiting transportation home, will be continued for two more terms, it was announced today. Due to close at the end of the present two months' term at the end of December, the university will now be prolonged to May.

Keeping 4,000 students on this Basque coast, and an operational detachment of 600 soldiers, has given much satisfaction to the French inhabitants, and the municipal authorities petitioned the war department to keep the soldier students here. What promised to be a gloomy winter will now be converted into a lively season by the presence of the Americans.

The Biarritz inhabitants were skeptical at first about the American university in their town. They feared it cloaked a move to make a pass at Spain, and that the Yank soldiers might spoil their hotels. The university project is now described as a prime factor in cementing cordial political relations between the French and Americans.

BRITISH SCHEME AS OTHERS PUSH AIR COMMERCE

London Seeks Delay Until She Gets Ready

BY FRANK STURDY
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25—A curious facet of the diplomatic maneuvering for international flying rights is the acceptance of the principle of competition by a number of the more important smaller countries of Europe, while Great Britain, by comparison a colossus, strives for traffic splitting arrangements and seeks to dissuade countries under her influence from making agreements of the sort advocated by the United States.

The "five freedoms," moderate tho their success has been, came closer to an expression of policy acceptable to a majority of nations represented at last year's Chicago air conference than any other formula. The proposals were originated by Canada, a comparatively small but geographically an extremely important country.

The "five freedoms" cover various commercial and technical freedoms of the world's air. One "freedom," the fifth, accords planes of one country the right to accept passengers in a second and land them at destinations in a third country. Without it, United States planes would fly long distances at the ends of their foreign routes with empty seats. The British oppose this fifth freedom.

Dutch Are Busy

In sharp contrast to the tactics of the British, the Netherlands are losing no time in reëstablishing their air lines system, which before the war was one of the best in the world. The Dutch routes extended from Europe to the Netherlands possessions in the East Indies. Known as KLM, the system operated the twin-engined DC-3, which is standard on domestic air lines in the United States.

The Dutch already have purchased from us a number of surplus army C-47s, the military version of the DC-3, and converted them for passenger operations. They are flying in their own country, and on routes in the Caribbean. An application by KLM for an Amsterdam to New York permit is now pending before the civil aeronautics board. The company is preparing to fly the Atlantic with converted Douglas C-54s, the same type American companies operate.

Eager to Compete

Apparently quite willing to face any kind of competition, the Dutch have ratified the five freedoms agreement and are on exactly the same world footing as the United States.

Altho they have not gone as far as the Dutch in this respect, the Scandinavian countries have signed bilateral agreements with the United States by which they agree to trade all five freedoms with this country. The difference is that the Netherlands, the United States, and other countries accepting the five freedoms on an international basis automatically exchange all the rights among themselves, while the bilateral agreements are limited to the two countries involved in each case. Sweden, Norway, and Denmark made individual agreements with us.

A Norse Coöperative

The Swedish Intercontinental Airlines [SILA-Svensk Interkontinental Lufttrafik Aktiebolag], Danish Airlines [DDL-Det Danske Luftfartselskab A/S], and Royal Norwegian Air Transport [RNAT-Norges Lufrfartstyre], will operate across the Atlantic coöperatively.

They have applied for permits to fly into New York from Stockholm, Copenhagen, and Stavanger, via Iceland, Labrador, Newfoundland, and Canada. SILA already has completed trans-Atlantic survey flights with a converted Flying Fortress. Planes of that type, the first to be placed in service, will be supplanted in time with Douglas DC-4s, DC-6s, and Lockheed Constellations, according to present plans.

Meanwhile, the British show no interest in purchasing American planes, preferring, in the opinion of expert observers, to wait until they can get their own transocean land planes in production, even tho it means delay in the opening up of world flying routes.

Built Combat Planes

During the war the British, by agreement with the United States, devoted their capacities for airplane production to military combat types, while the United States, with its far greater resources, produced not only its own combat planes but also cargo and personnel transports for the air forces of both countries. In the British view, they are now handicapped by lack of planes because they devoted all their production to combat types.

The British are preparing to start their world air lines system with bombers converted for passenger carrying, and probably will not get the first of their new long range transocean planes in service until late next year.

"Unless the British get going, they will find that they face competition not only from the United States but also will be far behind such competitors as Holland and the Scandinavians," an executive of an American air line asserted. "The Dutch before the war bought airplanes where they found the best and chose the American ship. They are doing the same thing now. The British have an identical opportunity to secure American planes with which they could get into the race without delaying the start."

Spain and France

Spain and France also have obtained American planes, the French taking twenty DC 3 types for service on their system between France, England, and Africa. The French are now using for the most part Junkers transports left behind by the Germans, or new ones built in French factories that were forced to produce them for the Germans during the occupation. Not until the end of 1947 will the French have types of their own design in production, the French air ministry has said.

A total of 108 American transports have been allocated to foreign countries by the surplus property board.

Both the British and French already have made passes at South America, the pre-war stronghold of Pan-American World Airways and its affiliates, where other American air lines now are planning routes. The British flew a Lancastrian [converted bomber] into Buenos Aires recently as a build-up for their future operation. The French completed a flight from Marseilles to Rio De Janeiro, Buenos Aires, Santiago, and other points, bent on restoring the pre-war prestige of Air France.

Famous Flying Boat

The French flight was made in the famous six-engined Latecoere flying boat, which was almost completed before the war and hidden from the Germans thruout the occupation. It is the only one of its kind, and the French have no other transports of ocean spanning caliber.

SILA [Swedish] already is operating between Stockholm and Prague, Geneva, Paris, London, Brussels, Amsterdam, Oslo, Warsaw, and Copenhagen internationally.

RNAT [Norway] is operating domestically, and internationally between Oslo, Stockholm, Copenhagen, Edinburgh, and London. RNAT is now government operated, a move made necessary by the German occupation. Next spring, the Norwegian parliament will decide whether the line shall remain nationalized or be returned to private ownership.

British Influence Markets

Aside from influencing other countries against giving the United States landing and traffic rights on the desired basis, Britain discourages sterling bloc countries from buying American aircraft, wanting to preserve the market until her own planes are in production and can compete.

The British, controling the largest portion of American dollars in foreign hands, argue that such countries as Egypt, for example, should use what dollars are available to buy articles that cannot be obtained except in the United States, and should purchase airplanes from Britain, which in turn will take Egypt's exports.

AUSTRALIA SENDS GROUP ON TOUR FOR IMMIGRANTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 25—An Australian delegation, which is on a tour seeking 70,000 new settlers for Australia annually, arrived here last night. It will consider extending an invitation to 33,000 Baltic refugees in Sweden.

The leader of the group sent by the Australian government and the Trade Union federation, Leslie Haylen, said: "We have not come to entice people to come to Australia, at least not before our investigation has been submitted to the government. Australia is carrying out a big reconstruction program and is able to receive 70,000 immigrants a year. We will take them from all countries, preferably those ravaged by the war, and want especially families of industrial workmen and technicians. In most European countries interest is enthusiastic, especially in Holland, Switzerland, and Norway."

SECOND WEEKLY LONDON FLIGHT STARTS TODAY

The second weekly flight to London from Chicago will start this morning when an American Airlines plane leaves the Chicago airport.

Passengers on today's flight are Mrs. Netta MacKenzie, 311 N. Central av., a British citizen who is returning to Great Britain to live; Walter Wright, superintendent of the city bureau of parks, aviation, and recreation, and John Casey, Chicago airport manager.

The two city officials said they plan to inspect army airport installations in England in order that any improvements may be incorporated in the new Chicago Douglas airport. Both said they are financing the trip out of their own pockets.

INQUIRY OPENS TODAY IN ESCAPE OF AUSSIE CHIEF

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 25 (AP)—A former Australian army private will sit in judgment on an Australian general tomorrow when judicial investigation is opened into the circumstances of Lt. Gen. Henry Gordon Bennett's escape from Singapore in February, 1942.

The former private is Justice Ligertwood, who served in the first World war in 1914-'18.

Army Made Charges

The investigation was ordered by the Australian government following charges by the Australian army that Bennett, in escaping from Singapore at the time of its surrender to the Japanese, had deserted his post. These charges were investigated by a closed military tribunal appointed by Gen. Thomas Blamey, Australian commander in chief, with whom Bennett has had frequent public clashes.

The report of the military tribunal has not been published, but as a result of its perusal by the government it was decided to hold an open inquiry. Bennett had refused to testify at the military hearing because it was not open to the public.

"Ordered to Escape"

Bennett has maintained consistently since his escape that he left Singapore after, not before, the surrender by British Lt. Gen. Arthur Percival, commander in chief in Malaya. Bennett contended Percival no longer had any authority after the surrender and that Australian generals had been ordered to escape.

It appeared likely that Bennett would demand the appearance of Percival at the inquiry.

INDIANA SLAYER IS EXECUTED IN MICHIGAN CITY

Cleveland Greathouse, 63, of Gary, Ind., former minister of a Baptist church, was electrocuted at 12:07 a. m. today in the Indiana state prison at Michigan City for the murder April 28 of Rebecca Holding, 38, with whom he had been living. Hopeful of another 11th hour reprieve, Greathouse prayed and read the Bible until he was taken to the chair. The prison chaplain, the Rev. Robert Hall, walked with him.

VATICAN SENDS NOTES FOR USE IN NAZIS' TRIAL

Prosecution May Offer Letters This Week

NUERNBERG, Germany, Nov. 25 (AP)—Sixty pages of correspondence between the Vatican and the Nazi government arrived here today for use as evidence against the 20 top Nazis whose trial before the international war crimes tribunal will go into its second week tomorrow. The correspondence was made available by the Vatican.

The Rev. Edmund Walsh, vice president of Georgetown university, who is serving on the staff of United States Prosecutor Robert H. Jackson, began translation of the documents immediately. They probably will be introduced sometime this week.

Jackson, in his opening speech, disclosed that the Vatican had made several protests to the German government against persecution of the church and its priests but that Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, one of the defendants, had never answered them.

20 Carloads of Documents

Lt. Roger Barrett, former Chicago attorney in charge of the documents room at the Palace of Justice building, said more than 20 carloads of documents had been assembled by the American prosecution to prove its case and to assist the British, Russians, and French to prove theirs.

The volume of documentary evidence the Americans intend to present was indicated Friday when members of Jackson's staff introduced approximately 100,000 words before the tribunal. They expect to take all this week to wind up their case.

Barrett is personally responsible for the vast store of documents bearing such signatures as Hitler, Goering, Von Ribbentrop, Keitel, Jodl, Raeder, and Doenitz. He locks away in fireproof cases such documents as are needed in the course of the trial and, whenever they are produced in evidence, he personally hands them to the judges.

The American prosecution, after screening "thousands of tons" of material captured by the victorious American army, brought about 20 carloads to Nuernberg. From these, in turn about 3,000 documents were finally selected for placing in evidence.

Such evidence has hitherto been multigraphed, including those given to the press Friday. The total is estimated at 3,000,000 sheets of paper.

All Papers Indexed

The labyrinth of documents is indexed, multigraphed and filed by a staff of more than 30 clerks headed by Sgt. John E. Back of Kokomo, Ind.

Each document is placed in separate covers, accompanied by summary sheets, concisely indicating its contents, as well as so-called analysis sheets, showing its pertinence as evidence.

Just where the American fund of documents will finally repose has not been settled. All evidence submitted must become a part of the court record, to be deposited wherever the tribunal agrees it should go, but the charter provides that any nation may withdraw original documents and supply photostats instead.

This means that the United States retains title to everything, for instance, bearing Hitler's signature.

May Call Lindbergh

LONDON, Nov. 25 (AP)—An Exchange telegraph dispatch tonight from Nuernberg said that Hermann Goering's defense counsel, Dr. Otto Stahmer, had announced that he intended to call Col. Charles A. Lindbergh as a witness.

The dispatch added that Stahmer did not disclose "what evidence he would seek from Lindbergh."

Lindbergh's Statement

Fairfield, Conn., Nov. 25 (AP)—Asked about reports that counsel for Hermann Goering would ask that he be called as a witness at the Nuernberg trial, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh issued the following statement at his home here today:

"I have received no such request:

"My contacts with Goering were arranged by officers of the American embassy, one of them at the personal request of the American ambassador. The information I obtained on my trips thru Germany is in war and state department reports.

"If I were asked to testify at Nuernberg, I would be guided now, as I was guided before, by the advice of appropriate officers of my government."

DIES AFTER TAKING SLEEPING PILLS

Jack D. H. Murphy, 54, of 1435 Hudson av., died yesterday in his home after taking an overdose of sleeping tablets. His widow, Lucile, said he had been ill since April. He left two notes which were taken by police. Murphy was a representative of eastern paper mills, with offices at 444 W. Grand av.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Nov. 26. Convention of West Virginia

IN the heat of the passions stirred up by the controversy over secession, a great state split in two and has never been reunited.

In April of 1861 a special Virginia convention meeting in Richmond voted first against, then for secession from the union. Between the two votes the news had come of President Lincoln's request for 75,000 volunteers to put down the southern rebellion. Even the second of the two votes was not overwhelming for secession. There were 88 yeas and 55 nays. The majority of the delegates who voted no were from the state's northwestern counties.

For decades a large number of people in these counties had sought separation from the mother state. High mountains divided them from their fellow Virginians, they looked west and north to the Ohio river and its tributaries rather than south and east to the tidal rivers and the Atlantic ocean, and the social and economic pattern of their lives differed radically from that of the east.

Now it was a question of leaving the Union with Virginia or staying in it without her. Influential men of the northwest worked to keep their sections loyal. A popular election discovered a 24 to 1 sentiment in favor of separation from Virginia, and on Nov. 26, 1861, a convention met at Wheeling charged with the preparation of a constitution for the proposed new state.

It did its work rapidly and well. The constitution which it drafted was accepted by an overwhelming popular vote. After other necessary steps had been taken and a formal application for admission to the Union had been made, the northwestern counties were welcomed into the sisterhood of states under the name of West Virginia.

After the Civil war the Virginia legislature moved for a reunion with West Virginia, but was rebuffed.

DESTROY GREAT NAZI POISON GAS SHOP THIS WEEK

BY HENRY WALES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, Nov. 25—The destruction of the biggest German plant for the manufacture of poison gas shells and bombs at St. Georgen, 25 miles southwest of Munich, by American demolition squads begins this week. The Nazis surrendered 250,000 tons of poison gas, much of it already filled in shells and bombs but never used.

Germany possessed five principal gas filling establishments, two in the Russian zone, two in the British zone, and the St. Georgen in the American zone, which is the largest and most modern. Special equipment from this plant already has been shipped to the Edgewood arsenal, Md., for investigation and testing.

Planned Plane Gassing

The newest German poison gas, "Green Ring Three," the deadliest lethal product developed by Nazi chemists found there, cannot penetrate American gas masks, tests proved.

Vast stocks of ammunition found at St. Georgen reveal that Hitler intended to use poison gas dropped by airplanes and gas sprayed on enemy troops from low flying strafing planes. Huge supplies of 500, 1,000, and 1,500 pound loaded bombs prove this, army men said.

American authorities believe the Fuehrer was dissuaded from employing aerial gas attacks against England in 1941 for fear of reprisals from the rapidly expanding number of British bombing planes.

Demolition of the St. Georgen plant will be an extremely slow process for safety reasons, as thousands of tons of mustard gases are stored in huge tanks, which could devastate practically all Bavaria and render the area uninhabitable for years if detonated accidentally. This product must be kept warmed above 10 degrees centigrade, as it expands with the cold and explodes.

Supplies for Two Years

Records prove the Nazis accumulated a vast reserve of gas before the war and constantly added to the mass during six years of war to keep the plants in operation.

Ammunition factories scheduled for demolition indicate the army had enough supplies to last another two years and also that these vital plants were never placed underground, few ever suffering from aerial attacks. The Allendorf factory, north of Frankfurt, has 150,000 tons of ammunition alone, covering 25 square miles with 700 buildings.

Chemical works scheduled to be destroyed include five more Farben units specializing in nitrocellulose, and 10 shell filling establishments.

Temporary suspension of the destruction of the last named category was ordered by Washington, D. C., pending a decision on the French request for German munitions until the reconstruction of France's war industry.

JAP WARSHIPS BEING STUDIED BY U. S. EXPERTS

TOKYO, Nov. 25 (AP)—If the skeleton of the Japanese navy has any secrets left, Navtechjap expects to find them.

Navtechjap is the United States naval technical mission in Japan. Headed by Capt. G. C. Grimes, it is compiling a record on the makeup of the Japanese fleet along with results, tests, and comparisons with American equipment.

The 500 Navtechjap staff members have found at least one good specimen of each type of Japanese submarine, from the tiny one-man craft to the big cargo plane carrying vessels. These have been taken to sea and tested by American crews. The battleship Nagato, 11 cruisers, 27 destroyers, and 54 submarines will be studied.

NEW DE GAULLE REGIME FACES TEST THIS WEEK

Must Take Up Reforms and Constitution

BY DAVID DARRAH
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Nov. 25—Gen. de Gaulle's new tripartite government, in which the Communists hold important ministerial posts, tomorrow faces its first week's test of stability, cohesion, and capacity to enact reforms expected of it by the constituent assembly which controls it.

The next few weeks may decide whether it survives till next June, by which time the assembly must complete the drafting of a constitution.

The government's most pressing task is to draw up an annual budget and get it approved by the assembly by Dec. 31.

Priority Tasks

As De Gaulle indicated when he presented his mixed team of 21 cabinet members to the assembly last week, his government will give priority in its early days to:

1.—Nationalizing banks, electric power, production, and insurance.

2.—Reducing the numbers and recruiting a new civil service.

3.—Speeding up production.

4.—Clearing up state finances and stabilizing money. At the present stage the government is printing more than a billion francs [$20,000,000] daily.

Reds Seek Leading Role

The Communists are giving signs of determination to play a leading role in France's new legislative reform campaign and may insist on going farther than De Gaulle and the moderates want to go. The Communist group in the chamber already has drafted 10 bills which will be submitted to the assembly this week. These concern the redraft of the constitution, nationalizing key industries, increasing old age pensions, dissolution of outworn controls and commissions, and indemnities for civil servants.

Finance Minister Rene Pleven and Marcel Paul, minister of industrial production, on Tuesday will submit bills for nationalizing banks and industrial production for the cabinet's approval.

During the coming week also will be organized a 42 member committee, together with various subcommittees, for drafting a new constitution to replace that of 1875. This will be the cardinal task of the assembly and it has less than six months to do it. It took five years to create the last French constitution of the Third republic.

Constitutional Problems

Constitution drafting is likely to prove controversial business. The outstanding problems which will confront the constitution makers are:

1. Giving more authority and independence to the executive branch of the government with respect to the legislative. Constitution makers hitherto have been afraid of kings, emperors, and dictators. They made the legislative branch all-powerful. During the Third republic's life of 70 years more than 100 cabinets were formed and overthrown.

2. Extending more independence, dignity, and emoluments to the judiciary and conferring on them the power to interpret the constitutionality of laws.

3. Establishment of the principle of a bicameral or unicameral legislature and whether in the case of a bicameral legislature one chamber shall be political and the other merely technical and advisory. The Socialists and Communists are for a single chamber and want the president and the premier to be the same person. The third big party, M. R. P., wants a second chamber, but of a technical nature.

4. Giving declared and recognized political parties and groups definite juridical status.

The new assembly will also control the government. It will approve, reject, or modify laws, but cannot pass a vote of censure on the government and oust it without a 24 hour notice of a vote.

The new assembly must finish its task by June 1 and submit the constitution to a popular referendum. If accepted, new elections will then be held according to the new constitution.

LOIS CARTER

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 25 (AP)—Christmas—even one month in advance—was too late for Lois Carter, 3.

Newspapers carried stories about Lois, telling that her illness had been diagnosed as leukemia, a blood disorder for which medical science can do little.

Department stores and other organizations arranged to surprise her today with a Christmas—Santa Claus and all—because it was feared she would not live until Dec. 25.

The party was called off today. Lois died during the night.

BRITISH LOAN DEAL 'SAVED' BY U. S. CONCESSION

plus military supplies in British territory which the British desire to purchase. These two items are estimated to total half a billion dollars, bringing the total loan to about 4 billions. The British are insisting on a 4 billion loan plus the other items, a total of about 4½ billions.

For 50 Year Term

The Americans propose 2 per cent interest and a 50 year term for the loan but are at odds with the British over a clause waiving interest payments when British dollar accounts are out of balance. There is also contention over the American demand that the dominions scale down Britain's sterling indebtedness to them, which now aggregates about 14 billions.

The case for the loan has been damaged considerably by the opposition of such democratic leaders as Bernard Baruch and Jesse Jones and by the reservations voiced by former President Hoover and Leo T. Crowley, whose abrupt retirement from the position of foreign economic administrator is ascribed to his critical attitude toward the loan.

Baruch counseled caution against getting too deeply in debt and against loaning money to countries "to nationalize their industries against us, to destrow our own competitive system." This was patiently aimed at the Socialist government of Britain which is proceeding to nationalize its big industries.

Wants Collateral

Jones, in his Houston Chronicle, said the world is in too unstable a state to make such a big loan for so long. Rather, he argues, we should loan only against collateral or provide the dollars thru specific purchase agreements under which we would buy specified amounts of strategic raw materials from British sources over a term of years.

Using both methods, he said in an editorial, we could provide one billion dollars to Great Britain—half of it as advancement payment on future deliveries of raw materials and the other half collateralized by a part of the collateral put upon by the British early in the war for an RFC credit.

In a Nov. 2 editorial he urged that any loans made to Great Britain be on the same basis as export-import bank credits which require that the dollars be spent in the United States.

Green Reports Health in State Sets Record

Gov. Green said in a radio address yesterday that the general health of the people of Illinois is better than it has ever been before. He said that 2,500 cases of diphtheria, smallpox, and typhoid fever were reported in Illinois during World War II., compared with 34,000 cases of the same epidemic diseases during the first World war.

Williams, Elkhart, Ind., officer in charge of one of the major divisions of the Manhattan engineer district.

MISSING DETROIT YOUTH FOUND ON GEORGIA TRAIN

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 25 (AP)—Chief Inspector Paul Wencel of the Detroit detective staff announced tonight that Malcolm McLeod, 18, missing son of former Michigan Congressman Clarence J. McLeod, had been taken into custody in Columbus, Ga.

Malcolm, who was reported taken off a train with two young Detroit women, had been missing since the night of Thanksgiving day. In reporting his son's absence, McLeod told police that $6,000 was missing from his home here.

Wencel said the father had learned Malcolm was on his way to Florida and asked police at Columbus to watch a certain train.

FACTIONS FIGHT AT ARGENTINE CHURCH DOORS

Political Battle Follows Liberty Cry

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Nov. 25—(AP)—A street fight broke out today in front of the Catholic church of the Immaculate Conception, scene of disorders last Sunday when a group of women walked out in protest against what they said was "politics in church."

Participants in the fights today were identified as democratic supporters, on the one hand, and supporters of the presidential candidacy of former Vice President Juan Peron, as well as persons loyal to the Rev. Virgilio Filippo, whose utterances from the pulpit caused last Sunday's protest.

Liberty Cry Starts Fight

The fights started after some members of the crowd of 1,500 shouted for "liberty and democracy." Five unidentified men jumped from an automobile and started beating members of the crowd with their fists.

More than 20 policemen arrived on the scene but did not interfere until the fights were over, when they arrested several persons who had shouted for democracy.

The protest last Sunday occurred while Father Filippo was explaining a pastoral letter citing the church's position in the Argentine political situation.

Women Walk Out

The women, who said they interpreted his remarks as showing a partisan attitude toward forthcoming elections, walked out and then prayed in front of the church for the "Lord to illuminate the mind of her minister."

Three newspapers, La Prensa, La Nacion and El Mundo, quoted a priest identified as the Rev. Sabas Gallardo as telling the women:

"If in the explanation given you feel there is a pronouncement favoring dictatorship, you must know you must shut your mouths, because Jesus Christ himself was a great dictator."

Two women were taken to a police station, but were released at once.

EXPERT TELLS CHICAGO YANKS ALL ABOUT WINE

BY ANNE BRUYERE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Nov. 25 — Chicagoland Yanks who have become expert wine tasters today sampled sparkling and still Bordeaux and Burgundy vintage wines as well as champagne at the Paris chamber of commerce, following a lecture on French wines by Marcel Labourdette, president of the American Champagne Importers.

The Illinois men, invited by the Franco-Allied Goodwill committee, agreed, with a smacking of lips, that the French vintage was well balanced with an exceptionally satisfying flavor, bouquet, and pickup.

James Tednow, 41 E. Division st., Chicago, confided that he liked the white Bordeaux wines best, especially a small glass of Chateau Yquem [a superior sauterne] at the end of a dinner, with a nectarine.

Taking Home a Bottle

"I am taking a bottle home with me for Christmas," he revealed. "However, I find a sparkling American champagne blends well with those from the champagne vineyards of Mailly, Verzenay, Le Lude, Verzy, Trapail, Ambonnay, Mareuil-sur-Ay, Avize, Cravant, or Le Mesnil."

The lecturer agreed that American vintages were brilliant, clean smelling, and pleasant but that all of them were young while the best wines like the Bordeaux vintages enjoyed now were produced in 1919-1920-1921.

"The best Bordeaux wine should be ruby red," he said. "It comes from the Medoc vineyards on the left bank of the Gironde river, where the soil is excellent for that species of grapes. On an average 10 million gallons are produced yearly.

Lt. Lee Randon, 4746 N. Sacramento av., Chicago, a conoisseur decided the most luscious flavored of the wines sampled were the sauternes of the hot year of 1906, made from over-ripe grapes picked and pressed with great care.

Red and white Burgundy wines are the most popular with the Yanks, the lecturer said. "Those from the Cote de Nuits, the Clos de Vougeot, the Cote d'Or, Chambertin, Romaneen, and Musigny are the finest of the red wines. The best liked white Burgundies include Chablis, Le Montrarhet, Puligny, Chassagne, and Meursault," he estimated.

What to Serve

When asked which wines should be served with a dinner, he replied the ones the guests liked best. He added, however, that the French serve iced white wine with the fish, red wine of the temperature of the dining room with the meat, and champagne with desserts, followed by cognac or brandy.

Among the aperitifs, Maj. David Wylie, 5419 University av., Chicago, found that the most delicious was Vermouth Turin. Corp. H. Visotoky, 1549 S. Drake, Chicago, preferred the white dry wines, Chateaus Guiraud d'Archen and La Mothe.

An American Red Cross girl, Jean Heinsen, 850 Cherry st., Winnetka, Ill., said her guests always liked dry champagne before, during, and after meals, while Corp. Betty Anderson, 540 Briar pl., Chicago, revealed she served old claret, old port, and the French dessert wines, Banyuls, Frontignan, and Rivesaltes.

REPORT BRITISH NOTE TO TURKEY SECONDS U. S. ON DARDANELLES

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Nov. 25 [Reuters].—A memorandum, setting out the British view on the question of the Dardanelles, has been given the Turkish government by Maurice Peterson, British ambassador in Ankara, it was reported from the Turkish capital today. The report added that the British point of view did not differ from that of the United States.

[United States Secretary of State Byrnes stated Nov. 7 the United States had proposed that the straits be open at all times to all merchantmen, and to warships of Turkey, Russia, Bulgaria and Romania. The United States proposed that passage be denied to warships in time of war, except with the consent of the Black sea powers or of the united nations.]

BRITAIN'S ALLY, JAPAN

History records few more sardonic and cynical reversals than the present spectacle in Java, where, three months after a supposed war to the death between Japan and Great Britain, Japanese troops are now fighting under British command against the Indonese nationalists. A British spokesman has paid the Japs the compliment that they are "good troops," and is pleased to say that they are "very good" about taking Indonesians prisoners instead of shooting them out of hand. The civilized world, including Americans who remember the death march of Bataan, is apparently expected to be overcome by admiration.

The new found alliance between the surrendered Jap garrison in Java and its English protectors may seem strange in view of the hostilities but recently ended. The British hardly can feel any great attachment to the Japs when they recall the disastrous reverses at arms they sustained at Japanese hands in Hong Kong, Malaya, and Burma. Yet a dispassionate analysis might suggest sound grounds for the new entente.

A consideration which cannot be overlooked is that the Indonesians, in their fight at Soerabaja against the British and their Indian mercenaries, have put up a defense which has been much more stubborn and successful than was the British defense of Singapore against the Japs. The Indonesian rabble in arms has proved a match for the empire's trained and well equipped troops. The British, with a considerable respect born of recent experience in the field against the Japanese soldiery, have with some logic shunted their task to their former enemies, in the evident hope that the Japs will prove more successful.

For 20 years, from 1902 until 1922, Britain and Japan were bound by a military alliance for mutual benefit in exploiting Asiatics. The effect of the original treaty, signed Jan. 20, 1902, was to give Japan a free hand in plundering Korea, while pledging Japanese noninterference with British commercial exploitation in China. This partnership, based upon each party's respect of the other's right to loot, was finally terminated as a by-product of the Washington naval treaty. To some gentlemen in both London and Tokyo it may seem a regrettable accident that differences were permitted between 1941 and 1945 to interrupt the course of this pure friendship. Whether the rediscovery of the ancient identity of interests between the British and the Japanese will be signalized by a new treaty of alliance is a question which may be left to the future.

Altho the British may be getting some temporary benefit from lend-leased Japanese troops, their decision to use Asiatic hirelings against the Indonesians inevitably would seem to mark the surrender of the last of the white man's professions of moral superiority over orientals. For the Japs, who preached the propaganda of Asia for the Asiatics with no little success, the bargain seems hardly better. They hardly can continue to pose as the protectors of their brown skinned brethren against the avarice of the western imperialists.

The cynicism of Britain's collaboration with the Japs in Java yet may serve a useful purpose, in that even the most obtuse American now should be able to appreciate the futility of this country's enormous sacrifice in the war now barely over. The four freedoms, the Atlantic Charter, the fiction of the peace loving nations, and the grandiose daydreams of a world of justice and peace founded upon the united nations organizations are shown up as tarnished tinsel which served their purpose of a day in beguiling the witless into a war which had no moral purpose whatever, unless it is moral to preserve the brutalities of the British empire.

SPORTS, MARTIAL AND OTHERWISE

With well deserved embarrassment, Capt. Paul Shafer, an American military government officer in Berlin, has divided sports into military and nonmilitary categories. The purpose is to prohibit German civilians from engaging in sports which might promote military preparedness.

Capt. Shafer finds that the following must be banned because they might develop a warlike attitude: Boxing, mountain climbing, yachting, rowing, tourism, jujitsu, weight lifting, trapeze work, field athletics, skiing, and cycling. The Germans, however, may participate in volley ball, basketball, hockey, rugby football, skating, tennis, bowling, fishing, and elementary calisthenics and body exercise to mold themselves in the ways of democracy and world peace.

Tourism, we suppose, must be a warlike activity because tourists, particularly German and Japanese tourists, habitually used to run around with cameras, taking pictures of Panama canal locks, garbage scows in New York harbor, the Washington monument, and other objects of military importance.

Yachting, it is to be presumed, means sailing. At any rate, it's prohibited. The only yachting we ever did was on a diesel power job, out looking for survivors of a shipwreck, and no belligerent feelings were promoted, partly because everybody got seasick and partly because the owner prudently locked up his liquor cabinet before he turned the vessel over to the coast guard for the day.

Capt. Shafer obviously had to draw a very delicate line here and there. The body builder who hoists a 100 pound barbell has, in the captain's mind, an obvious and sinister intent to qualify himself as one of the Herrenvolk. But if he hoists his own weight on a bar he is getting ready to participate in restoring Germany to a place among the peace loving nations. Just how the man on the flying trapeze got to be a potential member of the Gestapo we don't quite understand.

So much for the allegedly martial sports. They apparently don't play football, Notre Dame style, in Germany, so the problem of the young man who lost 13 teeth to the Navy will not arise there, but Capt. Shafer considers that rugby is a peaceable occupation. That's what he thinks. He also leaves out of either category soccer, which is widely played in Germany, with or without a ball. Perhaps it falls in the same peaceful class with rugby, in which case the gents who swarm out of the stands by the thousands at soccer games around Chicago to engage in impromptu sport on the field, are undoubtedly just a bunch of dirty isolationists.

We concede the captain's keen judgment on one point, however, which is bowling. If there is anything more unmartial than the posterior of a middle aged citizen as he poises himself to deliver his ball down an alley, we have yet to see it. Delicacy prevents reference to lady bowlers' slacks.

Well, the captain probably only did what he was told to do and, at that, he doesn't seem to be any crazier than the guys who are running the war criminal trials.

REPLY TO AN INVITATION

One of the gentlemen who works here has just received an invitation from a committee of eminent sponsors to become one of 300 Colonial Members of the New England Historic Genealogical society. Inasmuch as his only colonial ancestors who had anything to do with New England were a couple of fellows who went up there with Gen. Washington to throw the Tories out of Boston, he was a little puzzled as to why he should be so honored, until he discovered that as a Colonial Member he would have the privilege of contributing $300 to the purposes of the society.

The invitation says he is not the sole recipient of this unsolicited honor. A number of other gentlemen in Chicago, also presumed to have $300, have also been invited. Some of them are as bereft of ancestral ties with New England as is our friend. This is not surprising, since of the three streams of migration which settled Illinois and the rest of the Northwest Territory, that from New England was definitely the least important, both in the volume of settlers and the leadership given the western territory.

There is, further, little reason why a son of the Northwest Territory should be interested in preserving the traditions or the genealogical records of New England. The Northwest Territory has been notable in history for two reasons. One was that in the ordinance of 1787 it acquired the first bill of rights of more than statewide application in America, and its people have from the beginning lived in the spirit of that bill of rights; the other is that from the beginning the Northwest Territory has been unswerving in its allegiance to the American Union.

The creation of the territory was a great forward step in bringing that Union about. As the first organization of government outside the former 13 colonies, it gave the inhabitants of the infant Republic an interest in the nation beyond the borders of their own states. Its people have been adamant against sectional movements to disrupt the Union. They stood as stoutly against the Hartford convention of 1814 as they did against the secession movement of 1861, and it was as much by their efforts as by any other, both in the halls of congress and in the field of battle, that the secessionists, both New Englanders and southerners, were defeated and the Union preserved.

The Northwest Territory has little interest in preserving either the tradition of New England or the sycophant internationalism which runs hand in hand with too many of its genealogical projects. We would rather see the New Englanders turned into New Americans. Perhaps we should found a society for this purpose and send cultural and historical missions to Boston.

The invitation from the genealogical society said that the courtesy of a reply would be appreciated. This is it.

A WORLD NEWSPAPER

Readers of the Voice of the People are becoming increasingly aware that THE TRIBUNE, altho a Chicago newspaper which is proud to proclaim itself as "An American Paper for Americans," has a world audience. Our correspondents write from far away lands. Some strange datelines appear on the views they submit to THE TRIBUNE forum of opinion. The other day there was one from Durban, Natal, in the Union of South Africa. The writer wished to record his agreement with TRIBUNE policy.

The great attractive force of THE TRIBUNE is that it is the voice of liberty. It has resisted with all its strength the designs of government to circumscribe the liberties of Americans. It has spoken against oppression everywhere, whether the victims are the Indonese, the Annamites, the people of Malaya, Burma, India, the African colonies, the helots of the new communist imperialism in eastern Europe, or the peoples of former enemy countries suffering under an occupation that is partly American.

Our readers know that THE TRIBUNE will never be silent where there is injustice. They know that we are in no one's debt; that there are no favors which, offered, could tempt us, and no coercion which, threatened, could divert us from our course. In these columns no punches are pulled and no double-talk indulged. We say what we mean, and mean what we say. That is why THE TRIBUNE, already the most quoted newspaper of its time, is continually extending its influence and winning attention and respect wherever its voice is heard.

In the mysterious east the most peculiar people are demanding things like liberty. That's the trouble with letting an Atlantic Charter be translated into all those dialects.—Detroit News.

JOINING THE ANCESTORS

The mythical beings with whom the emperor of Japan recently communed in the shrines at Ise must have been surprised at his unfavorable report on the state of the nation. They have become accustomed to victory celebrations, and the discovery that their worshipers are not unconquerable undoubtedly caused a panic in the Shinto pantheon.

* * *

There are two principal shrines at Ise whose gardens display cannons captured in former wars with China and Russia. The most important is the Naiku temple, where Amaterasu-o-mi-Kami [great deity shining from heaven] is reverenced. This is the Sun Goddess, alleged grandmother of the theoretical first settler and therefore, by a long stretch of the imagination and frequent doctoring of pedigrees, an extremely distant ancestor of Hirohito. In this shrine are the choicest relics of the Shinto cult, among them the Divine Mirror into which the Sun Goddess gazed.

* * *

The other great shrine is sacred to certain lesser divinities who descended upon Japan as envoys of the higher powers and became the founders of the race. Their leader was Ninigi-no-Mikoto, grandson of Amaterasu; his name may be translated as Rice-Ear-Ruddy-Plenty. He carried the Divine Mirror, the Precious Jewels, and the Grass-Cleaving Sword, which are still extant. The mirror is a piece of archaic metal work; the jewels are curious, comma-shaped stones of no lapidary value, and the sword is a crude, ancient weapon.

* * *

Soon after his arrival in Japan, Ninigi met the inevitable girl, who claimed that she was the princess who caused the flowers of the trees to blossom. Any one can imagine what happened then. One of their children, named Hoori, became the grandfather of the alleged first emperor of Japan, known as Jimmu.

WATCHING THE WIND

I saw the wind at twilight on the crest,
Where veins of fire crept up the stunted oak
And crippled cedar boughs, and it was dressed
In thistledown, and wore a scarf of smoke.
At midnight I arose to watch the wind
Running across the hills with glowing eyes,
Tossing its scarlet mane, and moccasined
In flame, it somersaulted in the skies.
I saw the wind this morning shuffling thru
The cold gray ashes in a fruitless search,
Retracing sooty footprints to review
The pattern of its orgy from a birch.
I see it thru the window as I write,
Pursuing tumbleweeds in frenzied flight.

Keeping Up with Cholly

Linemaster: I have been getting peevish reports from some relatives with whom I don't correspond regularly, and who follow my various military promotions and things via the Line, that they are becoming dreadfully confused. One week they see a contrib signed "Corp. Cholly"; the next is "Pfc. Cholly," and the Linebook comes out with "Pvt. Cholly." They complain that I seem to be advancing rapidly backward, if I am advancing at all.

Well, this last month has rather unsettled my own knowledge of the circumstances. You see, around the end of September I was suddenly promoted to sergeant, and I thought of preserving that ambrosiac moment in verse in the Line, but decided against it on the grounds that the aforementioned relatives were sufficiently confused already.

Of course, it will all begin over again when I start working up thru the commissioned ranks, but I should live so long! My big ambition right now is one day to send in something signed "Cholly the Civilian." Sgt. Cholly

DULL NOVEMBER DAYS

There's something soft and cuddlin' like
When cold begins to creep,
Dame Nature seems to say, "Be still!
I'm puttin' things to sleep."
An' when th' snow begins to fly
She's layin' blankets white
To keep 'er children snug, an' warm,
An' safe from chill an' blight.
When all the sky is twilight gray
An' trees stand stark an' bare,
Ye think, "This is a changin' world."
Ye're glad ye're going where
Th' leaves an' flowers don't ever fade,
An' moons don't wax an' wane,
Where all ye know is peace an' joy,
Fergettin' tears an' pain.
Most folks perfer th' skies o' Junes,
Er blossom time in Mays,
But there's something downright comfortin'
In dull November days.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0200, gives personal interviews.]

Mrs. W. H. S. writes: "My son-in-law was enlisted in the navy in October, 1942, for six years. He married in October, 1945, and returned to his ship last Nov. 6. He applied for family allowance for his wife upon return to his ship. When will she receive the first check? Will his wife receive the family allowance as long as he is in the navy? If assigned to a submarine base on the coast, will he receive sea duty pay and if so, how much? What is the difference between an allotment and an allowance?"

If your son-in-law made application for family allowance for his wife immediately upon return to his ship Nov. 6, his wife will receive her first check in December. This will amount to $50—$22 deducted from his November pay and $28 added by the government. His wife will continue to receive family allowance for the duration of his enlistment. If assigned to shore duty at a submarine base, he will not receive sea duty pay. A man on sea duty receives 20 per cent additional pay, and those on submarine duty receive 50 per cent because of the hazardous service. An allotment is any sum of money deducted by the government from the pay of a person in military service on his order and paid to whomever he designates. An allowance is the sum of money paid by the government to the dependents of any enlisted person and must include a contribution from the enlisted person. The terms should not be confused in writing to the office of dependency benefits because allotments and allowances are handled by different departments.

TRANSPLANTS FOR CLOUDY CORNEAS

POETS describe the eyes as "limpid pools" but the physician is more prosaic. He prefers to ascribe the sparkling appearance of the visual organs to the transparent cornea which covers the front portion of the eyeball. This clear membrane not only serves as a protective coat but also allows the rays of light to pass freely thru the pupil. Thus an image can be projected upon the retina. But should the cornea become opaque the picture could no longer reach its destination. As we can understand, an interference with sight would follow.

Such blemishes generally result from scar tissue of the type which can occur anywhere in the body. Inflammation is probably the most common cause but in order to create damage of this sort, it would have to be severe and the organisms must penetrate deeply. In the past, one of the common culprits was the gonococcus but this mishap has been largely overcome by the routine instillation of silver nitrate into the eyes of newborn babes.

Now and then ulcers form and a small proportion of these lesions, on healing, will leave a thickened area. The complication is more likely to ensue when there is marked congestion about the crater, especially if deep-seated and extensive in nature. Occasionally, should the reflex which closes the eyes not be quick enough, a fingernail or twig of a tree may scratch the surface. These injuries usually heal but sometimes they become infected. Shrapnel or bullet wounds can produce the same effect. Scorching, either from powder burns or acid, may likewise be responsible.

For centuries physicians have tried to eliminate these defects. In the days of Hippocrates, ointments were favored. The 18th century oculist applied irritants in an effort to eradicate the cloudy regions. One of the most famous, Chevalier Taylor, had two methods of treatment: scrubbing the eyeball with a brush or paring the defect with a knife. According to James, an oculist named Mead advised the use of a mixture of powdered glass and sugar, assuming that in time it would wear off the spots. It is little wonder that Duddell remarked, "The reputation of the surgeon and the loss of the patient's sight very often go together."

Until recently, this variety of blindness was almost impossible to remedy. But the ophthalmologists continued their research and found that in certain victims something could be done. They devised an operation in which a section of the diseased cornea in front of the pupil was removed and replaced by grafting a similar piece of tissue from a healthy eye. Considerable skill is necessary and, in suitable cases, more than 85 per cent can expect favorable results. Vision is restored and, altho not perfect, yet is sufficient to justify the procedure.

Transplant material is obtained from various sources but since the need is much greater than the supply, interested organizations are establishing eye banks, in an attempt to make more available. In this manner, it has been estimated that sight can be restored to several thousand individuals who are now blind because of corneal defects.

TURNED AROUND HEART

E. D. writes: I had an X-ray examination recently and my physician tells me that my heart is on the right side. Does it mean that I won't live long? I am worried.

REPLY

There is no need for anxiety. This type of anomaly has been observed for centuries. According to recent statistics, it occurs in one out of 10,000 persons. It does not make much difference to the pumping organ where it is situated, so long as the machinery is intact.

VISION TEST

J. E. writes: Will you please explain what a post-cycloplegic test is.

REPLY

As a rule, most patients who go to an ophthalmologist for eye examinations and for fitting of glasses are required to make two visits. In many cases a third examination, or post-cycloplegic test is necessary. This is true if there is a marked disagreement between the findings of the two previous ones. Conflicts and differences in the first two are at this time analyzed.

VITAMIN H

M. A. writes: What foods contain biotin?

REPLY

Little is known about this vitamin, but it is referred to as "factor H." The main sources are liver, kidney, sweetbreads, yeast, and to a lesser extent, cow's milk. It is also found in considerable quantities in vegetables, grains, and nuts.

THE PERFECT CHRISTMAS PRESENT

Front Views & Profiles

By MARCIA WINN

Piker of the Year

Santa Claus may be a fine, fat, red-cheeked old fellow, but he is out of tune with Christmas, 1945, in the United States. Here it is, the first Christmas of the peace, with every one expecting miracles of him—toys that have been gone for five years, turkey basted with butter-cranberry sauce from cans that require no blue points, and long absent fathers and brothers and sons brought in his pack to smile under the Christmas tree. Every one is counting on him. He is in probably the choicest position in the United States to go on strike. Why doesn't he?

His hours are long and arduous, his patience extraordinary, his pay kind words and promises in advance and nothing afterward. He gives and gives and gives, of himself and the richness of his nature. To small children he gives dreams of great happiness. To adults he gives the joy of giving, as well as memories of the dreams and wonders of their own childhood. All of this he could disrupt in a twinkling by strutting out on State street, a wooden apron fastened over his red velvet suit, to announce: "The world is unfair to Santa Claus! What do I get out of this, anyway? I'm stopping giving. I want more pay for less work." He and his myriad replicas could picket every chimney in America.

Consider the panic, the bedlam, he could put into motion. All the organized workers of America, who have been applying themselves so diligently and selflessly to their jobs during the long years of war and these first months of peace, would look at him and cry in consternation: "What? Old Santa on strike? If he can strike, we can, too," Or they would upbraid him. "That old devil!" they would yell. "Just when we counted on him, too." With that they would stop making the toy B-29s and the toy telephones and the toy buses and the doll beds and the toy elevators and the toy cars. They would stop everything, lean back, sing songs, and wait for a golden rain. "There's a new world a-comin'," they would say. They never would have done it if old Santa hadn't given them ideas.

Any one can find Santa Claus all over town right now, but we found him the other afternoon sitting in front of a curtain as silvery as moonbeams at the end of a lane of candy canes. For a while we thought he hadn't changed at all, that he was perhaps the one thing static in a world in flux. There he was—O, so beautiful!—with his round face with shining red cheeks, his blue eyes which now twinkled and now turned as grave as the eyes of the child who, at the moment, was entrusting to him the secret of his heart's desires. His suit was magnificent red velvet, with a sheen, and white fur tipped the cuffs and collar. His beard rippled, a foot long, from ear to ear in lustrous white waves. His fat little belly shook like the proverbial bowl of jelly. He was gay, he was grave, he was wonderful, as wonderful as the children who came up to him in grave ecstasy one by one to confide in him and tell him they had been good.

Then we noticed his boots. They were not the high boots of other years. They seemed to be paratrooper's boots, highly polished, but dyed black. We wanted to talk to him, but the years intervened; only an innocent child can have the ear of Santa. So we made inquiries elsewhere. Then all became clear—why he has not gone on strike, why he smiles the way he does, why his happiness seems so genuine.

Santa, the Santa we saw, is back in the United States for the first time in a long time. Where he has been he saw great suffering and distress, for abandoning his red velvet, his white fur, and his long white beard, he disguised himself as an American soldier, a GI [he will say proudly], and fought overseas. All the time he was there he wanted to come home and be Santa back in the land where there was still peace and joy for small children. The longer he was away, the more he wanted it. He came into a large State st. store a month ago, his chest covered with ribbons, and said: "I want to be Santa." And he is. Perhaps the reason he is not on strike is that he has learned it is more necessary to give than to accept.

JUST LIKE THE VETERANS BUREAU

Arlington Heights, Ill., Nov. 20—And now socialized medicine by 4 per cent wage deduction. No, it isn't socialism, but it is 4 per cent closer to it! The wage earner will have that much less "take home" wages to moan about.

Has congress so soon forgotten the ill treatment given in government hospitals to veterans of World War I.? We hope not. That's social medicine. That 4 per cent deduction will rate you just about the same class of medical help. At least an effort is being made to clean up the veterans bureau mess.

Medical men working for the government on a salary basis would not have the incentive, initiative and interest in patients which they must and do express in civilian practice.

How can medicine be socialized for the general public when the government is finding it difficult to care for the wounded of the last war? Ask any vet who has spent time in the hospitals what he thinks of the efficiency of medical men working on a governmental salary basis.

Private business has been thoroly ruptured—why rupture our medical profession? A WOUNDED VETERAN

NOT ON THE PARTY LINE

Chicago, Nov. 16—This is to call your attention to the fact that our organization—the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employes, an affiliate of the Chicago, Illinois, and American Federations of Labor—is not in any way connected with the State, County, and Municipal Workers of America. We write this in order to clarify any mistaken identity which might exist between our own union and the union in which Mrs. Del Harris is a chairman of the committee on research and education.

Our union is primarily interested in all legislation affecting the welfare of government employes whether they be employed by the city, county, park district, or state of Illinois. We believe that the conditions of white collar workers should be alleviated and that this is enough of a task without taking any stands in the international political situation. EDWIN MOHL,

President,
Chicago Council of Public Employes

CONDITIONS IN LINCOLN PARK

Chicago, Nov. 14—The flag has not been raised before the Lincoln monument for several months, or any other place in Lincoln park, not even on Armistice day. Why? The unsightly mud paths leading from every direction to the Historical Society museum are constantly widened by people making short cuts across the lawn. Why is this allowed? Dogs run free, summer and winter, regardless of notices regarding leashes. Why? I can see all these things from my windows overlooking the park, but never a policeman. Why? What explanation does the park board have for these and other deplorable conditions in the park?

A ROTTEN HOLE

OKAYAMA, Japan, Nov. 10—This so-called 24th Victory division is still stuck in this rotten hole with 70 and 77 points as of Sept. 2. I came overseas July 23, 1942, without any furlough. It's now 41 months later, and they have got guts enough to ask us if we want to reenlist. I admit we've been away a long time, but we still have our right minds.

KNOWS HOW HE'LL VOTE

Chicago, Nov. 21—I am a discharged soldier. The army says I can't wear my uniform after I arrive home because I would be impersonating a soldier.

The stores say I can't buy a suit because they haven't any in my size.

The police say I can't go out on the streets naked because it's against the law.

I would gladly stay off the streets, but I can't find a house to live in, and with a shortage of lumber, I can't buy a barrel.

Having been wounded, the army won't take me back because I am not physically fit.

I shall be 21 in 1948. Can you tell me who will be running on the Republican ticket? JOE LOTZE

INTOLERABLE

Chicago, Nov. 8—What is to be done about the housing situation in Chicago? My husband served in the Seabees for three years. We have now been in Chicago for three weeks since his discharge and at present are living, or, rather trying to live, five people in two rooms. The conditions are intolerable and my parents and all of us are fast becoming nervous wrecks.

I have answered every apartment ever advertised that was at all in our price range, haunt the real estate offices daily, even for store fronts or a garage that we could make into living quarters, and no luck. After three years of worry and hardship, not being able to have a place to call home is too much to take. What are we to do?

ARLENE THIERY

THEY DON'T WANT 75 CENTS AN HOUR

Chicago, Nov. 15—Our firm has a man spend an average of three days a week interviewing prospective help at one of the United States employment centers, and the results aren't worth the effort. One out of every 20 condescends to visit the shop, and then finds some excuse for not being able to take the job offered. Out of over a hundred interviewed, only five have worked long enough to draw one or more pay checks. The jobs pay from 75 cents to 82 cents an hour, with hours unlimited, and calls for unskilled factory help.

If Mr. Truman has his way and raises the loafing ante to $25 a week, industry might just as well close its doors and hang a sign out reading: "We've gone fishing too." B. BEAVER

PROBATE OF A WILL

Chicago, Nov. 21—A year ago my mother died, leaving a will in which she bequeathed a house, lot, and stock to my sister and me, the only surviving children. Our attorney advised probating the will, which was costly. The building and loan company advises us that the will did not have to be probated, that all that was necessary was proof of heirship bond and some affidavits to have the property placed in my sister's name and mine. 1. Which procedure is correct? 2. In this case was probate absolutely necessary, especially since my sister and I get along well and could agree? V. S.

1. It depends in part on the value and on how soon you would wish to sell.
2. We would not state it absolutely, but in general probate is the accepted procedure to produce a readily salable title.

ARMY REPORTED PLANNING 1969 SUPPLY RESERVE

Senate Group to Probe Stockpile Program

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25 (AP)—An inquiry into the army's plans for maintaining reserve supplies of materials was announced today by the senate defense investigating committee.

Chairman Mead [D., N. Y.] said preliminary study indicates the army program calls for "extremely large" reserves—in the case of some items for "retention of supplies sufficient to maintain the planned army until 1969."

He announced the committee will begin public hearings Wednesday with Maj. Gen. R. L. Maxwell and Brig. Gen. Thomas M. Osborne of the army service forces asked to appear as witnesses.

Navy Plan Called Normal

Mead said the question of army and navy plans for retaining supplies for post-war use had come up in connection with the committee's study of surplus property disposal.

"The navy appears to have no plans for retaining large quantities for future use over and above its normal operating stock levels," he added in a statement. "These in general are aimed to fill the navy's requirements over a year's period.

"However, the war department has worked out detailed plans for the retention of reserves over a long period of time. Altho the war department does not plan to procure material for the purpose of filling these reserves, it has instructed all branches of the army, including the army air forces, not to declare items surplus until sufficient quantities to meet those reserves are on hand.

Amount Termed Large

"The amount required by the formula for determining such reserves are extremely large and in many items will prevent the declaration of any surplus except such items as may be obsolete or worn out, or for some other reason are not desired by the war department."

Mead said the committee examined the supply systems of the fighting forces during the war and in December, 1944, had issued a report urging "more businesslike methods."

CHIEF TO RETURN ATTACK SUSPECT IN MAYER CASE

Police Chief Carl Ekman of Evanston will go by airplane to New Orleans tomorrow to return George Bristol, 27, an ex-convict wanted on a charge of assault with intent to kill Mrs. Ruth Randall Mayer, 34, last January in her home at 2247 Orrington av., Evanston.

Mrs. Mayer, the wife of Carl Mayer, packing firm official, was severely kicked and beaten by a radio repairman and identified a photograph of Bristol, who had been reported missing at the time, as her assailant.

Bristol was arrested in New Orleans by federal bureau of investigation agents on a warrant charging unlawful flight across a state line to avoid prosecution.

Fireman Injured in Leg Fighting Basement Blaze

Thomas McKnight, a fireman of truck six, was injured in the leg last night when an ax slipped while he was fighting a basement blaze at 151 N. Michigan av. in space occupied by the Theodore Krause Amusement company. Hose lines delayed traffic 20 minutes.

VETS OF WAR II. TO INVESTIGATE SURPLUS SALES

Illinois officers of the American Veterans of World War II., meeting in the Hotel Sherman yesterday as the state executive committee, launched an inquiry to find out who is getting the government surplus property for which veterans are supposed to have priority.

"We haven't yet found a single veteran who has obtained any surplus," said a spokesman. "Every day men come to our office at 11 S. La Salle st. asking how they can buy these goods. Some one is getting it. We know the veterans aren't. We intend to make a real issue of why veterans aren't receiving their rightful prior consideration."

A drive for 8,000 members by next March 1 was approved. There are now 20 posts in Illinois and six others have asked for charters.

Norbert L. Witaske, 6530 N. Talman av., who had been temporary commander, was confirmed as commander to serve until the state convention next year.

BOY, 13, IS SHOT NEAR HEART AS PAL HOLDS GUN

John Cinaglia, 13, of 3851 Gladys av., was shot near the heart yesterday while he and David Tanzillo, 15, of 3886 Gladys av., were examining a revolver in the Tanzillo home. Tanzillo told police that the revolver, owned by his father, was discharged accidentally while he was holding it. The Cinaglia boy collapsed at Jackson blvd. and Pulaski rd., where his friend accompanied him in search of a physician. The wounded boy, in a critical condition, was taken to Garfield Park hospital.

SCOTCH GIVE IKE APARTMENT IN CULZEAN CASTLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 26 [Monday]—As a token of their esteem and gratitude the Scottish people have given Gen. Eisenhower a spacious apartment in historic Culzean castle in Ayrshire. In a message read at the public announcement of the gift at Edinburgh today, Eisenhower said he is "deeply touched by the generous gesture" and he hopes to use the apartment in entertaining his British friends from time to time.

The castle, near Prestwick airport, is only a few hours' flying distance from Ike's American home. While in residence there, he will have the use of 2,000 acres of shooting grounds, and several cottages intended as homes for ex-service men designated by himself.

Voluntary collections will be made in Scotland and abroad to raise money for maintenance of the general's apartment and other sections of the castle, including the state banquet hall and the armory, which will be open to the public.

U. S. ONLY CAN ENFORCE PEACE, CLINNIN ASSERTS

John V. Clinnin, attorney and retired lieutenant general, said in a radio speech yesterday that the United States alone has power to "dictate the terms of a lasting peace and enforce the covenants of such a treaty." The alternative, he said, would be to leave world problems of "our avaricious allies" and prepare for another World war.

Rubber, tin, and tea are the reasons why England interfered in the revolt in the Dutch East Indies, Clinnin said, continuing:

"England has had control of the rubber market of the world, and if Holland in her present weakened condition cannot produce armed forces enough to suppress the insurrection of the natives in her East Indies colonies, England will fight to retain her trade relationship, which has been so profitable, even if it does cost her a great number of the lives of her Indian troops and much money which she will borrow from the United States."

STEEL EMPLOYE IS ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF RAPE

Felix Lewandowski, 21, of 8752 Houston av., a steel mill rigger, was arrested yesterday on complaint of a 50 year old married woman who told police he raped her about 5 a. m. in a taxicab office on 92d st., where she was employed.

After the attack the woman pursued him to 92d st. and Commercial av., and pointed him out to a policeman. Lewandowski, who refused to make a statement to police, was held for examination in the police sex bureau today.

A Negro barmaid, 28, reported to police that she was raped at 5:15 p. m. yesterday by a Negro who threatened her with a knife and forced her to accompany him into an alley at the rear of 3715 Ellis av.

STRIKE STARTS THIS MORNING IN WARD STORES

8,000 in Chicago, 75,000 Outside Affected

BY GEORGE HARTMANN

Montgomery Ward & Co.'s retail stores, warehouses, and mail order plants thruout the nation where the United Retail, Wholesale, and Department Stores Employes union [CIO] has collective bargaining agents will be struck today by the CIO union.

Union officials called the strike, which will last one week, as the first of a series "to show the public and Ward that the union is determined to obtain collective bargaining for its members."

Leonard Levy, vice president of the CIO union, and Henry B. Anderson, president of local 20, which is the bargaining agent for Ward Chicago employes, announced that the picketing will begin here before 6 a. m. today. Ward's mail order plant at 618 W. Chicago av., its retail store and general offices at 619 W. Chicago av., and the company's Schwinn warehouse at Bloomingdale and Lawndale avs., will be picketed.

8,000 Affected Here

Union officials estimated that 8,000 employes will be affected by the strike in Chicago, and more than 75,000 will be involved in other cities. CIO unions in 42 states have been asked to picket stores and mail order outlets of the company which are not represented by the union.

Directly involved in the strike are Ward properties in Detroit, Mich.; Albany and Jamaica, N. Y.; Denver, Colo., and Kansas City, Mo., where the CIO union represents the workers.

Since the announcement of the strike plan last week, the company has made no statement regarding the tieup of its business, practically in the midst of the Christmas holiday rush.

Refuses to Arbitrate

To avert the strike, Samuel Wolchok, president of the CIO union, offered last week to Sewell Avery, chairman of Ward's board of directors, that the company arbitrate all the contract points in dispute, but Avery turned down the offer. He told Wolchok that "neither the union nor Ward can properly turn over to an outsider the decision of what the contract shall provide."

The union also offered to withdraw its demands for a closed shop and dues checkoff if the company would arbitrate. Avery labeled this offer as "designed to mislead the public." "The closed shop remains the real issue today, as it has been for the last eight years," he said.

Two Coaches Derailed on Rock Island Train

Davenport, Ia., Nov. 25 [Special]—Two day coaches on the Californian train of the Rock Island railroad, running from Los Angeles to Chicago, were derailed in West Davenport early today. Approximately 50 passengers in the coaches were shaken up, but no one was seriously injured. A burned out journal box caused two coaches to leave the tracks. The train was delayed several hours.

"Now, go easy on your father about that increase in your allowance. His whole plant went out on strike today."

TUG CREWS HERE STAY ON STRIKE FOR THIRD WEEK

Crews of vessel towing tugs in the Chicago port, who struck three weeks ago in sympathy with a strike in Buffalo, N. Y., remained peacefully idle yesterday. At least two large towing jobs, the former lake ship Fred W. Sargent, which has been bought by the Chilean government, and a car ferry launched recently at South Chicago, continued to wait for help to get down the river.

The strike was called by unionized deck hands and firemen. Pilots and engineers did not join the strike, but were made idle. Tugs handling scows and dredges were not affected.

Strikers were reported to have refused to handle a submarine thru the river last Friday. Ordinarily two tugs are employed. The navy was able to get one tug which is on a city contract to service the water cribs, and the submarine went on its way.

EXTEND DRIVE BY UNRRA FOR FOOD TO DEC. 15

Mrs. Walter H. Hermsdorf, chairman of the local drive, said yesterday that the collection of canned food in Chicago for distribution in war devastated countries of Europe and the Far East will be continued to Dec. 15. The collection, sponsored by the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration, started Nov. 5 and had been scheduled to close Nov. 30. Contributions may be taken to the 142 fire stations in the city or packed in cartons of 24 cans and sent to the Victory Collection of Canned Foods warehouse, 1000 S. Clark st. It was reported incorrectly in the Sunday Tribune that a meeting for reports on the collection would be held today in the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs offices. There will be no meeting today.

LONDON GAS STRIKE MAY WIND UP TODAY, WORKERS INDICATE

LONDON, Nov. 25 (AP)—The London gas company strike, which has resulted in a blackout, cold food, and cold water shaves for thousands in the city, may end tomorrow, shop stewards said tonight.

The stewards said strikers had endorsed a resolution calling for return to work tomorrow if company officials withdraw alleged discharge threats. A company spokesman, Chief Engineer N. Willsner, said the company would not comment tonight. The workers struck Friday night, demanding time and one-third for night work.

Meanwhile, conditions brought about by the strike continued unabated. About 40,000 gas street lamps were either unlit or flickered dimly in London's foggy alleyways.

CHICAGO TO GET FIR SEEDLING FROM OREGON

A Douglas fir seedling from Eugene, Ore., the capital of the lumber industry, will be presented to Chicago tomorrow by H. J. Cox, secretary-manager of the Willamette, Ore., Valley Lumberman's association, in ceremonies at Burnham Park.

Cox, who arrived yesterday to attend the National Lumber Manufacturers convention, closing tomorrow, at the Blackstone hotel, said the presentation would be a link between the present capital of the lumber industry and Chicago, the lumber capital of the 1880's. Illinois uses one-tenth of the lumber cut on the west coast, he said.

Robert Dunham, president of the Chicago park district, will accept the seedling in ceremonies at 2 p. m. at the park building.

FIRST LUMBER STRIKE BREAK: AGREE ON PAY

Portland, Ore., Nov. 25—(AP)—The first major break in the long Pacific northwest lumber tie-up appeared today as operators and strikers in the Tacoma, Wash., area agreed upon a 15 cent an hour increase in all classifications, the AFL Lumber and Sawmill Workers announced.

The union had demanded 20 cents an hour, and the operators had offered 12½ cents. About 4,000 workers are affected by the agreement. The agreement came out of a meeting of 25 operators and union representatives called by the United States Conciliation service yesterday. It was ratified today by the strike policy committee.

On Strike 2 Months

It appeared likely, union representatives said, that the Tacoma agreement would set the pattern for negotiation thruout the northwest. Some 60,000 workmen have been on strike in Oregon, Washington, Montana and northern California for two months.

John Christenson, strike committee chairman, said the agreement establishes a $1.05 minimum, a compromise from the union's original $1.10 demands.

Christenson said the agreement calls for no strike or lockout for a one-year period from effective date of the terms which go into effect on reopening of the strike bound mills. He said, however, the Tacoma, Wash., terms allow for reopening of the wage question upon 30 days notice prior to April 1, 1946.

G. M. Parley Urged Again

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 25—(AP)—Striking CIO United Auto Workers asked General Motors corporation again tonight to negotiate their wage fight in public and with aid of federal conciliators—"in the interest of promoting the earliest possible settlement" of the union's 30 per cent wage boost demand.

The proposal, which General Motors had originally turned down before the start of the nation-wide walkout, was contained in a telegraphed night letter from UAW Vice President Walter P. Reuther to the corporation.

G.M.'s president, C. E. Wilson, when advised of the union's action, said he would have no comment until he had received the communication.

640,000 Plan Strike Vote

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 25 (AP)—The largest mass strike vote in history, affecting 640,000 CIO steel workers in 766 plants thruout the country, will take place Wednesday. The issue is the union demand for a $2 a day wage increase, a demand rejected by the entire steel industry.

Management spokesman have asserted price increases must be granted by OPA before any pay boosts will be possible.

Philip Murray, CIO and United Steel Workers president, has emphasized that the vote, to be conducted by the national labor relations board, is merely to sound out union sentiment on a strike. Murray said no strike is to be called unless the union wage policy committee and international officers give the word.

Several thousand additional steel workers will ballot in late December. Their employing companies were included in strike petitions filed with the government this week.

Express Strike Called

New York, Nov. 25 [Special]—The recommendation of a Presidential emergency board for a 10 cent hourly increase tonight was rejected by 4,000 employes of the Railway Express agency and a strike called for midnight next Saturday. New Jersey local 459 of the AFL International Brotherhood of Teamsters and Chauffeurs voted in favor of the walkout at a joint meeting with New York local 808. A 20 per cent increase is sought.

The dispute involves 7,500 truck drivers and helpers here and in Cincinnati, O., Cleveland, O., Newark, N. J., Philadelphia, Pa., St. Louis, Mo., San Francisco, Cal., and Chicago.

TELEPHONE SERVICE NORMAL FOLLOWING END OF WAGE STRIKE

The Illinois Bell Telephone company reported that service was normal yesterday following the settlement Saturday evening of a strike by 8,900 long distance operators of the Illinois Telephone Traffic union.

Persons whose conversations were stored up during the six day strike apparently were taking advantage of the facilities, company officials said. Traffic was reported much higher than it usually is on Sunday.

Negotiations on the writing of the new contract between long distance operators and the company will begin this morning.

CARNEGIE CORP. GIVES MILLION IN LATEST YEAR

New York, Nov. 25 (AP)—Devereux C. Josephs, president of the Carnegie Corporation of New York, said today the organization had made grants of $1,002,500 during the fiscal year ended Sept. 30 and that more than half had gone to undertakings connected with the war.

The corporation was established by Andrew Carnegie in 1911 for "the advancement and diffusion of knowledge and understanding among the people of the United States and the British dominions and colonies."

Among the recipients of emergency grants totaling $567,000 were the American Red Cross, which received $225,000; the national war fund, $150,000, and the national Japanese American Student Relocation council, $10,000. The gifts brought to $2,711,867 the amount given during the last five years to national emergency organizations, Josephs said in his annual report.

COUGHING COLDS

Here's Modern Way To Relieve Distress

PENETRATES to upper bronchial tubes with its special medicinal vapors

STIMULATES chest and back surfaces like a warming, comforting poultice

When colds strike, and cause coughing spasms most young mothers believe in quick action, so they relieve distress this modern way. They rub VapoRub on throat, chest and back at bedtime. Take a tip from them.

Even as you rub it on, VapoRub's wonderful, penetrating-stimulating action (as pictured) starts to work to help relieve phlegm, coughing, congestion and irritation in upper breathing passages. Then for hours VapoRub keeps on working. It invites restful sleep, and often by morning most of the misery of the cold is gone.

ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE

Colossus' most important crop

HUGE producer though he is, of food and fiber crops, there's one crop in which the American Farmer takes special pride.

In round numbers the annual yield of babies on our farms is 700,000—enough, surely, to interest the nation's makers of cribs and bibs and baby foods, and all the other nursery things. It's a market, too, with needs that change and broaden all the way from infancy through adolescence to mature man- and womanhood.

But it isn't only producers of goods and services who reap the profit from Colossus' most important crop. His babies grow up, filter out into every phase of American life, where their sturdy upbringing, their close contact with Nature, underwrite a contribution to our national life that enriches it beyond appraisal. Men and women of business, artisans, doctors, statesmen, they'll become; one of them, probably, a president of these United States.

This is the piece of America—this year and in the years ahead—that Country Gentleman helps bring up, educate and develop to full flower. In its pages, those who elect to stay on the family farm are guided in its profitable operation. In its pages, farm mothers learn about the good and useful things a wholesome home should have. In its pages, indeed, is spread the inspiration that urges boys and girls to useful living, wherever their stars may lead.

Advertisers find, in Country Gentleman, a wide avenue of communication with the potent life of rural America; and their advertising, year after year, makes them the beneficiaries of the farmer's colossal wealth and power.

THE TELEPHONE STRIKE IS OVER

ALL 8,700 members of the Illinois Telephone Traffic Union have returned to their switchboards, again to give you the pleasant telephone service to which you are entitled. Also back are the individuals of other telephone unions who felt they should not cross picket lines.

Long Distance service is normal; local service in 105 Illinois cities once more features the voice with the smile.

This is good news to you—and to us.

We thank you for patience and cooperation during service difficulties. We also thank the thousands of telephone workers who put public service above the disputed issues. Many of these were supervisory people who put in long and arduous hours. Some were former operators who volunteered; others were retired employees now on telephone pensions who came back to help out. We are especially grateful to all of them for the emergency services given.

RETURNING WORKERS WELCOMED

To the returning workers we say—Welcome back. We are glad to have you again at your posts. There will be no prejudice, no ill feeling on our part.

We hope that the Union members will adopt this same broad view so that there will be no unpleasantness directed at those telephone workers who stayed at their posts to provide emergency service to the public.

And now—"Number, please?"

GANG SLAYING DEEPENS TIDE OF CRIME IN N. Y.

Dump Ex-Convict's Body at Policeman's Home

New York, Nov. 25 [Special]—The mounting tide of lawlessness in this city, where crime has been out of hand for two months, reached a new high today with a gang slaying, a street car stabbing, and three holdups in the last 24 hours.

The victim of the slaying was identified as Edward V. Corrigan, an ex-convict and proprietor of a vaudeville dog act. He was stabbed in the neck and strangled with his necktie and his body was dumped in the driveway of a New York policeman's home about 6 a. m.

Corrigan's death brought to 68 the number of persons who have died violent deaths in New York in the last 76 days. Police have protested they are handicapped in combatting the crime wave by lack of man power.

750 in Military Service

With 750 policemen in military service and total unfilled vacancies in the department exceeding 4,000, patrolmen have been walking double beats and repair and traffic maintenance men have been shifted to patrol duty.

The police scored one success in their hunt for perpetrators of recent crimes. They said an ex-convict, 23, picked up last night as he was walking home from a show with a waitress, had confessed he was one of four men who Wednesday night held up a Brooklyn tavern in which Al [Bummy] Davis, a prizefighter, was shot to death.

The policeman in whose driveway the body of Corrigan was dumped is Patrolman Jacob Berberich. He found the body when he walked from his home to his garage about 9 a. m. He said he believed the body had been placed there about 3 hours earlier because he had been awakened at that time by the barking of his dog, tied in the rear of the house.

He called to the dog and quieted the animal, he said, but saw nothing wrong, his view of the yard being obstructed by neighbors' automobiles parked on his property.

Ex-Convict Arrested

The man arrested in the Davis killing was identified as Vincent Giarraffa, who has served two one year prison terms in Florida for grand larceny and robbery.

Giarraffa was arrested on information supplied by Detective Edward G. Fritz, who previously had been suspended from the force on charges of "improper police procedure" because he had been in the tavern at the time of the shooting and had failed to apprehend the holdup men.

Fritz had fired several shots at the tavern bandits, and Giarraffa, when taken into custody, had a bullet in his neck which Dist. Atty. George Beldock said made him look "as if he had two Adam's apples." Police said the bullet was one of those fired by Fritz during the holdup.

Giarraffa told Beldock in his confession that he and three companions committed 10 holdups the night Davis was killed and collected $800 in loot. He said that in the split he got $18 while the others went to a night club and gave $50 tips to chorus girls.

Police tonight said Nick Fonkin, 16, Brooklyn boy sought in the recent slaying of Susanne Scanga, 16, high school girl who was found with a bullet hole in the head in a clump of weeds in Greenpoint, had surrendered to police in Mobile, Ala.

CORN GROWING CHAMPS TO BE FETED TODAY

Winners of the Da Kalb national corn growing contest, including a Virginian who took the national championship away from the corn belt for the first time in 10 years of competition, will be honored today at a luncheon of the De Kalb Agricultural association in the Stevens hotel. Louis Bromfield, author, will speak.

The Virginian, W. W. Middleton, is manager of Mount Airy farm, Mount Jackson, Shenandoah county, Virginia, owned by Harold S. Vanderbilt. While weather retarded corn in the midwest, Mount Airy farm recorded a yield of 142.61 bushels an acre.

WOMAN IS HELD ON $1,600 THEFT COUNT OF SAILOR

Mrs. Eleanor Adams McKay, 25, of Millington, Kendall county, was held under $5,000 bond in the Lake county jail yesterday after being returned from Superior, Wis., on a charge of grand larceny filed by Chief Petty Officer Gorman Guith, Flint, Mich.

Guith charged Mrs. McKay with the theft of his wallet containing $1,600 and $4,000 in travelers' checks as well as his check book on a balance of $5,000 in the Lake Forest bank. He said the money was stolen after the couple spent the night at a tourist camp at Wauconda.

Deputy Sheriff Charles Hoskins of Lake county, who returned Mrs. McKay from Superior where she was arrested, said she admitted that she had $1,200 of Guith's money but said he had given it to her. When arrested, she had $850, Hoskins said. Mrs. McKay was given a preliminary hearing yesterday before Justice of the Peace Ray Reardon and will be questioned today by Harry Hall, state's attorney.

The real "take-home"

If wages go up and output does not—living costs rise. Then a man may be no better off than he was in the first place.

As a matter of fact, he may be worse off. Because that's the start of the inflation spiral with its mounting cyclone of confusion. And once the spiral starts, prices usually keep two jumps ahead of wages.

It doesn't help to have $2 to spend instead of $1, if eggs go to $1, then $1.50, then $2 a dozen—and butter and bread and shoes and shirts double, then triple, in price.

That's the trouble with the theory that you can increase buying power simply by raising wages.

The most important thing isn't what a man makes in wages per week—

The most important thing is how much he can buy with the wages he makes.

FATHER BLAMES SCHOOL IN FIGHT; GIRL TO RECOVER

Principal Will Question Two Teachers

Everett Bisch, 36, of 716 W. 60th pl., whose daughter, Barbara, 10, is in a critical condition at Woodlawn hospital as the result of a three-bout fight with a classmate, said yesterday that he will demand an investigation of school authorities as soon as Barbara is sufficiently recovered from cerebral hemorrhages and other injuries to testify.

Bisch, who with his pretty blond wife, Barbara, 32, spent most of the day at their daughter's bedside, said he places most of the blame for the fight and its tragic results on authorities at the Beale school. The fight would not have taken place had monitors been stationed in the school during the recess period, Bisch contended.

Argued Over Towel

The fight, the principals of which were Barbara and Maxine Sutton, 11, of 6201 Green st., was brought to light Saturday when Capt. Patrick Collins, of the Englewood police station, questioned Maxine and several other children who witnessed the fight. From their incoherent stories, Capt. Collins learned the fight started a week ago Friday in the school's basement washroom as the two girls argued over a paper towel.

The children testified that the first round of the fight ended when the recess bell clanged, but that the skirmish started again when school was dismissed. The final bout took place after school on Monday, the witnesses said, when Barbara and Maxine again became involved in fisticuffs and hair-pulling.

Fell Against Hard Object

Capt. Collins said Barbara apparently fell against some hard object during the fight, causing severe internal hemorrhages. Her hair was pulled so hard that the scalp was partially pulled away from the skull, he said.

Miss Katherine McGuire, principal of the school, said last night that two teachers are assigned to the basement washrooms, and that she doubts "that a fight could occur without them reporting it." She said that she will question the teachers who are assigned to this post, and will file a report with the office of the superintendent of schools.

Hospital authorities said yesterday Barbara was out of danger and will recover. Maxine, her eyes red and swollen from hours of crying, received the news with a tremulous smile, her first since she learned Barbara was seriously injured.

Maxine was permitted yesterday for the first time since questioning of the fight began to leave her home. She shopped in several stores before she found just the doll she wanted to buy, and then she took it to Barbara's home with a request that the toy be taken to her friend in the hospital.

POLICE BULLETS ROUT GANG IN VAULT ROBBERY

Robert G. Nizzo, 38, of 5572 Gladys av., was arrested and several other men escaped in a storm of police bullets yesterday when they were discovered hacking with pickaxes at a vault wall in the Leonard McGee Real Estate agency at 5124 Madison st.

Attracted by a ringing burglar alarm, Policemen Michael Phelan and Edmond Glass saw the men thru the front door. Nizzo and his companions attempted to escape when the police called to them to surrender. Police said they did not believe any of the men were wounded.

Nizzo had a bag of tools and carried a revolver in a shoulder holster. He did not have a police record.

U. S. PRISONERS SLUG JAILER IN MADISON ESCAPE

Madison, Wis., Nov. 25 [Special]—Dane county police tonight were searching for two young St. Paul, Minn., men who escaped at 1:15 a. m. today from the Dane county jail in downtown Madison. The inmates slugged a jailer with a cribbage board and stole his keys.

Under 3 Year Sentences

Sheriff John Arnold identified the jail-breakers as Robert E. Berg, 18, and Arlen D. Smith, 22. Both had been sentenced to terms of three years each in a federal boys industrial school, for transporting stolen cars from other states into Wisconsin.

Berg and Smith were sentenced in Federal court here Nov. 20. They were committed to the Dane county jail awaiting transportation to a federal institution.

Flee Thru Window

Sheriff Arnold said Joseph Shaughnessy, a jailer, was summoned to the second floor cellblock by Smith and Berg. Smith explained he felt "sick." As Shaughnessy unlocked the cell door and stepped inside, he was slugged with a cribbage board. The youths robbed the jailer of his keys and made their way to the jail basement. Unable to unlock the basement exit door, they escaped thru a window.

MARK 50 YEARS AT ST. JOSEPH NURSING SCHOOL

The 50th anniversary of the St. Joseph school of nursing, 2100 Burling st., was observed yesterday in an all-day celebration that started with a 10:30 a. m. mass. A luncheon and an afternoon tea also were parts of the observance.

Graduates of the school gathered from all sections of the country. Miss Susan Crowe represented the first graduating class. Greetings from Miss F. Elizabeth Crowell, class of '95, now in Italy in charge of public health nursing for united nations relief and rehabilitation administration, and from Capt. Helen Dooley, chief nurse of the 108th general hospital in Paris, France, were read at the tea.

Committee chairmen for the program were: Miss Helen Sweeney, executive secretary; Miss Veronica Mast, publicity; Mrs. Helen Tomchaney, invitations; Mrs. Catherine Rank Traficanti, program; Miss Margaret Oberst, luncheon; Miss Margaret Phelan, souvenir, and Miss Agnes Sullivan, arrangements.

Suzanne Morris Is Betrothed to Brewster Perry

BY JUDITH CASS

ROMANTIC news of interest comes from Palm Beach, Fla., where Mrs. Chester H. Morris today is announcing the betrothal of her daughter, Suzanne, to Brewster Perry, son of Mrs. I. Newton Perry and the late Mr. Perry of Chicago. Mrs. Morris, also of Chicago, is spending the winter at the Florida resort with her mother, Mrs. John Hamilton, and elder daughter, Miss Jane Morris, but the popular and attractive Susie Morris remained here.

Miss Morris, whose father was the late Dr. Morris, was educated at the university school for girls and Dana Hall and was introduced to society several seasons ago. Her fiancé was graduated from Andover and spent a year touring the world.

Mr. Perry, who donned civilian clothes but a month ago, saw more of the world while serving as a major with the army. He was stationed in Italy for nearly two years and spent three months in hospitals recovering from injuries. He now is on terminal leave, as is his brother, Lt. I. Newton Perry Jr. of th army air forces, who also served in Italy.

Victory Derby Ball

One of the most entertaining features of a Victory Derby benefit party which the directors of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society will give Dec. 8 in the Drake hotel will be the auctioning of a race horse. The animal, a thorobred, has been donated to the society's women's board by Mrs. Peter Miller [Ruth McCormick], and will be shipped here by her from Tucson, Ariz.

Sweep Flag, described as a 3 year old bay gelding which has been schooled for racing but never raced, will be at the Chauncey McCormicks' Wheaton farm until the night of the benefit and then will appear in the Gold Coast room of the hotel.

Sweep Flag's appearance on the dance floor that night oddly enough will not be much of a novelty to the hotel, which is quite accustomed to visitors from the animal kingdom, Eric Dahlberg of the Gold Coast room assured Mrs. McCormick. In 1926, he related, a film company staged a convention at the hotel and brought not only Leo the Lion, but several leopards, pandas, and bears.

Mrs. George F. Nixon, reservations chairman, and her committee are on duty daily in the society's benefit office in the Drake hotel. Mrs. Waldo Logan is in charge of entertainment, which will include a series of horse races with professional models mounted on wooden ponies.

Weddings

A number of Chicagoans will receive invitations to the marriage of Miss Marion Tracy Kendrick and Lt. [j. g.] John Benton Bellamy Jr. of the naval reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bellamy of Berkeley and Cloverdale, Cal., formerly of Kenilworth. The ceremony will take place early in December in Norfolk, Va., where the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Marion Kendrick make their home.

Miss Kendrick attended the Norfolk college of William and Mary. A niece of the late Dr. William Hyde West of Woodstock, she is a descendent of William Hyde and Thomas Tracy, who were prominent in the early history of New England. Lt. Bellamy, a 1943 graduate of the University of California, is a grandson of the late Francis Bellamy of New York and Boston, author of the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag. He received his commission from Northwestern university and from the naval mine warfare school at Yorktown, Va., and recently returned to this country after 22 months in the Pacific.

In the first American wedding to be performed on Tinian Island in the Marianas, Miss Mary Jane McVey, daughter of Lt. Col. John F. McVey of the marine corps, retired, and Mrs. McVey, became the bride Oct. 23 of Lt. Comdr. John H. McAuliffe Jr. of the navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. McAuliffe of Oak Park. The bride, who had been serving as a recreation worker for the American Red Cross at Tinian, was given in marriage by Gen. Samuel Kimble, chief of army forces on the island. She attended George Washington university. Comdr. McAuliffe received his degree from Notre Dame university and took postgraduate work in architecture at Harvard. He and his bride have gone to his new station on Oahu in the Hawaiian Islands.

Today's Events

The Fourth Presbyterian church will hold a post-Thanksgiving tea today in the church parlors, with Mrs. Halford H. Kittleman and Mrs. Woodruff J. Parker as hostesses. Georgene Faulkner, known as "the story lady," will speak. She is a sister of Mrs. Charles S. Reed, chairman of the Fourth church's woman's board committee. The party will benefit the hospital's Thanksgiving offering committee.

Mrs. Clarence Hough, who gives book reviews every two weeks or so in the Arts club, will discuss "The Far Away Music" by Arthur Meeker Jr. at 2:30 p.m. today in the club. Assisting Mrs. Hough will be Mrs. Harry Kinser and Mrs. Gustav Stamm. Mrs. Edward A. Leight, Mrs. Sigurd Olson, Mrs. Franklin Miller, Mrs. Nathaniel Leverone, and Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis will pour.

Hilarity for Charity Is Keynote of Evanston Junior League's Thrift House Ball

[TRIBUNE Photos]

Gay Couples Give Shirts Off Backs (and More) for a Cause

BY HARRIETT PRIBBLE

IF DR. AND MRS. CARL B. DAVIS JR. are well supplied with champagne for the holidays, they can thank their own ingenuity and perseverance. A hamper of the sparkling liquid went home with them from Saturday night's Thrift House ball, given by the Evanston Junior league in the Michigan Shore club in Wilmette, after the Davises came out as winners in a grand march which set a new endurance record in the art of strip-teasery.

All but a few of the 150 couples present, all league members and their husbands and escorts, joined in the "strip polka" march. Over their ball gowns and evening clothes they had donned many articles of clothing to be given to the league's resale shop, Thrift House. As the circle of merrymakers passed the judges' stand, where Michael Putman was master of ceremonies, each couple peeled off layer after layer of clothing amid a wave of hilarity.

By the time the ante had been raised to 15 garments or articles of clothing each round, the Davises still were bountifully garbed, she with three ice blue satin evening dresses over her own white lace ball gown, plus an assortment of bright colored sweaters and several evening wraps. Dr. Davis, in a Mother Hubbard wrapper, flowing yellow apron, and top hat, had managed to slip on so many shirts that one feminine spectator on the sidelines gasped, "Imagine having that many shirts to give away."

One macabre figure in a raccoon coat and football helmet, a college pennant draped around her neck, turned out to be Mrs. Harry A. Hunsberger when the Halloween mask that hid her face was removed. Darwin H. Deaver, just out of navy uniform, managed to stay in the running until the end, with a collection of neckties, which was the envy of service men, fluttering from the spokes of a raised umbrella.

Mrs. Harold F. Yegge, one of the league's former presidents, achieved a Persian fortune teller effect by donning a smock and a veritable showcase of costume jewelry over her old rose taffeta gown. The nearest approach to a bona fide striptease was contributed by Randolph B. Putman, who removed one complete suit of dinner clothes amid a round of gasps—only to reveal another beneath it. Mrs. Chester N. Goltra, chairman of Thrift House, came a close second in a black chiffon night gown.

The evening proved a homecoming welcome for several league members and their husbands, among them Lt. Comdr. William C. French Jr., who had arrived home from sea duty in time to join his wife for the party; the David Badgers, who are moving back to the north shore from Toledo, O., and F. Scammon Barry, out of his lieutenant commander's uniform and dancing with his wife, who wore ice green satin.

Many of the stunning gowns worn to the party, but not contributed for Thrift House, would have disappeared quickly from the racks of any shop. Among the most decolete were Mrs. Wallace D. Mackenzie's stunning brown paper taffeta gown, cut with a dashing peplum, and Mrs. Oliver Babcock Jr.'s pearly white satin ball dress, worn with gardenias.

Among the others dancing by were Mr. and Mrs. John W. Baird, Mr. and Mrs. Melbourne C. Beers, Mr. and Mrs. G. Sheldon Fox Jr., she with a wide skirt of green, rose, and white plaid taffeta rippling beneath a black bodice; the league's president, Mrs. Edward R. Cullen, and Mr. Cullen, the Roger S. Barretts, the Edward C. Walters, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Dille Jr., the latter in a paneled gown of fuchsia and purple; Mr. and Mrs. William J. Sennott Jr., the Thomas G. Murdoughs, co-chairman of the party with the Goltras, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Gordon Brightman Jr.

Fizdale-Gold 2 Piano Music Really Golden

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG

Music for two pianos can be [1] a stunt, [2] a bore, or [3] legitimate musical entertainment. The recital given by Robert Fizdale and Arthur Gold before a large audience at Kimball hall last night definitely fell into the third of these categories.

These two young men have evolved an ensemble that is literate and effortless. They know all the tricks of two piano playing and they are cannily aware of its pitfalls. Their major intention is to perform interesting music entertainingly, and in that they succeed to a high degree. They have, too, first rate ideas as to the making of a program, tho last night's rather overshot the mark in making hors d'oeuvres serve as entree.

Beginning with an unhackneyed classical group consisting of a Mozart Fugue in C-minor, a delectable "Concert Royal," written by Couperin for Louix XIV., and a quaint "Duetto" at one keyboard of Johann Christian Bach, the players quickly demonstrated the superior quality of their skill in the clarity of their technique and the refinement and subtlety of their tonal nuances.

Thereafter attention centered on matter rather than manner, tho if anything the execution improved as Messrs. Fizdale and Gold launched into an array of contemporary music that obviously lies closely to their hearts. Two of these works were first performances, a Sonatina by Paul Bowles, young New York music critic, and a Sonata by Alexei Haieff, a young Russian, also presently living in New York.

Mr. Bowles' piece is original, witty and expert. It moves among extreme dissonance and complicated rhythms with the surest of intentions and the most direct results. The Haieff work is the gusty eruption of an energetic musical personality. It suffers from excessive volubility, like an orator who must repeat himself and pound on the rostrum to drive his argument home, but there was no mistaking the vigor and eloquence of a not yet completely disciplined talent. In between these two works there were rather too many of Erik Satie's "Pieces in the Shape of a Pear."

There was also music by another music critic, Virgil Thomson, whose five "Inventions" were as Bachian as their title. Last to be heard in a program still far from its end was the performers' arrangement of Stravinsky's reworking of Pergolesi, a "Suite Italienne," which glittered brightly in resounding sonorities.

Alois Trkna, stepping up from the cello section of the Chicago Symphony orchestra to play Saint-Saëns' Concerto in A minor at Saturday night's "Pop" concert, proved again what a wealth of talent is concealed in the ranks of this ensemble. Mr. Trnka played the piece as well as and better than many a visiting artist. He has a clean, facile technique, and an alert musical sense.

Thru the Looking Glass

The gift of toiletries is one a man welcomes—if the scent suits his fancy. And what could be more suited to a man's tastes than the clean, northwoodsy fragrance of spruce? That's the scent imparted to a line of shave essentials which come packaged in attractive looking sets to make thoughtful Christmas presents.

There's an after shave lotion as cooling as it is cool looking. Soothing and pleasant to use, it's tinted a clear, sparkling green and scented with the fresh fragrance of pine. Talcum in an ivory, complexion blending tint is also refreshingly scented with the pine note. Both these are in simply designed, sturdily built glass bottles just the proper size and shape to fit into the hand.

A spruce scented shaving soap is set in a durable plastic bowl with a handy lock-top closure for convenience both at home and traveling. It's a good kind of preparation, works up a creamy lather and makes for a swift, smooth shave.

The three items add up to pleasant shaving and the clean odor of spruce and the plain, unpretentious packaging make a toiletries set a man will enjoy owning and using.

Goodwill Building May Be Inspected Daily Thru Friday

The many friends of Goodwill Industries will have the opportunity this week of touring the organization's new six-story building at 1500 Monroe st. and inspecting the shops which are manned by physically handicapped persons. Open house is scheduled from 1 until 9 p. m. today, and will be conducted during the same hours daily this week thru Friday.

Established 25 years ago to teach self-supporting trades to the handicapped, Goodwill depends largely upon contributions of salvagable materials from Chicago homes for continued expansion of its program. Such articles as furniture, clothing, electrical appliances and toys are repaired or remade by the workers, to be sold in the seven Goodwill retail stores in Chicago. Pickups are made at homes thruout the city by a fleet of 11 trucks.

Fritz Kreisler, Veteran of More Than Half Century in Music, Packs Orchestra Hall

WHERE Fritz Kreisler is concerned, the term "fickle public" is unwarranted libel on a vast and faithful public. In the more than half century since his American début, Mr. Kreisler has wielded a potent attraction for ticket buyers unsurpassed, as far as I know, in contemporary musical history. Paderewski had it in our time, and Rachmaninoff, and among younger artists Heifetz and Horowitz seem to share that musical magnetism. Each of them has, or had, something to say the public never tires of hearing. With Kreisler it is a penetrating warmth of musical perception, expressed in a tone of burnished gold that can make you forget the violin is an instrument.

Now turned 70, Mr. Kreisler does not invariably weave that spell, but I doubt that any audience expects or desires so humbly beloved an artist to be superhuman.

There was doubt about the wisdom of opening his Orchestra hall recital [packed to the rafters Sunday afternoon] with the Sibelius Concerto, which suffers sharply when the orchestral background is reduced even to Carl Lamson's piano, and not all the unaccompanied Bach [the Sonata in G minor] was technically impeccable.

But there were flashes of bravura, particularly in brilliant attack of key phrases, that were revealing and rewarding Sibelius, and the Bach as a whole was a performance of noble proportions, alive, glowing, often glorious in tone.

In the smaller works that came after, the beauty was unalloyed. There was a grave and lovely performance of a Beethoven cavatina, a limpidly joyous way with a Mozart rondo, and there was exquisite precision in darkly brooding texture of tone that removed two of Dvorák's Slavonic dances and Kreisler's own "Gypsy Caprice" from routine concert aftermath and made them the sort of bewitched listening that must have sent some of the audience right home to play their Kreisler records. Or, at least, right after the encores had reminded them of those records.

Orchestra Yearbook

Just published is the annual bound volume of Chicago Symphony orchestra lore, including Felix Borowski's program notes and other statistics of the 1944-'45 season, along with complete repertory and list of soloists for the orchestra's 54 seasons. As usual, this is an invaluable reference book handsomely put together, and it is available at Orchestra hall for $5.

"Dark of the Moon"

"Dark of the Moon," the witch play chosen by George Jean Nathan as last season's best, threatens to become an "early visitor" on Theater Guild subscription. That vague phrase usually means when the booking office can find a theater. Probably the newcomer will arrive after the first of the year, as it is being thrust out of its New York theater by "The Red Mill," forced to vacate the Ziegfeld Dec. 22 when "Show Boat" opens. Lee Shubert gets 5 per cent of the gross of "The Red Mill" for making the move possible.

Misericordia's Victory Ball Is Grand Success

BY NANNETTE McCARTHY

When asked how many guests attended the Misericordia Victory ball Saturday evening in the Stevens hotel, one wit quipped, "One grand in the grand ballroom." The word "grand" aptly described the entire party—gowns, food, and music.

The guests circled the dance floor until the early morning hours, stopping only at midnight for a sit-down supper.

"There are people here I haven't seen since before the war," was the comment often heard among the crowd which filled the ballroom to capacity and overflowed into the anteroom. John Lucas, wearing black tie for one of the first times since his recent release from the navy, greeted friends with Mrs. Lucas. Her gown was an unusual one of black sheer with tiny ermine tails dangling on the skirt.

Miss Claire McCahey's off-the-shoulder gown of black velvet trimmed in black and blue striped satin was designed for her especially for the party.

Among others who attended the ball were Mr. and Mrs. Carle McEvoy, she in a victorian gown of Kelly green; Mrs. Bernard Brennan; Miss Rosemary Rocco in ice blue satin; Miss Beth Coleman in pink marquisette, escorted by a navy lieutenant; Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Colnon, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Kellogg, Mr. and Mrs. Armand Bastien, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Fox, Miss Mary Mertes in gleaming black satin, Miss Patricia Callahan with fresh pin carnations scattered on the skirt of her black lace gown, and Miss Betty Madigan in striking white crepe.

Mrs. Ray P. Tennes and Mrs. James McCahey were co-chairmen of the party which will benefit the Misericordia hospital and infants' home.

ANSWERS TO SATURDAY'S QUIZ

Q. 1—Opponent opens with one heart and you hold:

♠ A Q 10 9 7 4 ♥ 5 ♦ A K 9 2 ♣ K 5

What action do you take?

A.—Double. The alternate bid is two spades which is not our choice. The hand meets with all the requirements of a jump overcall, but in this case the double is superior because it is by no means certain that the hand must play at spades. If partner is short in spades and has diamond length a game in diamonds might be available. The procedure is to double first and make a jump bid in spades later.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠ 9 4 2 ♥ K 10 7 ♦ A K J 7 4 ♣ J 4

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
3 clubs	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four hearts. Partner has shown a very fine hand by rebidding at the level of three, and you have a holding that has great possibilities. There can be no reasonable doubt as to the game, but there may be more. A mere preference bid of three hearts [even the 8 is a moral certainty that partner will not pass] would be inadequate. No fear should be entertained that partner has a four card heart suit, because holding four hearts and four clubs he would no doubt have opened with a club. But even if he did elect to open with a heart he would not dare to bid three clubs on a four card suit unless he had an overpowering hand. In which case he will probably take some action over your four heart bid.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♠ A 7 5 ♥ 5 ♦ K Q J 9 2 ♣ K J 7 2

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 diamond	1 heart
1 no trump	Pass	3 clubs	Pass
3 diamonds	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. Partner's rebid of one no trump as a free bid denotes a very good hand. Slam prospects are bright indeed and the spade control should be shown at this point. Partner's response to this bid will help you to determine what action to take next round.

Q. 4—Partner opens with one club.

♠ K 10 5 ♥ A 10 4 ♦ A J 7 5 ♣ J 10 5

What is your response?

A.—Two no trump. On hands of this type a direct bid is better than a temporary one, since the direct bid gives an exact picture of your holding. Your hand is just about the equal of an opening bid, is evenly balanced and you wish to guarantee a game, leaving the rest entirely to partner. A diamond response would require some future clarification which you may or may not do to complete satisfaction.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠ Q 9 ♥ K 10 9 ♦ A J 10 9 6 4 ♣ 9 3

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four no trump [not Blackwood]. Your hand is nearly the equivalent of an opening bid in high cards, and easily the equivalent in playing tricks. Your partner has opened the bidding and jumped, which in combination with your holding suggests the possibility of a slam. You should invite partner to contract for slam by raising the no trump once. This is not intended as a conventional bid. It is merely an invitation to partner which he need not accept if he is not so inclined.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠ 7 5 4 ♥ 6 3 ♦ Q J 10 7 6 5 ♣ K 6

The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 heart	1 spade	Double	?

What do you bid?

A.—Pass. Despite your possession of a reasonably good suit there is no occasion to make a rescue bid. You ought not to be displeased with spades inasmuch as you hold three of them and a doubleton. A rescue would entail an increase of the contract and would really amount to crying before you are hurt. Partners sometimes make doubled contracts!

Q. 7—As dealer you hold:

♠ J 5 ♥ A K 10 4 ♦ A 10 6 2 ♣ Q 10 4

What is your opening bid?

A.—One heart, the very normal every-day opening. Any response can be handled conveniently. If partner replies with one spade you should rebid one no trump [in preference to two diamonds]. If partner should respond to your opening bid with two clubs, your rebid would be two diamonds. It is unnecessary and actually bad strategy to open this type of hand with the so-called "short club." It has no advantages over the heart bid and may lead to confusion.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠ Q 9 6 3 ♥ A 8 ♦ 10 7 ♣ 9 8 7 5 2

The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 no trump	Double	Pass	?

What do you bid?

A.—Pass. The chances of going game against an opening no trump bid are infinitesimal, but the prospects of showing a profit by defeating that contract are not at all dim. In fact a simple arithmetical calculation should lead to the conclusion that the bidder's dummy will be a complete blank. Allowing both the opening bidder and the doubler the minimum of 3½ tricks, the entire deck is accounted for, and the double should be left in. Generally speaking, doubles of one no trump should be left in with about one honor trick plus some intermediate cards.

Sally Relates Urgent Needs of 3 Families

[Sally Joy Brown activities are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

We hope aid for the following mothers of small children will be found among surplus articles in the homes of our readers.

Mrs. S., a southwest side widow, and her 1½ year old son are in dire need of clothing. She wears size 16-18 and the boy, size 3-4. He is a husky child and the few things he has are tight and uncomfortable, and cannot last much longer. A buggy and a sled for snowy days to assure him a daily outing also will be greatly appreciated.

Mrs. R. writes: "Dear Miss Brown: I wonder if you could help me. I am the wife of a service man, who has been in the army more than two years, and the mother of a three year old boy. With increasing difficulty, I have tried to make my income keep pace with expenses. Since I have no one with whom to leave my child for employment, there can be no supplementation to the family allowance. My boy needs clothing, size 4. His overalls have been cut from old slacks, and his outgrown snow suit cannot keep his legs warm this winter."

Mrs. X. writes: "Dear Miss Brown: For the first time I find it necessary to ask your readers to help me. My husband died 3 months ago, leaving me with 6 small children, and I had to apply for public aid. My youngest children are twins, 4 months old, who, because of delicate health must remain in the hospital until cribs, bedding, and a buggy to make possible regular visits to the clinic, are obtained. Clothing is also needed for them and boys 16 months old, 2½, 6, and 7 years old, and for myself size 16."

A DISCOVERY

The mustard did its job. In three minutes the spaniel was wagging a feeble tail. "It doesn't do," Robin said strainedly, "to form snap judgments. Only, well, there's a devil here at Turrets. Sometimes it breaks loose. Not often, but lately it's got bolder. We were wrong, you know, about that door."

She stared. It seemed minutes before she reached for the lumpy parcel she had hastily kicked to safety. The paper covering disbursed at their feet Erica's small damaged shoes. She saw Robin looking at them, caught the quick dilation of his pupils as they rested on the dislocated heels.

"Quite," he mumbled concisely. With that he stumped from the shed, down the damp steps and back into the house.

The hedged footpath was suddenly dark. Avis had been late in starting, only at the last discovering the flat tire, and then, having coaxed the shoemaker into doing an immediate job, she had scampered along to Braken, only to find the doctor was miles away on a call. At any rate she'd got the shoes, solidly put right. What filled her mind was the new horror of Robin's dog.

In a way she was worse shaken than she had been over the dead soldier on the stair. The baby's being shut in the spider-crawling passage had been appalling, but then that had been a stupid accident. Neither she nor Robin had dreamed of anything else. But to feed poisoned horsemeat to a dog! It must have been fed, how otherwise could the spaniel have got it? And now Robin was trying to persuade her. . . . He hadn't convinced her it was Erica who had perpetrated this and the other cruel outrage. "Just for a second," she admitted, "I did wonder." O, it couldn't be that little infantile Erica had this horrible side! There was, of course, just one alternative possibility——

A man's blurred figure, waiting. O, gosh, not for her? Rounding a bend she had drawn up, aware of imminent height and breadth, of looming masculinity whose face was a blank in the thick mist and gloom, but whose head was turned on her. His cap was an officer's, she could just make out the visor, his huge overcoat was pale in the dusk. He spoke, made a deep baritone rumble; but instantly she knew his intimate speech wasn't intended for her. Fool that she was, he had a companion. Some one who had backed right into the leafy hedge, dark clothed, therefore a mere extension of the dark foliage. He seemed to be shielding her—for obviously it was a woman—by his magnificent shoulders, closing her right in. Hearing footsteps the couple had suspended their talk.

Avis had to brush into the big overcoat to get past. The girl was invisible, but she was using lovely perfume.

Erica paid on the dot for her shoe mending. Now, she nodded, they needn't say anything to Maud. Putting the shoes into the wardrobe, Avis unearthed yet another pair previously overlooked—in good condition, but with black mud and blades of vivid green grass defiling both soles and heels. When, she asked in surprise, had Miss Erica been outdoors? Just now, she was told, with Ossie, in the garden—that is, before it got dark.

That day had been Saturday. Then existence settled down into what, in retrospect, was to seem a stagnant bayou of dull tasks and constant watchfulness with nothing to watch. So it dragged on till Thursday afternoon, Avis' free afternoon. Lady Barkdale had invited her to tea. The urge to see Bruce tempted her to refuse, but her fixation against pursuing men told her that if Cam Bruce had wanted to converse with her he had a voice and a telephone. He had left her coolly alone. Presumably the note on hospital stationery she had seen in the box had contained the brandy analysis—a negative one, therefore a slap in the face for Maud.

She was, in fact, thinking quite a lot about Robin, chained to the house, bad tempered, and by this very token pulling harder than ever at her heartstrings. It had not surprised her that he had preserved stony silence over the dog. With amazement she had learned he was 28—or, he had dryly qualified, so he'd been told. He'd added a second incongruous item: Till he had volunteered for the army he had been earmarked for chartered accountancy! She could not conceive of anything less suited to his imaginative temperament. But Maud, needless to say, had called the tune.

Well, at least tea with Lady Barksdale did mean giving the other prisoner a run. Sheila had fully recovered. At 4:30 on Thursday afternoon Avis battled with the spaniel's hysterical embraces, clipped on the lead, and was yanked tempestuously round the ivied walls and out the gate. The back lane always was devoid of cars, so she unhasped the leather throng, and in one wild frenzy the dog was off. By the time Avis had reached the limit of the Turrets ground she began to whistle and call. These fields, she knew, had rabbit snares in them.

She glimpsed the frolicking black shape, thru the farm gate on the left, leading into the soaked wasteland. The dog was making a beeline for the middle of the green straggling meadow, uttering shrill concentrated yelps. Now the barking had stopped, but what was the miserable dog doing, nose glued to the ground?

Too occupied to turn around, its nose was thrust over the brink of one of the oblong air vents to the tunnel. With her hand on the miscreant's collar Avis fell back, smitten full blast by an abominable stench.

Handkerchief to her nostrils, she leaned over the weed grown edge and looked down. As far as could be seen the concrete tube was clean as it had been before, the exposed rectangle of floor showing only the same litter of twigs lying in the usual shallow puddle of rain water.

"You may adore this, you ghoul, but I'm going to be sick as two dogs."

It was then, by main force wrenching Sheila from her delight, that she spied the bright purple flower.

The flower was a pansy. It had come from Agatha Trimble's hat.

"I don't mind confessing now," Lady Barkdale confided, "that I consider it the greatest blessing the poor creature went away. She had become quite unhinged, might have done Maud some injury. O, well, that's all over. Herne, my maid you know, saw her getting into that bus. How long ago was it? Six days. Odd she still hasn't sent for her trunk."

"Still hasn't sent—?" Avis swallowed a lump of cold lead. "You mean she——"

We've just completed our new booklet, "Buffet Style Parties." It's a collection of menus, recipes, and serving suggestions for giving most any party buffet style. Breakfasts, church socials, and bridge luncheons are just a few of those included.

The menus are made up of casseroles, molded dishes, finger foods, and foods which can be managed without a knife because these are especially good for buffet service. Ways to prepare the food wholly or partly in advance are described.

For a copy of "Buffet Style Parties," send 7 cents in stamps to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune. Or save two pennies by picking up a copy at one of The Tribune Public Service offices, 1 S. Dearborn st. or Tribune Tower lobby.

"How to Cook and Serve Shellfish" is another rather new booklet. Recipes for stuffings, sauces, and special recipes are given, along with pointers on how to buy, clean, and store fish in the home. This booklet also is 7 cents by mail and 5 cents at the public service offices.

A third booklet, "Cooking with Wines and Spirits," suggests ways to add a gourmet touch to ordinary meals. It includes a chart which lists appropriate wine accompaniments for the various courses of a dinner and wine flavored recipes for cakes, frostings, sauces, desserts, and fish dishes. "Cooking with Wine and Spirits" is 5 cents by mail, 3 cents at the public service offices.

Still another booklet which you might like to have is "Holiday Cookies and Fruit Cakes." Recipes for light and dark fruit cakes and directions for decorating them are given. Foreign recipes such as fatigman's bakkels, pfeffernusse, lebkuchen, and cream cakes are among the special cooky recipes included. This booklet is 7 cents by mail, 5 cents at the public service offices.

City Club Library Committee History Will Be Recounted

The long years of friendly association between the Woman's City club and the Chicago Public library will be recalled by Mrs. Lawrence F. Passow when she presents the history of the club's library committee, of which she is chairman, at a 1:30 p. m. meeting of the club today. The program continues a series on historic backgrounds of the club's various committees being reviewed and written by Miss Bessie L. Torrey, publicity and radio chairman.

Annals of the club reveal that the library provided a "home" for the society during its organizational period in 1910. After some 10 years of studying library services and needs, the library committee was merged with the education division of the club, and was reconstituted in 1940 to undertake the study of "A Metropolitan Library in Action," a survey made at the library's request under a grant from the Carnegie fund.

Upon being named chairman of the committee, Mrs. Harry M. Mulberry joined forces with the City club and Adult Education council to arrange for a public hearing on the survey. It was this hearing that inspired organization of the Friends of the Chicago Public library. In 1940, Mayor Kelly set aside a library week, which has been repeated annually with the Friends holding an Authors' luncheon during that time to call attention to services provided in the library. Mrs. Mulberry now is president of the civic club.

Campion Mothers Club Giving Luncheon Program

The Campion Mothers club will have a luncheon program at 12:30 p. m. today in the Wedgwood room of Marshall Field and company. The Rev. Mathias B. Martin and A. J. Kochanski will speak.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Chicken Loaf
[Serves 12]

1 4 pound chicken, cooked
2 cups fresh bread crumbs
1 cup cooked rice
1½ teaspoons salt
3 cups milk or broth
4 eggs, well beaten

Dice chicken and mix with bread crumbs, rice, salt, and milk. Fold in eggs and pour into a well greased large loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 1 hour and 15 minutes. Unmold on hot platter, slice, and serve with mushroom sauce.

The Christmas Rush Becomes a Real Crush

BY REA SEEGER

The old familiar Christmas rush—and crush—is on. Any experience you may have had at football games will be of value, come the days you go downtown to plunge thru the crowds of shoppers, all of whom have the same urge as you—getting the Christmas gift list to work. No matter how early or how late you descend upon the loop you'll find fellow shoppers, this year much more amiable, but not a bit less determined upon the serious business of getting just the right gift for each person.

Getting some of the stuff takes time—for example, anything with a monogram, such as playing cards, stationery, handkerchiefs, house linen, lingerie and blouses, sweaters, petticoats, and everything else that means twice as much with individualized three, two, or single letter initials embroidered on them. Some take two or three weeks' waiting, so it's only shrewd shopping to get orders in as soon as possible—to save wear and tear on your own nerves as well as on those of the people behind the counters.

Christmas gift wrappings are scarce, the newest and gayest are going fast. Stickers, cards, ribbon and festive tape, all are included in the limited supply assortments and the first and early shoppers will get the best breaks. Christmas cards have been around for weeks, but there still are ample assortments from which to choose. Here again the individualized monogrammed, or engraving orders take time and there isn't much time left to place these orders and to expect them before Christmas. But, everything that is available is out for close inspection. You pay your money and take your choice.

Child's Dress

BY ELLEN BRUCE

Little girls like festive party dresses. This one requires little time to make and is crocheted in a lacy shell stitch with a tiny yoke done in a simple double crochet. It is available in sizes 2 to 6.

For instructions in crocheting the child's dress, No. 896, send 15 CENTS in coin, wrap coin securely, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York 1, N. Y.

2 Chrysanthemum Shows Set Attendance Records

Attendance records are being broken at the park district's annual chrysanthemum shows in Garfield park and Lincoln park conservatories, park district officials said yesterday. Since the shows opened Nov. 10, visitors have totaled 263,100, or 34,000 in excess of the same period a year ago. The shows will be open from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m. daily thru next Sunday.

Gala Date Dress

ONLY THREE PATTERN PIECES

Here's a date dress that has everything: Sweetheart neck line, nipped-in waist line, and skirt fullness. What's more, it's an easy dress to make, since there are only three pattern pieces. Style No. 2956 is designed for sizes 10 to 20. Size 16 requires 2⅞ yards of 39 inch material. The applique motif is included.

Order Clotilde patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing. The fall and winter fashion book, on sale at Tribune Public Service offices, is 15 cents; 12 cents if ordered by mail with a pattern.

Phil Austin Exhibition Opened in Little Gallery

An exhibition of watercolor paintings by Phil Austin, Chicago and Waukegan artist, which opened yesterday in the Little Gallery, 111 E. Delaware pl., will continue thru Dec. 24. This is the first of a series of 13 "one man" exhibits of works of Chicago artists in the Gallery. Austin studied art at the University of Michigan and the American Academy of Art in Chicago. He studied water color work under Myron Chapin and Jean Paul Slusser, and drawing under A. Maestro Valerio.

GI Steals All the Laughs in Hargrove Film

"WHAT NEXT, CORP. HARGROVE?"

By Mae Tinee

As any GI will tell you, rank doesn't mean a thing. Here we have the blundering character created by Marion Hargrove proudly promoted to a corporal and managing to keep his two stripes thruout the film, too—but one Mulvehill, who, as he explains, remains a private only because of prejudice, walks away with the picture.

Robert Walker's Hargrove is an earnest, likable if somewhat clumsy individual, but Keenan Wynn's Mulvehill provides all the laughs in this comedy. He's a lazy schemer, who thinks of all the beautiful ideas which involve the two soldiers in constant difficulties with their superiors, the MPs, and a kittenish little French girl.

They're the first American troops to enter a town which has already been liberated by the efforts of its own citizens, but they're wined and dined, and Hargrove has a hard time staying true to his girl back home. The mayor's daughter has an obvious yen for him. Mulvehill has built up his pal's reputation with some tall stories, and in the interest of promoting international relationships, the boys are ordered to stay put in that town. They're anxious to get to Paris, particularly when Mulvehill works out what he thinks will be a handsomely profitable deal, but there's many a slip—and the complications are all fairly amusing.

It's very light comedy but much of the dialog is fast and funny and Keenan Wynn is worth going out of your way to see.

Plots, shots, and so on

"DAKOTA"

Produced by Republic, directed by Joseph Kane, featuring John Wayne, Vera Hruba Ralston, Walter Brennan, Ward Bond, Ona Munson, Hugo Haas, Mike Masurki, Olive Blakeney, Grant Withers, Paul Fix. Presented at the Woods theater.

If you think present day gangsters are crooked, you don't know your westerns. Such plots and schemes and complications — such shootin' up the town!—by contrast present day life is comparatively peaceful. John Wayne is at it again, being the strong silent type with permanent wrinkles in his forehead, manfully, and single-handedly opposing the usual crook out to cheat all the farmers, burn down their homesteads, appoint one of his henchmen as sheriff, etc., etc. Walter Brennan provides some comedy as an old riverboat captain, but there's a little too much of him. The plot rambles all over the place and the film ends in a blaze of gunfire, galloping horses, and burning homesteads.

All this seemed to leave the customers at the Woods in a fairly somnolent mood — I don't know whether it was the picture or the popcorn fumes that got them.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 25—Paul Manning, first reporter to send out stories from Paris and Berlin, writes me that 10 days before the sneak raid he filed a story from London to his news syndicate in New York saying that Japan would attack Pearl Harbor. The piece was never received by the syndicate; nor were his subsequent cable queries asking what happened to it answered. He was told that British intelligence had taken the information on to our military attachés in London. Their information was relayed "urgent to Washington." Wonder why this doesn't come out in the Pearl Harbor inquiry? . . . Understand Ann Sheridan is having script trouble over her new picture "The Sentence." It seems originally too much prominence was given the male lead. Annie balked and the story was re-written to throw the spotlight on the feminine angle just to please Ann, who, after all, could get along without making the picture if she wants. . . . Preston Foster has been handed spot opposite Lynn Bari in "Strange Triangle," a murder mystery directed by Ray McCarey.

Weissmuller in the Swim

Lunched with Johnny Weissmuller and Brenda Helser, woman's amateur swimming champion. Brenda said that Johnny's coaching had helped her break three new swimming records. In his new picture, "Swamp Fire," Johnny, who's had only two leading ladies in 13 years, has a couple fighting over him. Then he and his old rival, Buster Crabbe, fight over the gals, and Johnny ends by fighting an alligator just for the heck of it! With 25 "Tarzan" pictures lined up for him, Johnny says he has no desire to shed his jungle role, but would like to move into the Douglas Fairbanks type of action pictures. . . . I've always heard the expression, "Laughed till he busted his breeches," but so help me, it really happened to a sailor watching Ingrid Bergman and Jack Benny wrestle at the closing of the Hollywood canteen. The gob retired to the gentleman's cloister while gals in the front office sewed the buttons back on.

Not Behind the 8 Ball

Hear that R. K. O. is trying to get Lucille Ball back at eight times the salary they let her go at. . . . After appearing four weeks locally, Harry James will take a six weeks vacation. He's added a Chicago branch office to his music publishing firm, and plans another for London. . . . Will Price and Maureen O'Hara have been doing the town high, wide, and handsome entertaining Maj. Gen. Cates, 4th marine division commander and Will's old boss. . . . Ida Lupino, who suffered great personal loss in the war, has received the belated news that two of her favorite cousins were victims of the final buzz bombings. . . . Errol Flynn's rented his schooner "The Zaca" to 20th for "Down to the Sea." After "Escape Me Never," Errol will try escaping himself—on a cruise doing documentary films in South America. Howard Hill, champion archer, is the first one signed for the voyage. . . . With war bond purchases for tickets, it looks like a two million dollar gate for Alan Ladd's radio presentation of "Salty O'Rourke."

Woosome Twosomes

Evelyn Keyes and Mervyn Leroy are becoming far friendlier than friends. . . . Lisette Verea just got around to George Jessel. . . . With a bachelor penthouse planned to top his new eatery, Louis Hayward is scotching those far flung marriage rumors. . . . Everybody will rave about Bing Crosby and Ingrid Bergman in "The Bells of St. Mary's," but I feel a word should be said about the fine performances given by Joan Carroll, Ruth Donnelly, Henry Travers, and Martha Sleeper. Leo McCarey certainly picked his cast. . . . After Universal had scoured the country for Red Donahue's educated mule for the new Abbott and Costello picture, they found the critter taking a vacation out in our own San Fernando valley.

Divorce Rumors Denied

The Dick Haymes are fed up with those divorce rumors some meanie has been planting all over town and wish once and for all to deny them. . . . For the first time since the war actors are permitted to buy their favorite items from set fixtures. Glenn Ford, Rita Hayworth, and Charles Vidor have practically stripped "Gilda"—I mean the picture set, not a gal. . . . Judy Canova tells of the producer, who discussing a former headliner, said, "Poor chap, all he is now is a 'was been'." That reminds me of the time I was trying to dig a story out of an interesting looking extra, and he said, "You think I'm a has been. Fact of the matter, ma'am, I'm just a never was."

THE QUESTION

What is your pet peeve when shopping?

WHERE ASKED

State Street Shops.

THE ANSWERS

Gerry Green, typist, 1518 E. 68th st.—Shopping itself is anything but enjoyable, especially in these times. But my pet peeve has nothing to do with the war. I don't like to say, "May I see that sweater," and have a salesgirl raise her eyebrows and say, "But, my dear, that sweater is $18." That irritated me very much.

Mrs. Ann Wetzel, housewife, 1764 North Shore av.—A good day to stay away from shopping is the day after a holiday when children are out of school. Too many parents take their children along when shopping. It's bad enough to shop in a crowd without being pushed around by boisterous children.

Corinne Gregson, student, 1454 E. 69th pl.—People who won't wait their turn are my pet peeve when I'm shopping. There's always some important person who is in a hurry and thinks that his or her time is more valuable than the other shoppers' time. If they're in a hurry they shouldn't be shopping.

Pat Duffy, typist, 5125 S. May st.—This is probably somewhat of a necessity, but I hate to have the same clerk wait on two or three people at the same time. It's all right when a customer wants to ponder over an item, but when you know what you want and ask for it, the clerk shouldn't ponder with the other customers.

Mrs. Leonard Crane, housewife, Detroit, Mich.—Really, I detest crowds and discourtesy. Tho in a great many cases discourtesy is the shopper's fault, there still are many clerks who don't know the war is over. Sometimes, however, we expect too much of salespersons. Christmas shopping must be trying to them, too.

Mrs. Rochelle Firestone, housewife, Detroit, Mich.—The terrific crowds make any one irritated. Shopping in itself is my pet peeve. There isn't enough mutual agreement between shoppers and clerks to suit me. If every one were just a little bit more courteous we would all accomplish more with less wear on nerves.

Mrs. Betty Chapman, 1623 N. Austin blvd., Chicago—When packing away our summer clothes for the season, I take a tip from the sailors and roll them. You can get much more in a small space.

Marie W., Elgin, Ill.—When I want to pick up lint from any woolen material, especially black or dark cloth garments, I dip a rubber sponge in water and then, after wringing dry, I sponge the coat.

Mrs. Pat H., Grand Rapids, Mich.—When I find a stain on the rubber rollers of my washing machine I dip a cloth in cleaning fluid and wipe the stain. I let the fluid remain on the spot only a minute, then rinse and dry thoroly. It will usually do the work.

Let Children Begin Making Holiday Gifts

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Ahead gleams our first Christmas since the close of the war. Thousands of fathers will be home again for this most beautiful of all holidays, so there will be just that many hearts alight with happiness which, last year, barely managed to get thru the season.

Today's article is about the children's share in getting ready for Christmas—in planning and making the gifts they are going to give to those dearest to them.

In many families the boys and girls already have begun to save money for presents. If yours haven't, let them begin now. In some way make it possible for them to accumulate a little hoard for this purpose, so that when they give a gift, they feel they are giving it. And if the children make the things they give, the outlay in money need not be large.

Not for that reason chiefly, but because it enhances the joy of giving, encourage your children to make their gifts. They sense, when they do this, that they are "giving of themselves" and they really love it. The results need not be elaborate, and no child who can use his hands, for instance, to draw or paste, is too young to make some simple gift.

The Blackhawks got abundant revenge last night for the 8 to 4 spanking they received from the league leading Montreal Canadiens on Oct. 27, when they administered an impressive 5 to 1 jolting to the Canucks.

A crowd of 17,716 waited in the Chicago Stadium till eight minutes after 9 o'clock for a look at the rapid and rugged Canadiens in their first Chicago visit of the season. The team came from Montreal, where it beat the Detroit Red Wings Saturday night.

Two Score Pair of Goals

Two of the Hawks each made enough goals to win the game, i. e., two. Clint Smith scored the first two goals, Max Bentley made two, the last two, one in the second period and one in the third. In between the two-timers Red Hamill functioned for Chicago goal No. 3. Virtually every Hawk contributed to the sparkling defense, with special honors going to Goalie Mike Karakas. Mike missed a shutout when Joe Blake scored near the end of the second period.

Besides his two goals, Max Bentley, the team's leading scorer, tallied an assist. Alex Kaleta, Eddie Wares, and Bill Mosienko also earned points in the assist column.

The Hawks, who rose to within a point of second place, now have scored more goals than any team in the league, passing the Canadiens with a season total of 46 to 44.

Smith Gets Two Goals

Six minutes and five seconds after the belated start of the game, Smith scored the first of his two first period goals. Wares took the puck into the Montreal defense zone and passed to Kaleta on the right boards. Kaleta fed a perfect pass past Durnan to Smith, who rammed it into the corner away from Kaleta.

Smith's and the Hawks' second goal was registered in 12:30. With Bouchard completing a term in the penalty box for hooking Doug Bentley, the Chicagoans precipitated a melee on a power play. Durnan kicked away the bouncing puck time and again, then Smith ended the Canadien goalie's Highland fling by banging the rubber into the cage.

The goal that gave the Hawks a 3 to 0 lead for the first period was made with O'Connor serving time for hooking Kaleta. The resultant power play had the Hawks zigzagging around the Montreal defense. Finally Hamill got control and continued the zigzag technique until in a position to beat Durnan nicely. The time of this one was 14:49. Max Bentley and Mosienko earned assists.

Hawks Take 4-0 Lead

The Hawks made it 4 to 0 in 11:53 of the second period on an unassisted goal by Max Bentley.

Karakas' hopes for his first shutout of the season vanished when Blake scored with only a minute and 16 seconds remaining in the second period.

At the start of the seventh minute of the third period Allen got control of the puck in the Hawk defense zone, raced over the two blue lines, then gave the puck to Max Bentley who skated elusively toward the nets. Bentley then let fire with a precision that foiled Durnan by a comfortable margin. The time was 6:12. Allen was credited with a well earned assist.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 25 — The Philadelphia Eagles flattened the Washington Redskins in no uncertain manner this afternoon, 16 to 0, and it looks like a white Christmas again for professional football.

A throng of 37,306 inside Shibe park and 15,000 outside watched and heard the Eagles gain a deadlock with Washington for first place in the National Football league's eastern division. Each has won 6 and lost 2, with 2 to play.

Play-off arrangements call for them to settle the tie on this same gridiron Dec. 16, stalling off the league play-off against the Rams in Cleveland to Dec. 23. The Redskins have Pittsburgh and New York on the schedule, while the Eagles will clean up with New York and Boston. The Redskins, as a result of today's game, encountered a severe handicap in the loss of Wilbur Moore, veteran back. He suffered a broken arm in the second period and will be lost to the club in its fight for the eastern division title

Eagles Stop Baugh

The Eagles knew they had to stop Sammy Baugh today. This they did, tho the veteran Texas rancher completed most of 16 Redskin passes in 23 thrown. But the defenders met the receivers on the spot and rode them backwards and into the half frozen turf. The 16 completions were good for only 101 yards. They also stopped Frank Akins, the Washington power runner, and Steve Bagarus, former Notre Dame star.

The Eagles made their first move just before the close of the first quarter. Roy Zimmerman, a Redskin castoff, missed a field goal and the half was taking on scoreless proportions when a pass by Baugh was intercepted on Washington's 16. The Eagles scored on fourth down on a combination screen and lateral pass with only a minute left.

Early in the third quarter Steve Van Buren finally succeeded in a breakaway run, stomping four Redskins in a 35 yard driving run after taking Zimmerman's pass. Midway in the fourth period the Eagles sealed the verdict with Zimmerman's field goal.

Redskin Ground Attack Stymied

The Eagles' powerful line restrained Washington's ground attack to 23 yards, while the Redskins yielded 111 yards on Philadelphia's rushes. Zimmerman completed 13 of 28 passes for 157 yards.

If the Redskins had an outstanding runner he was Bill De Correvont, former Northwestern star, who showed speed and drive in sweeping the ends.

The Eagles drove 45 yards late in the first quarter to Washington's 23, aided by a 15 yard roughness penalty. But Zimmerman was unable to connect with his pitches and on fourth down he kicked wide on an attempted field goal from the 32 yard line.

In the second quarter the Redskins were placed in danger when Dick Humbert, Eagles' end, downed Zimmerman's 48 yard punt on the 1 yard line. Baugh passed for 10 yards to Tom Miller, then punted 49 yards out of danger.

Zimmerman punted back to the Redskins' 14. Baugh gambled again but Baptiste Manzini intercepted his pass on the 16. Zimmerman was slammed for an 8 yard loss before he could pass. Ernie Steele ran wide for 6 and Les Dye batted down Zimmerman's pass on the goal line on the next play. Zimmerman tossed a screen pass to Ben Kish. He was stopped on the 9, but lateraled to Steele, who drove over for the score. Zimmerman kicked goal.

Early in the third quarter Jack Hinkle returned Baugh's punt to the Redskins' 44. Zimmerman missed on two pitches, but the next time he lofted the ball to Van Buren and the Louisiana State flyer dodged Dye, Bob Seymour, Ki

George McAfee, Chicago Bears' back, who yesterday celebrated his return to the lineup after service in the navy by scoring three touchdowns, is off on his opening scoring dash against the Pittsburgh Steelers in Wrigley field. This run came on the opening play of the game, McAfee traveling 33 yards. A crowd of 20,689 saw the Bears score their second victory of the year in the season's final Wrigley field game.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

George McAfee, the speedy Carolinian who was a navy lieutenant until last Wednesday afternoon, yesterday became once again George McAfee, one of the greatest running backs in National Football league history, to the joy of 20,689 chilled citizens who watched the Chicago Bears run away from the Pittsburgh Steelers, 28 to 7, in the season's Wrigley field finale.

For most of the afternoon the Bears adopted the 'Let George Do It' policy and the swift and shifty McAfee, making his first Chicago appearance since the 1941 season, celebrated his homecoming by scoring three touchdowns, two of them off runs of 33 and 64 yards for the Bears' second league victory. He also delivered another one on a line smash, the other Chicago score being made in the waning minutes of the first half by Al Grygo, who took a pass from Sid Luckman. This was the only touchdown fling of the day for Sid, who connected on 13 of his other 23 attempts.

Meet Cardinals Sunday

The Bears, who will close their 1945 campaign against the Cardinals in Comiskey park next Sunday afternoon, had a field day for themselves in all departments, even unto penalties, wherein they were assessed 110 yards on 12 assorted charges.

They showed an over-all yardage profit of 525 yards in collecting 14 first downs to the Steelers' nine. Most of these latter were registered by Bill Dudley, the former Virginian who still rates as one of the best all-around backs in the league. It was William who scored the Steelers' tying touchdown and also starred on defense.

The first Bear touchdown was achieved in the opening 50 seconds of play, Pete Gudauskas booted the opening kickoff to John Perko, Steeler guard, but he fumbled it and Jim Daniell of the Bears recovered on the Steeler 33. On the first play, a quick opening maneuver shot the speedy McAfee thru the left side

Orange Bowl Bid Accepted by Holy Cross

Miami, Fla., Nov. 25 (AP)—Holy Cross college has accepted an invitation to play in the Orange bowl football game on New Year's Day, George Whitten, president of the Orange bowl committee, announced today.

Confirmation of the Crusaders as one of the teams in Florida's 12th annual New Year's game was made after their 46 to 0 victory over Boston college today.

It will be Holy Cross' first appearance in any post-season bowl game. Holy Cross' opponent has not been selected.

If Orange bowl custom is followed, it will be a Southeastern conference team as it as been in the last 10 New Year's games. Louisiana State, Tennessee and Georgia have all been mentioned as possibilities this time. Also mentioned is the University of Miami which has been defeated only by Georgia and tied by South Carolina.

The Holy Cross team, coached by John (Ox) Dagrossa, defeated three Ivy league clubs, Dartmouth, 13-6; Yale, 21-0; Brown, 25-0—two service elevens, United States Sub Base in New London, 20-6, and United States Coast Guard academy, 39-6; and three eastern independents, Villanova, 26-7; Colgate, 21-0, and Boston college, 46-0. Temple handed Holy Cross its only defeat, 14 to 6.

Bowlers from 23 States Enter All-Star Event

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

Bowlers from 69 cities in 23 states will be represented in the fifth annual All-Star national individual match game tournament, opening Saturday in the Auditorium Service Men's center under the sponsorship of Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America.

This regiment of 144 tenpin tumblers, who will go to the line in the sport's main event at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, constitutes not only the largest field in the history of the big show, but also the best in geographical distribution. Such old familiars as California, New York, Minnesota, and Louisiana will be on hand again, but with them will be newcomers from far flung states such as New Mexico, Oregon, Iowa, and Washington.

33 Chicagoans Entered

Heading the entries from the 23 states will be 40 from Illinois. Of this number, 33 hail from Chicago, and the bulk of the home town talent has been enlisted from Chicago's Classic league, one of the most consistently strong in the nation.

They'll all have their first chance to meet each other Friday morning in the service men's center, where they'll gather with officials to discuss tournament rules for the nine day session.

Five Seeded Into Match

The 144 entrants include the five men who have been seeded into the match play finals on Dec. 6, 7, 8, and 9. This quintet consists of Buddy Bomar, the transplanted Texan who now resides in Chicago and who won the 1944 championship; Joe Wilman, ex-soldier from Berwyn who was runner-up last December; Ned Day of West Allis, Wis., the old master himself; Joe Sinke, the north side mailman, and Paul Krumske, the Chicagoan who took Day's 1943 title away from him in a special challenge match preceding last year's tournament.

The five seeded finalists will bowl 36 games on a total pin basis the first five days for a special purse.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 25—It takes a thorobred to deliver in sports competition when the chips are down and the going is tough. . . . Indiana university has a team of football thorobreds. That's why today they are the champion of the Big Nine conference. . . . Congratulations to the coach of the Hoosiers who wrestled successfully with the same problems that confronted other post-war gridiron leaders. . . . You'll look far and wide to find a better man to salute than Bo McMillin, this department's coach of the year.

Tulane university is named after Paul Tulane of Princeton, N. J., a former resident of New Orleans who donated the property for educational purposes to a board of administrators who organized the Tulane educational fund. . . . The school was established in 1834 as the medical college of Louisiana and its name was changed to Tulane in 1884 after the donor's grant. . . . Tony Cash, who captained Tulane against Notre Dame Saturday, last season was an end on the Irish squad. He played a few minutes against Pittsburgh and later transferred to Tulane to be near his New Orleans home. . . . Tommy O'Boyle, Tulane line coach, is from Gary, Ind., where he was an outstanding prep player. He was a starting guard on the 1940 Chicago All-Star squad. . . . The Holy Cross Fathers, who operate Notre Dame, have a prominent high school in New Orleans. . . . Stan Krivik, Notre Dame's point-after-touchdown specialist, drop kicked the kickoff when he played with Camp Croft. . . . The New Orleans Sugar bowl committee already has disposed of all reserved seats for the annual New Year's day game and the contestants haven't even been announced. . . . Fourteen thousand attended the opening of winter racing at the Fair Grounds Thanksgiving day, but the mutuel handle was far short of the business with similar crowds in Chicago. . . . That many customers at Washington Park would shove three-quarters of a million dollars thru the machines, but only $300,000 was recorded at the Fair Grounds.

To an Artist

[H. F.]

Ensnared forever in some gracious scene
You paint on canvas lovers in embrace—
A Hindu woman whose hair has the sheen
Of mystery, while drama marks her face;
A marble colonnade from out the past
Of Grecian splendor; and Archimedes
Still unaware of danger; and the vast
Blue skies above your natal place in Greece;
An echelon of birds—a reddish flame
That burns with fury in a crater's nest—
Here wonder lives enclosed in every frame,
Each one depicts some phase of interest.
I scan with joy the magic that your hands
Unfold for me in views of other lands.

Fenwick and St. Ignatius High schools, playing for the Catholic league football championship, battled to a scoreless tie yesterday before 15,000 in Soldiers' field, but immediately following the game Fenwick won the flip of a coin to determine which eleven would represent the Catholic league in the Kelly bowl game for the All-City crown next Saturday.

St. Ignatius, as co-champion, will share in the cash receipts, as well as such honors as Fenwick may win when the Friars meet the public school representative in Soldiers' field in the annual charity game sponsored by Mayor Kelly. Fenwick's opponent may be Austin, Schurz, or Tilden, all of which share the public school title.

The city league's representative will be determined at 10 o'clock this morning, when the league football committee will meet to select one of the three elevens as a Kelly bowl participant.

Friars' 1st Bowl Game Since '36

Saturday's contest will mark Fenwick's first appearance in an All-City championship game since 1936, when the Friars won their last league title and played a 19 to 19 draw against an Austin eleven paced by Bill DeCorrevont in the Kelly bowl.

Fenwick failed to capitalize on scoring opportunities, particularly in the second half of yesterday's scoreless battle. The surprisingly fine play of the St. Ignatius line, which charged thru to break up many Fenwick offensive plays before they could be organized, was an important factor.

Roger Brown, Fenwick's half back, suffered a bruised knee in the second quarter and saw only limited action, when given passing assignments, in the last half.

St. Ignatius Fails by 3 Yards

St. Ignatius had only one scoring opportunity, that coming early in the first quarter. The Wolves kicked off to start the game, but Fenwick couldn't gain after Brown's 15 yard run, and Joe Rotunno returned Dick Martin's punt to the St. Ignatius 43. Eight plays later St. Ignatius was on Fenwick's 3 yard line. Dick Crowley broke thru to trap Rotunno on the 9, and on fourth down, Ed Franceour gained only 2 yards, Fenwick taking over on the 7.

Early in the second period Fenwick moved to within 10 yards of a touchdown, but lost possession on a fourth down offside penalty which the Wolves declined.

Late in the third period Fenwick started from the St. Ignatius 42 and moved to the 1 yard line before surrendering the ball on the last play of the quarter.

Field Goal Kick Falls Short

Shortly after the fourth period opened Frank Duchon intercepted Bob Grimes' pass on the St. Ignatius 20 and carried it back to the 12 to again give the Friars a scoring chance. Three plays, two of them passes, netted only four yards, but the Friars picked up a first down on the 4 when St. Ignatius was penalized. Justin Caron, attempting to pass, was tackled on the 13. He lost two more on the next play.

35 NOVICE BOUTS START 15TH CYO MEET TONIGHT

Open Class Boxers Begin Fighting Tomorrow

BY FRANK MASTRO

The first post-war amateur boxing tournament under the auspices of the Catholic Youth organization will open tonight in C. Y. O. center gymnasium, 31 E. Congress st., with 35 bouts in four novice divisions — featherweight, lightweight, welterweight, and middleweight.

Competition in the open class will start tomorrow. Boys in the other four weights of the novice division also will begin hostilities. Quarterfinals will be presented Wednesday, with semi-finals tentatively set for Thursday. The large entry list of 312 may make it necessary to prolong the eliminations.

Change Site of Finals

The 16 championships—eight each in the open and novice classes—in this 15th C. Y. O. event will be determined in the Coliseum Dec. 18. Last year's tournament was held in Ashland auditorium, half the size of the Coliseum, but returning service men have made it necessary to expand the meet to pre-war standards.

Two 1944 open champions will vie for additional honors. These are Abe Lee, who won the welterweight championship last December and then added the National A. A. U. title to his string, and Joe Plummer, who captured the C. Y. O. featherweight medal and subsequently gained the 1945 city Golden Gloves bantamweight prize. However, Lee will be the sole defending title holder since Plummer has put on weight and will compete as a lightweight.

They will represent the Lewis School of Aeronautics at Lockport, along with 12 other students. Thus, the Lewis school will be a strong contender for team championship honors. St. Mel High school and Holy Name Cathedral tied for the trophy last year and received duplicate awards.

St. Mel Enters 15

Brother Daniel, boxing coach at St. Mel, has entered another able team of 15, including Jim Hurst, senior right half back on the school football team. The 17 year old Hurst, who went to the novice quarterfinals last year, will try for the open light heavyweight championship.

De Paul academy, St. Gregory, and St. Elizabeth are other high schools with team entries. Parishes represented include St. Francis Assisi, St. Matthew, St. Columbkille, St. Elizabeth, St. Anselm, and Santa Maria Incoronata.

All entrants are required to report at the weighing-in ceremonies in the center gymnasium between 2 and 6 p. m. today. First bout will start at 8 o'clock. Tickets to the eliminations are priced at $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

CHICAGO FINDS SET-UP; WINS IN SOCCER, 4-0

BY OFFSIDE

A picked squad of soccer players from the Sparta and Hakoah-Center clubs defeated the Natural Set Ups of St. Louis, 4 to 0, in Sparta stadium yesterday.

Two Slovak stars—Frank Tomecek and Pete Matevich—were added to the Chicago lineup and their contribution to the shutout of the St. Louis squad consisted of three goals.

Dr. Julius Brant opened the scoring for the Chicagoans within the first five minutes when he drove into the St. Louis net from 30 yards on a boot from Jerry Bohm. Matevich followed a few minutes later with the first of his two goals, scoring from 25 yards.

Chicago pushed across its two final goals in the final half, one after 10 minutes, Otto Vanek to Matevich, the other after 20 minutes, Eddie Linderman to Tomecek.

In the preliminary game the Italians defeated the Nacaxa, 2 to 1.

Parsons, Dubs Meet Tonight at Marigold

Bill Parsons, unpredictable welterweight of Danville, Ill., will try to duplicate his recent knockout victory over Harvey Dubs when he meets the Windsor, Ont., boxer in a 10 round return bout tonight in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace st.

Dubs, who was discharged from the Royal Canadian navy after three years' service last month, says he got careless in the previous meeting and predicts a victory this time. Before the war Harvey conquered such Chicago favorites as Tito Taylor, Johnny Rozina, Billy Seward, and Gene Ward. The earlier match with Parsons was his second in three years and his first in three months.

Jimmy Hunt and Jimmy Martin, Golden Gloves graduates, will meet in a six round semi-windup at 147 pounds. Three preliminary contests will complete the program, one at five rounds and two at four.

New York, Nov. 25 (AP)—The Green Bay Packers exploded for 16 points in a third period spree today to whip the New York Giants, 23 to 14, in a National Professional Football league game before 52,681 in the Polo Grounds.

Center Charlie Brock, the sturdy ex-Nebraska star, provided the major portion of the third quarter festivities for the Packers. He blandly stole the ball out of Ward Cuff's arms and ran it back 31 yards to set up one touchdown. Then he intercepted a pass and galloped 28 yards for the second score.

The rest of the third period point making was done by Don Hutson. Unusually quiet on the offense most of the day, the star end added the point after Brock's touchdown and chipped in with a 16 yard field goal, following up Ray McKay's pass interception during the big quarter.

Hutson Misses Extra Point

After Brock's ball stealing stunt, Ted Fritsch produced the touchdown in two cracks at the line from the 7 yard mark, but Hutson's extra point try was blocked.

Up to that third quarter, the underdog Giants gave the Packers a fair battle. They hit the scoring column in the first quarter on a 61 yard aerial trip after Howie Livingston intercepted a Packer pass and ran it back 37 yards to the New York 39. Junior Hovious passed 24 yards to Cuff. Then after two cracks at the line reached the Green Bay 26, he tossed into the end zone where Frank Liebel took the ball away from three Packers for the score.

Then Packers Roll

The Packers came back in the second period to tie it up after taking a kick on their own 41. Irv Comp threw 19 yards to Clyde Goodnight and Lou Brock heaved a 34 yard pass to Comp on the Giant 6. From there it was no trick at all for Fritsch to bull it over. Hutson's extra point made his total five for the day.

After running back a kick 38 yards to their own 45 at the start of the fourth period, the Giants came to life for their final touchdown. Cuff hit the line to the Packer 44. A forward-lateral from Hovious to Sam Fox to Liebel was good for 13. Hovious then pitched to Cuff on the 8. Four plays later, Bill Paschal pounded over his own left tackle from the 3 for the score. As usual, Ken Strong kicked both the Giants' extra points. Statistics:

Hoosiers' Defeat of Michigan Proves Writing on Big 9 Wall

BY WILFRID SMITH

Nine weeks ago last Saturday, Indiana university opened its football season by defeating Michigan 13 to 7. While no one victory can be more important than another when reduced to statistics, this Hoosier conquest eventually became the only debit on Michigan's conference record, for thereafter the Wolverines defeated four Big Nine opponents by at least two touchdowns and concluded with a 7 to 3 victory over Ohio State.

Thus Indiana secured its undisputed conference title in its opening game and satisfactorily followed with victories over Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, and Purdue. Indiana and Northwestern played a 7 to 7 tie in Dyche stadium Sept. 29. Here was Indiana's most narrow escape in conference competition altho, as later results indicated, a defeat merely would have forced the Hoosiers to share the title with Michigan.

N. U. at Peak Against Purdue

Northwestern's tie with undefeated Indiana was not the high point of the Wildcats' season. Indeed, many attributed that to Indiana's letdown after whipping Michigan. Northwestern's peak performance was its defeat of previously unbeaten Purdue Oct. 27, which was followed by a thrilling game at Ohio State, altho the Wildcats lost 16 to 14.

Northwestern completed its seven game conference season with victories over Wisconsin and Illinois for a .500 mark and the Wildcats steady improvement featured Big Nine play. Minnesota's collapse and tie with Iowa for last place was the season upset. Strangely enough, the only team Minnesota defeated was Northwestern.

Minnesota won from the Wildcats in its first conference game, 30 to 7, on Oct. 20. Ohio State then started Minnesota down a trail of five consecutive defeats. Many will agree that Northwestern would have beaten Minnesota during this period of Gopher futility. The record is clear, however. Northwestern, only team to tie unbeaten Indiana, was sole conquest of a last place eleven.

Cheer Hoosier Touchdown

Possibly no university ever will receive as many congratulations as will Indiana on its first title since entering the Western conference in 1900. Even at Ann Arbor Saturday afternoon where Michigan had a chance to gain the championship until Indiana's victory over Purdue was announced, the crowd of 85,000 cheered news of the Hoosiers' first touchdown. This friendliness was more unusual because of Indiana's victory over Michigan.

Bo McMillin is a popular member of the coaching profession whose personal exploits still are remembered. His Hoosier players, in particular the trio of war veterans led by Pete Pihos, have merited their honor by proficiency on the gridiron and conduct off it. Pihos, an All-American end for Indiana in 1943, returned after winning a battlefield commission, to become a fine full back.

Michigan Rally Most Thrilling

Indiana's 26 to 0 title clincher over Purdue was the conference climax, but Michigan's fourth period rally to whip Ohio State was more thrilling. The Wolverines showed a football intelligence which defeated the Buckeyes who were superior in power and speed. Moreover, Michigan earned the victory despite loss of three outstanding players during the campaign, Center Hal Watts, Quarter Back Joe Ponsetto, and Full Back Jack Weisenburger.

Ohio State and Michigan, which possess the largest stadia in the conference, established attendance records. Here is emphatic public approval of collegiate football. Michigan's mark was made possible by a capacity crowd in Baltimore for the Navy game and a throng of 70,000 at the Michigan-Army battle in New York. The Wolverines lost to the academies, but still have the best performance of all the teams beaten by the West Point Cadets.

Notre Dame, altho trailing by a touchdown at the intermission, powered its way to a 32 to 6 triumph over Tulane for a seven victory in nine games. Navy was tied and the Irish lost to Army. Notre Dame ends its season at Great Lakes Saturday and if victorious will have bettered its 1944 record.

Eagles Whip Washington; Tie for Lead

Aldrich, and Dick Todd, going over, standing up. Dye broke thru to block Zimmerman's kick for the extra point.

The Redskins, with Frank Filchock at quarter back instead of Baugh, moved over midfield early in the fourth period, but Zimmerman intercepted Filchock's long pass, returning to the Philadelphia 41. Capt. Jim Castiglia, Athletics' catcher and Eagles' back, who is on terminal leave, started a new drive with a 4 yard smash. Zimmerman passed to Fred Meyer for 12 and a first down on the Redskins' 45. Zimmerman's third down pass to Steele was good for 6 to the 35. Then Van Buren hammered the middle for 13 and the next time slammed off tackle for 12 to the 10.

The Redskins braced on their 7 and Zimmerman kicked the final three points from the 14 yard line. Statistics:

NED DAY BEATS BUDDY BOMAR BY 263 PINS IN DUEL

Ned Day rolled a concluding seven game block of 1,479 last night in the Faetz Recreation, 5961 N. Ridge av., to defeat Buddy Bomar, national individual bowling match title holder, by 263 pins in their 28 game nontitle match. Bomar bowled 1,374 for his final seven games. The totals for the four block series were 5,993 for Day and 5,730 for Bomar. The winner's game average was 214, to Bomar's 204.

FENWICK TIES ST. IGNATIUS FOR CATHOLIC TITLE

Brown's long pass into the end zone was almost complete. On fourth down, Frank Consago's attempted field goal from the 24 was accurate, but fell short and St. Ignatius took over, punting out of danger after failing to gain.

The play went back to midfield, where action eventually ended.

Coin Flipped, Comes Up Heads

As soon as the game ended, officials of each school rushed to midfield to confer on the Kelly bowl question. It tentatively had been decided that in event of a draw in the title game, a play-off would be held. After conferring, the Rev. Florian Zimecki, S. J., St. Ignatius athletic director, and the Rev. N. J. Morganthaler, O. P., Fenwick athletic director, decided that the play-off victor could not be in top shape for the Kelly bowl. The coin flip was decided upon.

Referee Ike Craig tossed a silver dollar. Father Zimecki called "tails." The coin fell heads.

Rev. Terence Fitzgerald, league president, said the decision was official. St. Ignatius was awarded the ball used in the game. Statistics:

MAINE APPOINTS TAD WIEMAN AS SPORTS DIRECTOR

Orono, Me., Nov. 25 (AP)—Appointment of Elton E. [Tad] Wieman, war department athletic adviser and Columbia university football line coach, as the University of Maine's dean of men and director of physical education and athletics was announced tonight. Wieman will succeed the late L. S. Corbett as dean, effective next May.

Walsh, Ex-Vice President of Senators, Is Dead

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25 (AP)—Edward J. Walsh, 75, former vice president of the Washington Senators, died today after a five year illness. Head of an insurance firm until his retirement in 1939, Walsh became an official of the Senators when the league was organized in 1901 and held the job for 19 years.

STEELERS LOSE TO BEARS AND M'AFEE, 28 TO 7

The Steelers couldn't do anything with the ensuing kickoff, and Sid Tinsley, brother of Green Bay's Pete, punted nicely out of bounds on the Bear 16. McAfee and Jim Fordham produced a first down on the 26, but Luckman's pass was intercepted by the ubiquitous Dudley, who dashed down the side lines until he was run out of bounds on the Chicago 5. Leon Pense, Steeler back, fumbled on the first down, Dudley recovering. George Klick drove to the 4, then Dudley cut inside the Bear left tackle for a touchdown. Ben Agajanian added the tying point, with six minutes and 50 seconds of playing time elapsed.

McAfee Scores Again

The first quarter was still on when McAfee again reintroduced himself to his Chicago clientele. Hugh Gallarneau intercepted one of Dudley's passes and took it back to his own 49 yard line. Margarita burst thru left tackle, but the Bears were penalized for holding the ball, going back to their 36. On the next play, Luckman tossed the ball to McAfee, who picked up a convoy of blockers and moved downfield for his second touchdown. The Gudauskas toe made it 14 to 7.

The Steelers, led by Dudley, John Lucente, and Art Jones, retorted by tking the next kickoff from their 30 to the Bear 5. Dudley was the chief contributor to this march, traveling 11, 12 and 9 yards in line smashes, altho Lucente chipped in with one off tackle thrust of 18 yards. The ball finally went over to the Bears.

The Bears took a Steeler punt to their own 45, and in five plays, put over their third touchdown just as the half ended. Grygo picked up four yards, then McAfee, on a reverse, romped to the Pittsburgh 25. Luckman lost 9 trying to pass. The Bears were penalized for making a substitution in the last two minutes. Fordham fielded a Luckman pass on the Pitt 33, after which Sid flipped the ball to Grygo, who ran for a touchdown, one Steeler tackler being taken neatly out of play by the field judge.

Races 38 Yards

The fourth Bear touchdown and McAfee's third were registered in the first three minutes of the final period. The speedy George set it up on a naked reverse on which he ran 38 yards to the Pittsburgh 42, and might have proceeded further if the versatile Dudley hadn't piled up the Bear interference, then made the tackle himself.

Famiglietti added three yards, after which Luckman passed to Margarita, who was tagged by Dudley's lunge at the 6 and finally sprawled on the 2 yard mark. McAfee went over on the next play, and Gudauskas made it 2 8to 7. Statistics:

Select City League Bowl Team Today

The question of just which one of the City league's three football champions, Austin, Schurz, or Tilden, is to oppose Fenwick High school in the Kelly bowl game in Soldiers' field Saturday will be determined this morning.

Making the decision will be the league's football committee, headed by Coach Chuck Palmer, whose Fenger eleven was the only one of four semi-finalists which didn't wind up with a share of the crown. The meeting will be held in the offices of August H. Pritzlaff, physical education director of the board of education.

What method the committee will use to select a Kelly bowl team has not been decided, Pritzlaff said, and the group is free to flip a coin, draw numbers from a hat, or let its collective conscience be its guide.

Austin's Status Uncertain

Probably the only uncertainty facing the committee is whether the decision shall be based on three teams being eligible, or whether to choose between Tilden and Schurz, the two finalists. There is a contention that Austin, by virtue of losing the coin toss to Schurz after its semi-final draw, won a chance to share Kelly bowl and league honors as well as receipts, but forfeited a chance to appear in the bowl.

The loudest nay on this question is heard from Coach Bill Heiland, Austin, who yesterday declared that his eleven should be considered. In fact, Heiland regards Austin as the logical choice and does not hesitate to say so.

However, as far as Coach Chuck Harvey of Tilden is concerned, Austin already is in the bleacher seats. Harvey believes Austin ended its playing season after losing the coin flip to Schurz to see which eleven met Tilden in the finals. Harvey is a member of the committee and intends to take an active part in making recommendations.

Keep Opinions to Themselves

Coach Fred O'Keefe of Schurz, not being a committee member and being certain that Schurz must be considered, is marking time.

If the situation needs further complications, it should be considered that another committee member, John Boyle of Calumet, was the field judge in the Tilden-Schurz tie game.

Other committee members are Ed Dow of Senn, who wants until 10 a. m. today to think it over, and Floyd Brown of Crane, who is suspected of having numerous suggestions to spring today, but who wished to remain noncommittal until the meeting.

Gears Score First League Victory, 47-38

The American Gears yesterday scored their first victory of the year in the National Pro Basketball league against Oshkosh, 47 to 38, in Cicero stadium. This gives the Gears one victory against two defeats.

Dick Triptow, former De Paul star, led the Chicago attack with 17 points on seven baskets and three free throws.

Oshkosh, with Bob Carpenter carrying the brunt of the attack, jumped into an early lead, but the score was tied at 21 all at the end of the first half. Dick Klein, former Northwestern star, and Triptow went on a scoring spree in the third period and continued it until the final whistle.

GOOD BUSINESS PREDICTED FOR ILLINOIS FIRMS

Factors Told in Monthly University Review

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 25 [Special]—The business outlook for Illinois is optimistic, said the current monthly business review of the University of Illinois bureau of economic and business research. It is edited by H. K. Allen, professor of economics.

"The reconversion of industry is making rapid progress in Illinois and inventories are being accumulated preparatory to the resumption of large scale civilian production," it said.

Financial Condition Strong

"A large majority of plants in Illinois have no physical reconversion problems because they will use the same production methods and make the same commodities in peace as they did during the war.

"Industry generally is in a strong financial condition and able to bear reconversion expenditures. In many fields knowledge of production methods has been substantially increased and managers are expected to operate their plants with increased efficiency."

The review said the labor supply is abundant, and the quality is expected to improve steadily as thousands of skilled workers are discharged from the army and navy.

Building Permits Climb

"Building permits thruout the state are increasing by leaps and bounds, but the issuance of a building permit does not immediately provide additional housing," it said. "Construction materials are in short supply and prices are high.

"A critical housing situation exists in practically every city and town. It is estimated that it will require at least five years before the housing situation is restored to a normal basis."

STRIKE EFFECT ON STEEL BUYING HELD UNCERTAIN

Cleveland, O., Nov. 25 (AP)—The extent to which steel products demand will be affected in the event of widespread strikes in the automotive and steel industries is uncertain, the magazine Steel said today.

"Relatively few order cancellations are expected unless work stoppages are prolonged," the trade publication reported. "In the case of the automotive consumers, who have faced the strike threat for weeks, it is understood preparations have been made to accept and store all the steel that mills can supply during the interruption, to assure sufficient for full production of vehicles after the strike ends.

"In the case of the [strike] threat to steel production consumers seek to obtain as good deliveries as possible now, before a strike occurs, if, indeed, it actually comes about."

LARGE EARNINGS HELD NECESSARY TO BELL SYSTEM

New York, Nov. 25 (AP)—The Bell telephone system needs to earn at least 6½ to 7 per cent on its total capital investment to attract from investors the large amounts of new capital required, Leroy A. Wilson, vice president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, said today.

Wilson predicted a possible new capital requirement of more than 2 billion dollars in the next decade, or nearly as much as in the last 25 years. He said that with high enough earnings the Bell system can improve its service, increase employment, pay higher wages, develop further ways of increasing the value of the service and in the long run continue to reduce its cost.

ADVISES QUICK ACTION TO BUILD EGYPTIAN TRADE

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

CAIRO, Egypt., Nov. 25—Understanding of local buying habits and desires is the key to America's economic success in the middle east, Amine Yousef Bey, Eyptian senator and former minister to Washington, said in an interview today. United States business firms should be represented here by Americans, he said, rather than by other nationalities who have no interest in either country.

"You must meet us half way," Yousef Bey continued, "and share the benefits of trade with us. Especially you must safeguard Egyptian industry." He also advised the United States to coöperate closely with the British, saying, "You have money and goods and Britain has knowledge and experience."

The strategic moment to capture the Egyptian market is now, he continued, because Egypt's purchasing power is at its peak after a wartime famine of imported manufactured goods and America's principal competitors have been eliminated by the war.

SCHENLEY SALES AND PROFIT RISE IN FISCAL YEAR

New York, Nov. 25 (AP)—Schenley Distillers corporation today said its output of alcohol for war purposes totaled 202 million proof gallons, or 14 per cent of all war alcohol produced by registered beverage distillers.

The company reported consolidated net income for the fiscal year ended Aug. 31 of $23,941,000, or $9.19 a common share, compared with $15,317,203, or $5.84 a share, the preceding year. Sales for the 1945 fiscal year reached a new high of $561,657,181, compared with $386,634,991.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

PARLEY STARTS FINAL WEEK IN CAPITAL TODAY

Fact Finding Board to Be Considered

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25 (AP)—Industry delegates tonight prepared to open the fourth and presumably final week of the labor-management conference tomorrow with consideration of a proposal for public findings of fact in labor disputes.

M. W. Clement

A spokesman for the National Association of Manufacturers said the plan will call for creation of disinterested fact finding commissions and a stay of strikes or lockouts for 50 days while the commissions investigate and report to the public.

Mosher Appeals for Results

The plan is being drafted by M. W. Clement, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, who will present it to the conference executive committee as a starting point for discussion.

Ira Mosher, president of the N. A. M., last night called on delegates to "renew our efforts, here and now," to bring about agreements quickly on voluntary arbitration, impartial fact finding machinery, jurisdictional disputes, and other aids to labor peace.

He said progress so far has been slow and attributed the delay to what he called labor's unwillingness to "substitute orderly procedure for its unlimited right to strike at any time and under any circumstances."

Split on Jurisdictional Issues

There was clear indication, however, that one conference subcommittee will break up in disagreement. The panel on jurisdictional disputes is expected to file two conflicting reports, one from labor and one from the management side, instead of joint recommendations.

This would not preclude the possibility that the executive committee might work out an acceptable solution, or that the conference in full session might find a way to curb interunion warfare.

Industry delegates—who agree that the problem is one for the labor delegation to work out within itself—were pessimistic that the AFL and CIO could arrive at a solution for interunion strife in the short time remaining.

The fact finding issue was one on which a subcommittee also failed to agree, but the executive committee itself took on the job.

FOLGER TO OPEN I.B.A. MEETING IN CHICAGO TODAY

John Clifford Folger, president of the Investment Bankers Association of America, will be the principal speaker today at the opening of the association's 34th annual convention in the Edgewater Beach hotel. Delegates registered at the hotel yesterday.

France's Rail Traffic Near Normal Level

BY JOHN THOMPSON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Nov. 25—France's transportation system is at approximately 90 per cent of its pre-war effectiveness and the absence of substantial production and not lack of transportation is hamstringing the French economy.

This was disclosed in a report prepared by American technicians sent here to learn the facts and submit recommendations. However, because of objections by the state department's "bright young" economists employed in the United States embassy, it is doubtful, THE TRIBUNE learned, whether the vital report and suggestions in their original form ever will reach the proper authorities in Washington. Technicians complain privately that foreign service economists are sabotaging their efforts.

Cars Adequate for Needs

The nationalized French railroad system has more than 300,000 frate cars, considered more than enough to handle the needs in 1946 and 1947. There are said to be 700,000 cars in the entire western European car pool. The French also have sufficient locomotives.

The labor force is said to be adequate and well organized. Coal for locomotives is reported to be sufficient.

Improvement in French railroad transportation is shown in car loading statistics. In the last week in January the total cars loaded was 78,000, of which 48 per cent was for the military. This had risen to 209,000 the last week of October, with only 9 per cent for military purposes. Weekly pre-war car loadings averaged 240,000.

Cars Mainly Carry Coal

Because French industrial production is small, the bulk of car loadings is used to bring coal from northern French mines, the Saar basin, and Germany. This coal will be used primarily to produce power, start production, and provide fuel for locomotives before it is made available for home heating.

The technicians said the one fault in the transportation system lies in the rerouting of ships to another harbor after cars have been spotted at the port where the ships were scheduled to arrive.

PENNSYLVANIA GLASS SAND

Please tell me what industries Pennsylvania Glass Sand corporation serves. What is its earnings record?—N. S.

About two-thirds of the company's large tonnage of silica and silica sand is sold to manufacturers of glass and ceramics, and the remainder to foundries, railroads, and other industries. Silica has diversified uses in the manufacture of china, sanitary ware, pottery, tile, electrical porcelain, ferro-silicon, abrasives, metal polish, and paint filler. It is a basic material of glass and silicate of soda used in soap and adhesives. Silica mold wash is employed in production of steel castings.

The company owns 6,600 acres of land and controls an additional 2,400 acres, and the management has estimated silica sand reserves as sufficient for more than 50 years. The operations are highly mechanized.

Earnings in the first nine months of 1945 were 88 cents a share on 321,860 common shares. For the full year 1944 the profit was $1.29 and in the four preceding years ranged from $1.42 to $1.98. The average for the five years ended with 1939 was about $1.18. Since 1939 the common dividend has been $1 yearly. Outstanding are 31,000 $5 cumulative preferred shares and a funded debt of 3 million dollars. Net working capital last Dec. 31 was $721,000.

Katy Road Orders Six Diesels for Terminal Use

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 25 [Special]—The Missouri-Kansas-Texas lines said today it had ordered six 1,000 horse power diesel switching locomotives at a cost of approximately $500,000 from the Electro-Motive division of General Motors corporation, La Grange, Ill. They will be placed in service in the railroad's Dallas terminal, replacing steam operations.

CURB ON WORK IMPROVEMENTS TERMED FUTILE

Fund Recalls Glass Union's Demise

The history of collective bargaining shows the futility and the short range attitude of restricting improved methods of work, the Twentieth Century Fund said yesterday. It said the glass industry provides an excellent example of this.

With the appearance of window glass blowing machines prior to World War I., the National Window Glass Workers' association forbade its members to work in any plant where it was installed.

Brings End of Association

"By 1927 there were more and better machines, but the National Window Glass Workers' association was no more, having literally forbidden its members out of jobs," the fund said.

"On the whole, unionism has not convinced any large segment of management of its eagerness for technological advance. This may require a change in attitude on the part of organized labor as great as the one should employers in general accept rather then oppose the spread of unionism."

The fund said American industrial experience clearly shows that new products, materials, and labor saving machinery can be introduced without much hardship to either labor or management if they coöperate.

Creates Need for Other Labor

Labor saving devices cut down employment in the auto industry, but other mechanisms were introduced which complicated car making and necessitated additional labor, the fund recalled. One apparently offset the other, because man hour productivity in 1938 was about the same as in 1929, it said.

The fund said the garment industry, in which sometimes 250 workers are involved in the making of one mans' suit, is an example of employer-employe coöperation on advancements. The unions have pledged not to oppose improvements if they help in planning them.

IN INDUSTRY, SCIENCE, RESEARCH

STEEPED in the tradition of man's agricultural strides—malt has long served as handmaiden to the diet of nations.

Nature produced barley and barley, in turn, gave us malt—miracle product—whose magic has transformed man's flight through space, increased his span of life, won his wars and filled his peace with health, comfort and pleasure. In foods, beer and other nutritive beverages ...or from smokeless powder to baby foods—MALT IS BASIC. It spans the entire range of man's life, progress, civilization. During nearly 80 years the Froedtert Grain & Malting Company has grown to top position in the production of malt because of its loyalty to perfection and its leadership in research.

Our reward has been the patronage, respect and endorsement of American industry. WATCH US GROW.

INVITATION FOR TENDERS

CHICAGO, BURLINGTON & QUINCY RAILROAD COMPANY GENERAL MORTGAGE 4% BONDS, DUE MARCH 1, 1958, AND FIRST AND REFUNDING MORTGAGE 4½% BONDS, SERIES B, DUE FEBRUARY 1, 1977.

Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Company (hereinafter called the Company) hereby invites Tenders of the above-described Bonds, subject to the terms and conditions herein stated, at the following prices:

GENERAL MORTGAGE 4% BONDS, at the price of $120 per $100 principal amount;

FIRST AND REFUNDING MORTGAGE 4½% BONDS, SERIES B, at the price of $123 per $100 principal amount.

In addition to the Tender Price, interest will be paid on the face amount of each Bond delivered pursuant to Tender acceptance, at the rate per annum provided in such Bond, to and including date of payment, but not later than December 31, 1945.

Certain holders of large amounts of said bonds are willing to sell them to the Company at the above prices and the Company desires to give all bond-holders the same opportunity, to the extent of funds available for the purpose. The Company does not expect to accept Tenders of more than $50,000,000 principal amount in the aggregate of said two issues, and if Bonds tendered exceed that aggregate principal amount, the Company reserves the right to accept Tenders pro rata, as nearly as possible, without preference between the two issues. In addition to the foregoing reservation, the Company also reserves the right, in its discretion, to accept or reject any or all Tenders, or to accept any portion of Bonds tendered and reject the balance.

Tenders pursuant to this Invitation are to be made, in duplicate, on forms to be furnished by the Railroad Company, and delivered to the Company by mail or messenger at Room 205, Burlington Building, 547 West Jackson Boulevard, Chicago 6, Illinois, in sealed envelopes marked "Tender," on or before 11:00 o'clock A. M., Central Standard time, December 10, 1945.

Tenders may be signed either by the owner of the Bonds, or by a Bank, Trust Company, or Member of a National Securities Exchange or Association. Any such Bank, Trust Company, or Exchange or Association Member, signing a Tender and delivering and accepting settlement for Bonds pursuant to an acceptance thereof, will be paid by the Company $2.50 per $1,000 principal amount of the Bonds so delivered.

Notices of acceptance of Tenders in whole or in part, or of rejection of Tenders, will be mailed not later than December 21, 1945, to the makers thereof at the addresses designated in their respective Tenders.

Delivery of all Bonds pursuant to such acceptance must be made during such period as shall be designated by the Company, the last day of which period will be not later than December 31, 1945. Notice of such delivery period will be given by the Company by letter or telegram to the respective addresses designated in the accepted Tenders.

Said deliveries must be made at the Office of the Company, Room 905, No. 2 Wall Street, New York 5, N. Y., where payment of the Tender Price specified in this Invitation will be made, together with interest as above provided. Coupon Bonds delivered must be accompanied by all appurtenant interest coupons maturing March 1, 1946, and thereafter, in the case of General Mortgage Bonds, and February 1, 1946, and thereafter, in the case of the First and Refunding Mortgage Series B Bonds. Coupon Bonds registered as to principal only must be accompanied by duly executed bond transfer powers, with signatures guaranteed, and Fully Registered Bonds must be duly endorsed for transfer, with signatures guaranteed.

The Company has applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to issue and sell, through competitive bidding, not to exceed $50,000,000 principal amount of a new series of First and Refunding Mortgage Bonds. Proceeds of the sale of the new Bonds will be used to purchase General Mortgage Bonds and First and Refunding Mortgage Bonds, Series B, through Tenders accepted on this Invitation. Bondholders tendering Bonds upon this Invitation are hereby notified that funds with which to pay the principal amount (not premiums or interest) on Bonds for which Tenders are accepted must be derived by the Company from said sale of new Bonds, and not otherwise. Acceptance of Tenders, in whole or in part, and purchase of Bonds pursuant thereto, are conditioned upon securing all necessary authority from the Interstate Commerce Commission for the issuance and sale of said new Bonds, and consummation of the sale thereof.

Requests for Tender Forms, and inquiries and correspondence regarding this Invitation, should be addressed to N. Stockhammer, Fiscal Agent of the Company, Room 905, No. 2 Wall Street, New York 5, N. Y., or to the undersigned, 547 West Jackson Boulevard, Chicago 6, Illinois.

WAR WEARY GIS GLAD TO RETURN TO FARM CHORES

Fort Sheridan Officials Reveal Trends

The World War I. song, "How Ya Gonna Keep Them Down on the Farm After The've Seen Paree," does not hold true today, officials of the Fort Sheridan separation center assert.

Maj. Harold W. Dunn, chief counsel for the center, said yesterday that the great majority of farmer service men who have been discharged at Fort Sheridan will return to the soil in Illinois, Wisconsin, and Michigan. The total of discharges at Fort Sheridan since the center was opened in July, 1944, has reached 187,018.

Want Quiet Life

"The speculation that the pre-war farmer who entered the service would be unable to settle down after the war is erroneous," Dunn said. "It's an actual fact that the men are anxiously looking forward to leading quiet lives again after Paris, Tokyo, and Berlin."

Primary influences in keeping the G.I. farmers at home seems to be the higher prices now obtained for crops and live stock and the desires of the regimented men to be their own bosses, Dunn said.

"Most Assured of Lot"

The percentage figures of soldiers returning to the farms have been "considerably higher" than army authorities expected, Dunn said. The discharged soldiers going back on the farm also seem to be "the happiest and most assured of the lot," he added.

Polls taken at Fort Sheridan since the beginning of the center show approximately 40 per cent of the service men will return to their former jobs, 35 per cent will look for new jobs because of skills gained while in the service, 5 per cent will enter civil service, and the remaining percentage is undecided or returning to school.

SOUGHT ON FRAUD CHARGES

Mrs. Beatrice Monohan, who operates the rooming house at 27 E. Ontario st., asked police yesterday to hunt for a man, about 35 years old, who disappeared after taking $20 and promising to deliver a consignment of sheets and pillowcases.

BENNY GOODMAN PRESENTS $5,000 TO HULL HOUSE

Benny Goodman, orchestra leader, remembered the place where he blew his first clarinet — Chicago's Hull House — yesterday as he appeared at the residence, 800 S. Halsted st., to present $5,000 toward a new music school.

There to greet him was Miss Mary Connelly, 80, Irish born maid of the late Jane Addams, founder of Hull House. Miss Connelly and the swing leader remembered together the times when Goodman, as a boy of 10, played his first clarinet in the Hull House Boys' band from 1919 to 1923 under the direction of James Sylvester, organizer of the band in 1907 and Goodman's first clarinet teacher.

Goodman's last visit to Hull House was in 1940. The donation, one of many he has made, was presented to Mrs. William J. Petersen, president of the board of trustees.

150 FOREST PARK CITIZENS URGE ROUTE CHANGE

A citizens' protective association was organized yesterday by 150 Forest Park taxpayers who protested that approximately 100 families would be displaced if the proposed Congress st. super-highway is routed north of a series of railroad tracks in the western suburb.

A committee of 10 was named to consult the Cook county officials in an effort to route the expressway thru an industrial district between Harlem and Beloit avs., south of the elevated and of the Chicago Great Western railroad tracks.

At the meeting, held in the Forest Park village hall, Leslie Hurwitz was named chairman and Margaret Wolf secretary of the committee. They will work with Fred C. Becker, president of the village board, and Edwin Hancock, village engineer, in presenting the protest.
